FOOD, TRANSPORT HIKE COST INDEX

(Times News Services)

OTTAWA — Led by increases in food and transportation charges, consumer prices in Canada increased last month in most categories of goods and services.

The consumer price index for February rose 0.6 points, from 130.3 to 130.9 points, based on 100 points for prices in 1961. The price index a year ago was 128.7.

The food index, rising four-fifths of 1 per cent, and transportation, by 1½ per cent, did most to push the over-all index. Housing increased by three-tenths of 1 per cent.

Higher prices for beef, fruit and vegetables were blamed for the increase in the food index, which, however, is almost 3 per cent lower than a year ago.

MLA Refutes NDP Charges

By BRUCE YEMEN and PETER McNELLY

Herb Capozzi (SC—Vancouver Centre) charged Thursday that Bob Williams (NDP — Vancouver East) "knowingly deceived the house" Wednesday in an attack on land deals involving Capozzi Enterprises Ltd.

But Capozzi himself was accused by Robert Strachan (NDP — Cowichan-Malahat) of "deliberately misleading" the legislature in his reply to Williams' charges.

Socred Shouts Drown Out MLA

Strachan's charge was made after a stormy scene in which Williams was frequently drowned out by government shouting in his effort to reply to Capozzi.

Capozzi was first to speak Thursday afternoon as debate was renewed on estimates for Highways Minister Wesley Black.

Capozzi said Williams had placed his father's (P. C. Capozzi) reputation in jeopardy by suggesting that no public bidding had taken place on the sale of two parcels of land in 1961 and 1963 at the Sicamous Junction on the Trans-Canada Highway at Highway 97.

He said Williams knew about, but did not mention Wednesday, the cabinet order of Oct. 24, 1961, which announced conclusion of sale for the first piece of land and listed five bidders for the property. This is when Williams misled the house, Capozzi said.

Capozzi Was High Bidder

Of the four main bids for the property, the one for $6,000 from Capozzi Enterprises Ltd. was $3,300 greater than the next largest amount.

"You might say he (my father) left $3,300 lying on the table," Capozzi said, but "there was not one single mention (from Williams) that this was public tender."

Referring to the second parcel which his family's company had bought in 1963 for $552.50, Capozzi said, "We put in a bid which was advertised and gazetted, and subsequently the offer was accepted.

"I have no shame in saying we have developed land. From the moment he (Capozzi's father) had any dollars in his pocket, he has attempted to purchase land and he has purchased land in the Okanagan."

Capozzi said he was young enough to withstand any attack from anyone, but his father is 82 whose "reputation for honesty and integrity can be matched by no one."

Referring to Second Sale

Williams was absent from the legislature during Capozzi's speech, because he was at the University of Victoria speaking to students.

When he tried to reply later in the afternoon, he could barely be heard over shouts from government benches. He said the cabinet order he referred to was the one regarding the second sale which added 50 feet to the Capozzi's property for $550.

Williams said the important thing was that the government had provided the extra 50 feet in order to turn the first lot into one large enough to be eligible for double-access needed by service stations.

Strachan said the B.C. Gazette notice on the $552 parcel did not refer to any proposed sale. It simply gave notice of closure of the property and listed the price.

Williams also said this, and added that it was the acquisition of the second piece of property which enabled the first to increase sharply in value for sale as a service station site.

The Capozzis sold both properties in August, 1963, two months after second piece had been acquired, to Texaco Canada Ltd. for $30,500.

After supply committee chairman Herb Bruch (SC — Esquimalt) repeatedly warned all MLAs to stop discussing the issue because the proper vote had been dealt with earlier, Highways Minister Black rose to make a statement.

"I really don't want to sit in this place," he said. "This place has become a scandal-mongering, dirty, rotten affair."

FORCED OUT
Turkish PM Quits

Times News Services

ANKARA — Faced with an ultimatum to quit or face a military takeover, Turkish Prime Minister Suleyman Demirel and his government today resigned.

Turkey has been rocked in recent months by the terrorist tactics of left-wing radicals pressing for the withdrawal of all U.S. forces from the country and attacking government policies. Similar student disorders brought an army coup in 1960.

ULTIMATUM

The ultimatum to Demirel came in a joint memorandum signed by Gen. Memduh Tagmac, chief of the general staff, and the commanders of the army, navy and air force. It was sent to President Cevdet Sunay and the chairman of both houses of the Turkish Parliament.

Troops took up positions in front of the state radio and television buildings. Witnesses said the troops first surrounded the Parliament Buildings and then were withdrawn. Parliament began its regularly scheduled session with a reading of the ultimatum as the deputies sat silent and stony-faced.

The joint memorandum was broadcast on Turkey Radio's second major news program of the day. The text said Demirel's government had brought Turkey to the "brink of civil strife and social and economic discontent" and had lost public confidence.

AIR FORCE ALERTED

Officials in Ankara said the air force had been alerted.

The left-wing radicals have battled right-wing students and police and kidnapped four American airmen a week ago Thursday, releasing them unharmed on Monday.

The leftists protested American policy in Vietnam and the presence of American troops at NATO bases in Turkey.

The number was trimmed from 23,000 to 7,000 in early 1970 and $40 million to $50 million in U.S. facilities donated to Turkey. But the anti-American outbursts continued.

UNREST

A rash of unrest spearheaded by student rioting led to an army coup on May 27, 1960, when a group led by Gen. Cemal Gursel overthrew the government of president Celal Bayar and premier Adnan Menderes.

Menderes was executed on charges of violation of the constitution, corruption, fomenting anti-government disturbances and misuse of power. Bayar was sentenced to prison.

DOCK PACT

OTTAWA (CP) — Tentative agreement has been reached on a 30-month contract for federal government dockyard workers in Halifax and Esquimalt, the treasury board announced today.

The agreement would cover some 3,000 workers in both cities.

Final acceptance of the terms is subject to ratification by members of the federal government dockyard trades and labor council.

A special ratification meeting is scheduled for Halifax Sunday afternoon at the Stadacona drill hall. A similar Sunday meeting is being arranged at Esquimalt.

S. Viet Forces Pull Back

SAIGON (CP)—South Vietnamese troops in Laos pulled out of their positions closest to Sepone today and moved southeast toward the South Vietnamese border, headquarters officers reported.

The officers said a regiment of infantry abandoned Fire Base Sofia, 2½ miles southeast of the key communications point 25 miles inside Laos, to avoid being trapped by North Vietnamese forces estimated at 30,000 men.

Sofia was the closest fixed base to Sepone set up by the South Vietnamese after they advanced to the devastated junction town on Route 9 last Saturday. No further advance westward has been reported; the Saigon troops have been sweeping for North Vietnamese forces and supply caches in the area and to the southeast along a front of about 25 miles.

Sepone was a main transshipment point on the Ho Chi Minh trail network through southeast Laos, and at the start of the South Vietnamese drive Feb. 8 it was reported to be the first major target of the drive.

EXPLAIN TACTICS

But the South Vietnamese said this week that they had not occupied Sepone because it was in a valley and therefore vulnerable to attack. Instead they sent reconnaissance units in and out of the deserted ruins all week while holding positions on the high ground.

North Vietnamese and pro-Communist Pathet Lao officials were quoted in Hanoi newspapers and broadcasts as saying the South Vietnamese never were in Sepone.

Earlier today, the South Vietnamese government produced a North Vietnamese defector who said that Hanoi has massed 30,000 combat and support troops around Sepone.

Government Expected To Match Home Bids

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government is expected at least to match the money offers of potential private buyers in purchasing control of Home Oil Co. Ltd. of Calgary.

The additional enticement in the government offer would be to give Home Oil President R. A. Brown a continued say in operation of the company. Government plans to bargain with Home were announced Thursday night by Energy Minister J. J. Greene.

Earlier negotiations for purchase by Northern and Central Gas Corp. of Toronto are understood to have foundered because Mr. Brown wanted to retain a voice in direction of the company.

Mr. Greene told the Commons today that "sensitive" negotiations for federal purchase of the company are continuing.

He would give no details of the federal offer, but did say shareholders would not suffer any loss in comparison to what might have been received from private companies.

Trading was suspended today on the Toronto and Montreal stock exchanges in shares of Home Oil and Cygnus Corp. Ltd., the company through which Home Oil president R. A. Brown controls the petroleum company.

Trading in Home Oil class A shares was also halted on the American stock exchange in New York. An announcement said trading was stopped pending clarification of the Ottawa announcement.

Suspension followed an announcement Thursday night confirming that the government is negotiating to purchase control of Home Oil. The government stepped in after the breakdown of negotiations between Mr. Brown and potential private Canadian buyers.

The government had been encouraging the sale to a Canadian firm in place of selling out to Ashland Oil Inc. of Kentucky.

Mr. Harkness asked Mr. Greene whether he could assure the House and thousands of Home Oil shareholders that the government's purchase offer was as favorable as Ashland's.

Mr. Greene said there would be no forced purchase. The government was attempting to find a position satisfactory to the vendor, Mr. Brown, he added.

'I Never Concealed Kidnap Role'—Rose

MONTREAL (CP) — Paul Rose told a jury today he "never concealed the fact that I took part in the kidnapping of Pierre Laporte," Quebec's labor minister who was slain last October.

"And I'm proud of it," he said in a summation to the 12-man jury.

But Rose did not admit to the cabinet minister's murder.

"The only thing I said was that I took part in the kidnapping."

"I don't speak of anything else because it's a question of solidarity. It involves every member of the FLQ."

Rose said the kidnapping "succeeded in shaking up the financiers, the exploiters and the dominators.

"If the same conditions occurred again, gentlemen of the jury, I am sure I would act in exactly the same way."

The trial continues.

MORE TROOPS SET FOR ULSTER DUTY

Times News Services

BELFAST — The threat of an escalated terrorist campaign by the outlawed Irish Republican Army has Britain ready to send up to 4,000 more troops to Northern Ireland.

There are already 8,250 men in Northern Ireland, who will be joined by police and military intelligence experts with orders to infiltrate IRA ranks, political sources said today.

A combined outcry of horror against the murder of three young Scottish soldiers was echoed in the British press with a call for an intensified battle against Ulster terrorists.

Home Secretary Reginald Maudling pledged in the House of Commons Thursday that the battle against the unnamed terrorists who murdered the soldiers will be "fought with the utmost vigor and determination."

Scotland Yard officers have joined Ulster security forces in the search for the assassins.

Off-duty troops in Belfast were confined to barracks on commanders' instructions. But the conviction grew among police, troops and the press that those responsible for the killings were hard-core IRA provisionals.

The bodies of the off-duty soldiers, two brothers aged 17 and 18 and another aged 23, were found in a lane on the outskirts of Belfast.

OIL HEARINGS IN VICTORIA?

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons environmental committee wants to go to Vancouver and Victoria later this month to conduct hearings on the proposed tanker route off British Columbia and Washington state.

Committee Chairman David Anderson (L—Esquimalt Saanich) served notice in the Commons of the committee request. It requires permission of the House to make the trip.

Faiths Unite in Protest March

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — About 7,000 Protestant and Roman Catholic shipyard workers marched together in rare unity today to demand tough government action against extremist gunmen.

The demonstrators staged an orderly march through the centre of Belfast carrying a petition denouncing the execution by terrorists of three British soldiers.

"All shades of opinion are on the march today," said a spokesman for the demonstrators from Belfast's Harland and Wolf shipyards. The shipyard, which employs 10,000 predominantly Protestant workers, has been the site of sectarian strife in past years.

The petition demanded the introduction of internment without trial and the re-arming of police in Northern Ireland.

Oil Lack Won't Freeze Patients

Patients in Sandringham Private Hospital won't freeze because of suspension of fuel oil deliveries, supervisor Mrs. Margaret Reynolds said today.

But she wouldn't say how the private hospital intends to provide heat following the decision by C. J. McDowell Plumbing and Heating to stop making deliveries.

"They won't freeze, one way or the other," she said.

Asked if the hospital has switched to a gas furnace, she replied, "We have an oil furnace at the moment, just an oil furnace."

She declined any further public comment.

Union spokesmen have said that a Vancouver equipment and maintenance firm came to Sandringham earlier, leading to speculation that either a switch was being made to gas or an alternative oil supply line.

10-DAY SUPPLY

The hospital's oil tank is understood to hold 10 days' supply and deliveries used to be made once a week.

Twenty-eight employees of the hospital, members of Local 1311 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, have been on strike for 23 weeks seeking a first contract.

With help from other trade unions in the area, picketing was extended last Monday from daylight hours only to around-the-clock. Fuel deliveries had been made in evening hours after pickets went home.

The union has said it is hoping the extended picketing will bring a break in the impasse. But Neil Cook, president of National Nursing Homes Ltd. of Vancouver, which manages Sandringham, said Thursday, "I've got nothing to offer them."

Employees were paid the provincial minimum of $1.50 an hour and sought scaled increases of up to 50 cents on top of this plus job security and other items.

'BEAR BLAME'

Msgr. Michael O'Connell of St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral, who tried to get negotiations started last December by visiting National Nursing Homes in Vancouver, said today the responsibility for any inconvenience the patients may suffer "is management's because they have refused to negotiate."

"Once a person refuses to talk they bear the consequences."

He said the only hope for a settlement, unless management becomes willing to negotiate, "is some action by the minister of labor or the minister of health services. I don't see any other hope at the moment."

A notice of motion has been filed in the B.C. legislature by Dave Barrett, Leader of the Opposition, asking the house labor committee to investigate the Sandringham strike and have power to call witnesses and examine financial records.

Oak Bay Social Credit MLA Dr. G. Scott Wallace said he will second the motion, but so far the motion has not been dealt with. Wallace has also called on Labor Minister Leslie Peterson to use his office to solve the strike.

Shadow Mischief

TV DOOR OPENS FOR CAPOZZI

The Social Credit Party doesn't waste time in garnering television time to air its defences against opposition attacks.

After Herb Capozzi (SC — Vancouver Centre) finished replying Thursday in the Legislature to charges about his family's land deals in the Okanagan, he started to walk past Premier Bennett's chair.

Bennett leaned over and told Capozzi: "Call Wasserman (Vancouver Sun columnist and CBC interviewer). Get on CBC and CHEK television."

Capozzi apparently didn't hear the premier's instructions the first time, for Bennett made the statement twice.

A few hours later, Capozzi took up a large segment of the Hourglass show on CBUT, with Jack Wasserman as interviewer. Capozzi denied at length the charges against his family.

Benson, Stanfield Exchange Barbs

By GERARD McNEIL

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Edgar Benson said Thursday night that Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield wants an election before economic conditions improve.

Each got the other's goat in a snarly Commons exchange about the prospects for the economy and how much it should be stimulated.

Mr. Benson admitted that unemployment is a great problem but said things have bottomed out and the big problem will be avoiding another round of inflation.

He defended the adequacy of a tax measure that would allow manufacturers a 115-per-cent tax write-off this year on investments in machinery and property, retroactive to Dec. 3.

The object is to get manufacturers to make investments in 1971 that were planned for 1972 as a stimulant that should create jobs.

Mr. Stanfield said it is inadequate, because investment forecasts for 1972 are dismal. Even if the incentive worked, it would have feeble results.

NEED TAX CUTS

He reiterated that tax cuts are needed to stimulate the economy and encourage expansion.

Mr. Benson replied that Mr. Stanfield has been criticizing the government for doing nothing and now is criticizing it for doing something.

"He has been running all over the country talking about an election in 1971," Mr. Benson added. "He has suggested that we have to call an election now because things are going to be very good in 1972.

"He does not want to see the economy move upward."

When Mr. Stanfield said he has no confidence in Mr. Benson's forecast, the sting finance minister said he had no more confidence in Mr. Stanfield now than "when he went into Deuterium of Canada Ltd."

Mr. Stanfield turned a deep red as Mr. Benson added that as Nova Scotia premier he had failed to create jobs and put the province into debt with the heavy water plant, still inoperative despite a cost that now is $115 million and still rising.

Also under debate was another one year extension of the three-per-cent surtax, initiated in 1968, on personal and corporate income taxes. Oza Tetrault (Creditiste—Villeneuve) said the government is despotic, taxing in the midst of poverty.

LAST EXCHANGE

Later, Mr. Stanfield and Mr. Benson had one last exchange as Eldon Woolliams (PC—Calgary North) asked the minister if there is any ceiling on the amount of tax to which the surcharge would apply.

Mr. Benson rose to say no when Mr. Stanfield put in gruffly: "No ceiling on taxes with this government."

The minister, momentarily at a loss for words, then replied: "You and I have had enough to say to each other tonight."

Pat Mahoney (L—Calgary South), Mr. Benson's parliamentary secretary, told John Burton (NDP—Regina East) the surtax will bring in an estimated $240 million this year.

The investment incentive write-off would apply to manufacturing and processing industries which undertake some $3 billion annually in capital investment.

FERRIES BACK TO NORMAL

Schedules were back to normal in the B.C. ferry system today after Thursday's storm which forced cancellation of eight across-the-Gulf sailings and two afternoon sailings of the smaller Mill Bay ferry.

At the height of Thursday's gale, winds averaged 50 miles an hour with the top gust of 69 miles an hour being registered at 1:45 p.m.

In the house Thursday, Ernie Hall (NDP—Surrey) asked why so many ferry sailings have been cancelled this year.

He was told by Highways Minister Wesley Black the ferry service now had a policy of cancelling sailings in rough weather as a safety measure.

A ferry official said today the decision to cancel is made by the terminal agents and individual captains. More cancellations had been made this year because of the unusual number of storms.

Mainland crossings in high winds are made difficult because of the large stretch-ferries' inability to manoeuvre when leaving the dock at the Tsawwassen terminal.

Chief weather officer Allan McQuarrie said Thursday's storm was the last of a current series.

Another system is expected to move in Saturday evening, bringing cloud and rain.

Rest Home Legal Status Ends Fight

Victoria council's approval Thursday of a community care facility at 914 St. Charles ended a two-year fight by the owner to obtain legal status for his rest home.

Council voted five to four in favor of the "community care" designation, which allows a limited amount of health care to be given boarders.

The home's owner, Gerald Dewhurst, told council at earlier meetings all he wanted was permission to allow staff to "help a man into a bathtub."

Opposition to the move was led by Ald. Hugh Ramsay, who lives on Cyril Close in the Rockland-St. Charles area.

Dewhurst told the last council meeting he was being discriminated against because two other licences had been granted in the area while his was refused.

Aldermen Christie, Pollen, Witt, and Baird voted in favor of Dewhurst Thursday, and Mayor Courtney Haddock's vote was needed to break the tie.

Dewhurst had explained that he was required to spend a large amount on bringing the home up to fire and inspection standards, yet was denied the community care licence.

Ramsay said he thought there was "ample incentive" to save large Rockland area homes by converting them to apartments, "and I don't think we need to get into full swing with community care facilities in this area."

Raising of Mortar Causes Harbor Stir

Bombs in the Inner Harbor near Fisherman's wharf?

Well, not quite, but Fisherman's wharf was gripped in a minor siege this morning when police and naval demolition experts pulled a 3½-foot-long anti-submarine mortar from the mud 15 feet below the surface.

As three destroyer-escorts returned from an exercise to nearby Esquimalt, Victoria police officers warned nearby residents to open their windows and doors in case it exploded.

Early their morning the navy tender, helped by the RCMP patrol boat Sidney from Ganges towed about 15 to 20 large fishboats away from their mooring in the vicinity of the bomb.

The bomb was found earlier this week by a diver investigating the bottoms of nearby boats.

FISHERMEN WATCH

Anxious fishermen, held back to a safe distance, watched as divers from the naval school at Colwood went to work.

A pulley on the wharf secured the bomb by one line. Another line gripped it from a pulley based ashore on a service truck.

Was it a dud?

CPO Bob Thompson and PO Jim Balmorth waited until the mortar was freed from its muddy tentacles.

There was relief when Balmorth confirmed that the bomb was harmless, one of those used during training practices.

Lt.-Cmdr. Arthur Rowse, commanding officer of the diving school, only lessened the security on this confirmation.

As he explajned: "These things weigh 420 pounds and if they're live, are packed with 328 pounds of TNT."

How did the bomb get there?

Harbor master Capt. Ron Newell was one of the many that watched the bomb retrieved today.

He explained that they're often dragged up from the bottom in fishermen's nets. "Whoever picked this one up probably figured it was too hot to handle and dumped it over the side."

He added: "Whoever it was, he's never going to admit it after this kefuffle. All he had to do at the time was report it."

He watched as the mortar was carefully stowed aboard the tender and taken out to sea where Rowse said it will be destroyed.

The incident was over — but another was starting for Rowse and his men.

As the tender nosed her way out of harbor, a diving crew was rushing to the Esquimalt heliport where Rowse reported a plane from the 442 Squadron, based at Comox, was bringing in another suspect bomb, found off the west coast of Vancouver Island.

SCs WANT TO SAVE ISLANDERS FROM VANCOUVER 'FLESHPOTS'; LATE NIGHT FERRY TORPEDOED

Victoria and Nanaimo should be served by late-night ferries on Fridays and Saturdays, Alex Macdonald (NDP — Vancouver East) said Thursday.

Macdonald told Highways Minister Wesley Black he had to speak up for Island residents who must pay for hotel rooms if they want to spend an evening in Vancouver.

"There's a need for something better than a 9 or 10 o'clock ferry," Macdonald said.

Government MLAs chided Macdonald for wanting to make it easier to get to Vancouver's "fleshpots." But Macdonald said he was talking about all kinds of entertainment available in Vancouver. NHL hockey, for example.

"These specials (ferry runs) would not cost very much, but they would help to end the isolation of Vancouver Island from the cultural and sports centre of the province," he said.

●

Black said the old midnight CPR steamship from Vancouver to Victoria never made money, and he doubted whether a new late-night run would profit.

John Tisdalle (SC — Saanich and the Islands) said more ferry service to the Island would only result in more unruly people like those who demonstrated at the opening of the session coming to Victoria.

Garde Gardom (L — Vancouver-Point Grey) asked Black to extend the expiry date of discount shipping tickets for feed from the mainland to Vancouver Island dairy farmers.

Gardom said milk production on the Island is more costly than on the mainland because of shipping costs. Black said he would consider extending the limit, but not as far as to the six months term Gardom had suggested.

●

Scott Wallace (SC — Oak Bay) said some form of precedence for Vancouver Island residents during the busy tourist season should be established, particularly for people on business trips.

William Hartley (NDP — Yale-Lillooet) said he was glad to see the highways department self-insurance program working so well with an average cost per vehicle of $24. Commerical insurance could run as high as $1,500 or $2,000 for some vehicles, he said.

He expressed hope that public insurance would also be made available to the motorists of B.C. at a great saving.

Black's highways estimates were approved at 4:30 p.m. They total $157,969,221.

'SCRAP SONG'

B.C.'s centennial song Go British Columbia should be scrapped and a contest held to find a new one, Garde Gardom (Vancouver-Point Grey) said Thursday.

He said several composers and musicians have told him it is a poor effort not befitting the centennial.

Government House Gets Solid Support

An NDP backbencher asked Thursday whether the government is considering abolishing the position of lieutenant-governor, and Provincial Secretary Wesley Black said the answer is no.

Appropriations for Government House and the lieutenant-governor come under Black's provincial secretary portfolio.

"Is any thought being given to retiring this vote and the gentleman in charge?" asked William Hartley (NDP—Yale-Lillooet).

"That's a very embarrassing question and I think it was intended to be that way," said Black.

Black said it is "obvious that the government supports Government House and will continue to do so."

MLA Urges Curb In Medicare Costs

The quality of medical care is bound to decline unless steps are taken to halt rising costs, Scott Wallace (SC — Oak Bay) said Thursday.

Wallace said the rate of increase in health costs will make them equal the gross national product by the year 2000 unless something is done. He said the keys to cost reductions are more emphasis on preventive medicine, elimination of duplication in services, more efficient use of laboratory facilities, use of medical assistants and extended paramedical services.

The Socred backbencher said he supported Dennis Cocke (NDP — New Westminster) and William Hartley (NDP — Yale-Lillooet) who earlier had called for more medical clinics to reduce costs.

Spend $70 Million

British Columbia will spend $70 million on medicare this year, of which 50 per cent comes from Ottawa.

Better use of lab facilities at Royal Jubilee Hospital, Wallace said, could increase productivity by two-thirds. But he emphasized he was not attacking existing staff for being inefficient or lazy.

The whole problem with laboratory work, he said, speaking personally, is that too many labs exist in B.C. and they run too many separate tests.

Fewer labs running more simultaneous tests would save a lot of money, Wallace said.

Wallace also criticized the government for reducing paramedical services. This is going to prove more costly in the long run in terms of care for the aged.

Osteopathic and chiropractic care to old people often keeps them mobile and out of rest homes which cost the government $15 a day.

Earlier in the session during debate of estimates for Health Minister Ralph Loffmark, Liberal Leader Pat McGeer charged that the University of British Columbia medical school allows too few candidates, 60 a year.

Wallace said he agreed with McGeer.

"In an age when medical personnel are in great demand, we are in fact turning away our own sons and daughters."

Wallace also said the training at UBC puts too much emphasis on specialization. The result is that graduates are not properly prepared for general practice.

"There is little doubt that the student leaving the medical school is not appropriately trained."

He said he was pleased that the government published doctors' incomes each year, and he noted wide discrepancies and "inequities" in the difference between the incomes for some specialists and most general practitioners.

Exorbitant Pay

Certain specialists, Wallace said, earn three to four times as much as general practitioners. He admitted their greater training and responsibility entitles them to more money, but not exorbitant amounts.

Most doctors, 85 per cent of them, are fairly paid, Wallace said. And he added that the average net income for Canadian doctors is $21,000 a year.

After Wallace spoke, Hartley said it is time laymen sat on the board of directors of the B.C. Medical Plan and the Medical Services Association.

Black said he agreed with about 95 per cent of what Wallace had to say, but didn't think Wallace had told the house anything that wasn't already well known.

Could Kill Plan

He repeated earlier statements to the effect that there is growing fear that mounting medical costs "could kill the whole thing" in medicare.

He said he is afraid that Ottawa may be planning some cutbacks in its share of the medicare scheme which comes up for review in 1973.

Responding to complaints about cutbacks in paramedical services, Black cited figures showing increased costs for such services in 1970 in spite of cutbacks covering half the year.

He said the costs are not shareable with the federal government and represent a heavy burden on B.C. taxpayers.

Cocke said the cutbacks in services such as physiotherapy, chiropractic and podiatry hit the older people of B.C. hardest. Ernie Hall (NDP — Surrey) said the cutbacks are especially hard on cerebral palsy patients who need weekly paramedical treatments.

COCKE
... wants clinics

Garde Gardom (L — Vancouver-Point Grey) and Hartley attacked the $300,000 the government grants to the Alcoholic Foundation of British Columbia as too little money.

Gardom said it is a "picayune" amount compared with the $60 million revenue from liquor sales the province receives. Hartley said the amount should be increased to $6 million. He said B.C. spends only 17 cents per capita for alcoholic rehabilitation, but the Canadian high is $1.85 per capita in the Northwest Territories.

Black's provincial secretary estimates of $98,876,844 were approved at 11 p.m.

Water Access Sought

The government introduced an amendment to the Land Registry Act Thursday which will require land developers to provide access roads to reservoirs, lakes, rivers and salt water bodies when they build subdivisions along the waterfront.

Introduced by Attorney-General Leslie Peterson, the amendment requires roads to be built at 660-foot intervals where subdivided land borders "the boundary of a strip of land established as the boundary of a water reservoir" or along natural boundaries of other bodies of water.

The act now provides that roads must be built only for subdivisions along navigable waterways.

In cases when more than one acre is being subdivided, the amendment requires roads to be built at 1,320-foot intervals.

The amendment also ends the possibility of acquiring land by squatters' rights.

Winner Named In Golden Gavel Preliminaries

Eric Bonham, 2106 Sutherland Road, was the winning speaker Thursday, in the second of three preliminary contests in the 1971 Golden Gavel speech competition.

Runner-up was Tom Scanlan, 2260 Malaview Avenue.

The competition is open to southern Vancouver Islanders over 18 with no more than 15 months speaking experience.

Organized by Toastmasters International, the competition finals will be held March 19, in St. John Ambulance Hall, 941 Pandora Avenue.

Indira and Stability

PRIME MINISTER INDIRA Gandhi has been given the substantial working majority for which she bid in the Indian parliamentary elections she called a year before the life of her government would normally have expired. This is at once a tremendous personal triumph for the 53-year-old daughter of Pandit Nehru, and a strong indication that India will move into an era of stabilized government directed along lines Mrs. Gandhi considers Socialistic.

Her purpose, as she defined it before the election, is to reform and restructure India's economic and social development policies. That effort will give little comfort to the right-wing elements of the wealthy free enterprise class — and even less to the princes, whom she has pledged to "de-recognize." At the same time, the result of the polling relieves her of any compromising dependence on the extreme left, represented in various Communist camps, both the Indian and those giving allegiance to the doctrines of Moscow and Peking.

Politically, the verdict of the voters removes a threat of disunity, unwilling compromise among disparate philosophies, and perhaps ultimate chaos as the many special groupings, strong in their separate regions, jockey for increased strength and a larger influence in the power structure.

Before the ballots were cast, Prime Minister Gandhi had been branded a dictator by her opponents. The strength of her majority is sufficient to make such a charge disturbing. It is, on the other hand, strong enough to permit her to progress democratically toward her objectives without the need for an authoritarian approach that might have been felt by someone insecurely in office.

Certainly the result is a clear indication to the opposing Congress group, which split away from the larger faction she led, that Indira Gandhi faces no substantial challenge from the dissidents.

Land reform, social uplift, education, an effort to relieve the subsistence-living of the poor are all concerns to which the returned prime minister has given her pledge. Her methods of approaching these objectives along socialistic lines, as she defines socialism, remain for the future to reveal. On the basis of the mandate given to her, however, she should be able to avoid being stampeded into premature action. The prospect, as viewed by outside observers at least, is for stability in a country and a continent that need it.

Why Not a One-Way Trip to Limbo?

THE NOW FAMILIAR STORY of Mr. Gaglardi's use of government aircraft is again before the Legislature. It was in 1968 that he, as minister of highways, was ousted from office because he authorized the use of a government plane by his daughter-in-law for a trip to Texas. It was one of a number of instances of Mr. Gaglardi's personalized approach to the use of government property — a grab-bag philosophy that anything goes for the insiders. It is not that Mr. Gaglardi is immoral but rather that he believes everything he does is moral.

This philosophy, which led to his removal from his cabinet post at that time, is again surfacing. It appears from the legislative report that he has again invited a member of his family on a ministerial trip — a minor event to be sure — but more important, he has been using the government's jet plane for another purpose which has long been a matter of criticism by legislators and public alike.

This concerns the inordinate number of trips which Mr. Gaglardi makes to his home town of Kamloops, particularly on weekends when he conducts services in his church. The official logs show that he used the aircraft 232 times in 1970. The nearest use by any other minister was only 62 times. All the other ministers combined totalled only 311 trips. Kamloops was his point of arrival or departure 63 times. As Mr. Nimsick, the NDP member for Kootenay, says: "I don't think for a minute he made 232 rides on government business and you don't either."

The whole matter may be considered picayune by some standards. But Mr. Gaglardi's contemptuous self-indulgence at the cost of taxpayers is not picayune. He sets a bad example for a holder of public office, one which can only indicate that anything goes for those in power, and that a smile and a cheery wave of the hand will get you a front-row position at the trough. That's not good enough for British Columbia's government. Why doesn't Mr. Bennett remedy this situation?

Can We Endure Knowledge?

THERE WILL BE REVOLUtionary times ahead as man's conception of his role changes in an effort to adapt to new knowledge and to the further questions which this knowledge generates. Next year a new space project will be launched by the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration: the object will be to investigate the planet Jupiter and then to proceed beyond Jupiter into deep space.

Little is known of this giant planet and the space craft that will make this amazing journey, called "Pioneer F," will take measurements and photographs of Jupiter in an effort to resolve its mysteries: the radiation belts which surround it, the composition of its atmosphere, its planetary magnetic fields, the interaction of Jupiter's moons, the nature of the Great Red Spot, and the source of the energy which causes the planet to give off more energy than it receives from the sun.

Beyond this planet Pioneer F will proceed to the fringes of our solar system, where it will encounter an environment in deep space which will be devoid of the influence of the sun. What new properties will the space craft discover as it enters interstellar space? When the craft has reached a point about one billion miles beyond the orbit of Jupiter contact with it is expected to be lost. The journey to Jupiter alone will take nearly two years.

If Pioneer F completes its mission — and there are considerable obstacles — man will be confronted with the fact that the instruments of his quest for knowledge will have penetrated beyond the domain of his own sun. We will have established, if only temporarily, an outpost in a part of the universe whose properties may differ radically from those with which we are familiar.

Thoughtful scientists are beginning to wonder not whether we can discover the truth but whether we can endure it. The journey of the American space craft could dramatize and heighten the problem.

B and B Anxieties in the Civil Service

THE miscellaneous estimates committee, which does not normally excite much attention, has opened an inquiry into one of the most sensitive areas of policy; the application of B and B principles to the public service. As anyone who mingles with Ottawa civil servants is aware, there is great concern not so much about the principles enunciated by Mr. Pearson in 1966 as about the manner and timing of implementation. Confusion compounds anxiety and despite periodic assurances, morale in the service seems lower than at any time in recent years.

Western

It has been obvious from the outset that the government's objectives can only be realized over time and at great public expense. (Mr. Drury declined even to estimate the cost of present programs). After all, the policy of gradualism is supposed to be carried out in a manner which will not lead to injustice or misunderstanding, or prejudice the careers of long service unilingual employees.

From a service standpoint, it is arguable that the pace ought now to be slowed at least until present problems have been solved and greater clarity achieved. This certainly is the view of some liberal numbers of civil servants. But the official view, as enunciated by Mr. Drury, the minister responsible for the organization of the public service and for personnel management, is the precise opposite, "Accelerate" was the verb which occurred over and over again in his statement at the beginning of the hearings.

The sense of urgency on the part of the federal government is understandable; it is a measure of ministerial concern over the unrest in Quebec which produced the FLQ crisis of last fall and has more recently pushed the Bourassa government in the direction of unilingualist policies. Bilingualism in the federal service is intended to remove old grievances; to make French Canadians feel at home in the national capital; to ensure equality of opportunity for people of both cultural groups.

Implicit in the third report of the B and B Commission, however, and in some government statements is another idea. This is that the two groups should be represented in the public service roughly in accordance with population. No doubt a general policy of bilingualism would tend in time to produce this result. In the North American environment there is greater pressure on French Canadians than on English Canadians to develop a bilingual capacity.

Rush to Impress Quebec

But the government cannot wait to impress Quebec with the benefits of federalism; it is anxious to achieve dramatic change in a relatively short time. This involves practical difficulties and has created much alarm in the public service.

Mr. Drury endorsed as government policy tentative targets for 1975 previously proposed by the Public Service Commission. His announcement followed by a few days a similar announcement with respect to the armed forces by Mr. Macdonald. Thus in the executive category the percentage of bilingual personnel, now 15 per cent, is to be raised to 60 per cent within four years.

The prospect of change on this scale and at this speed is almost bound to create apprehension in the service. Various assurances are offered — "hidden pressures" but there is a feeling, as the committee undoubtedly will discover, that earlier assurances have in some cases been infringed.

Some of the confusion results from the manner in which the policy of bilingualism blurs into a policy of biculturalism. A bilingual requirement bars no one with a command of both languages. It is an element of merit whether for an English or a French Canadian applicant. But words such as "anglophone" and "francophone" have crept into the discussion. While they have never been legally defined, it is clear from B and B usage that they have to do with culture. When Mr. Drury insists on "more active recruitment of francophones," as he did, it is clear that he has in mind not merely the linguistic balance but also the cultural balance in the civil service.

It is not, he explains a "question of setting up artificial quotas." This plainly would be in contravention of the merit system.

But it certainly required elucidation because it will appear to many civil servants or prospective applicants for the civil service a means of getting around the merit system.

The heaviest pressure for language training falls upon employees in middle and senior positions. This is considered necessary to enable subordinates to work in the language of their choice. But some, who may be exceptionally talented in other ways, are incapable of mastering another language. In general the new requirements are probably mastered more easily by younger employees but they are the people who complain of difficulty in securing language courses. The emphasis is on teaching old dogs new tricks. How successful the effort is it is difficult to say but the growls of the beneficiaries can be heard by anyone who associates with the troubled civil servants of Ottawa.

Attack on the My Lai Cover-Up

By Frank Mankiewicz and Tom Braden

IF Stanley Resor were not secretary of the army he would surely be a leader in another capacity, and in addition to his business he would, it is easy to imagine, take on other civic duties.

Stanley Resor, in other words, is a duty-honor-country man and that makes the case of Maj. Gen. Samuel W. Koster, another duty-honor-country man, the more troublesome. Why did Secretary Resor permit the Army to drop all charges against Gen. Koster who is guilty at least of crimes for which the American Army in the name of the American people once hanged a Japanese general named Yamashita?

Rep. Samuel Stratton (D.-N.Y.) says he doesn't "go for this Yamashita stuff." Says Stratton, "I've read all about Nuremberg, but I'm not a lawyer, and I don't want to argue about war crimes. All I want to know is why Gen. Koster covered up and why he was the least cooperative of all the witnesses before the Rep. F. E. Hebert committee investigating My Lai and why it appears that he did not tell the truth to our committee."

Supporter of Military

Sam Stratton is an all-out supporter of the military and the war. "I supported Johnson and I support Nixon and I think search-and-destroy missions are almost impossible to avoid, given the kind of war we are fighting.

"But there is a confusion in the minds of many people about what this My Lai situation is all about," Stratton said on the House floor the other day. "This is a case where a unit went into a village and searched it and encountered no resistance, and women, children and old people were herded up and searched; if they were hard-core Viet Cong or North Vietnamese soldiers the rule and policy of any civilized army would be to take them off to the stockade, but instead of that, while they were standing there, herded together, somebody came in with machine guns and simply shot them down. No army that is any good can tolerate such a thing, and that is why this My Lai case has come to trial."

And Sam Stratton also wants to know why Gen. Koster could "tolerate such a thing" and why Secretary Resor permitted the Army to drop all charges against him.

The Army says Secretary Resor had no authority to act in the decision to drop charges against Koster, that it would have been "undue influence" if he had, but that is palpable nonsense.

Stratton says that Koster "covered up." He cites facts which the Army has not denied: That Koster was in the air over My Lai on the day of the massacre; that he was informed of it; that he countermanded an order to investigate it, and that a report that Koster says he ordered "appears to be a figment of his imagination."

Stanley Resor, who is a civilian, might raise such a cry. He might restore the reputation of the United States Army.

True he would thus begin a process which might lead all the way to Army Chief of Staff William Westmoreland and would certainly provoke a good deal of possibly extraneous argument about the morality of war, and of this war in particular, and of "free fire zones."

But Sam Stratton isn't after that. He says, "There is a rule and policy of a civilized army and My Lai violated that rule and the United States Army is covering up the violation, and it will never be the same army until it restores its self-respect."

DENNIS THE MENACE

Looking Back

From the Times of March 12, 1911:

Washington, D.C. — Although no official here would accept the responsibility of being quoted, there is a growing sentiment that the next few hours will produced evelopments that will cause Japan to loom up as an important factor in the army and navy mobilization in the Mexican trouble zone.

What trend events are likely to take is unkhown, but the attitude of the attaches of the state and war departments indicates concern.

Visual Arts At Uvic

Recently four professors of the Department of Visual Arts at Uvic made public a letter condemning the Chairman, Mr. Norman Toynton, for several reasons which they considered valid. As a student concerned with the truth, I would like to answer some of these one-sided facts.

● The letter contained reference to statements allegedly made by Mr. Toynton at the "Snug."

There was a fine arts student present when this alleged statement was made. The student denies the implications attached to the remark for that remark was made by that student and Mr. Toynton merely laughed. Mr. Toynton's policies are not made at the "Snug."

● "Mr. Toynton has repeatedly told the students that their work was the worst that he had ever seen and has indicated to us that our teaching was responsible."

This statement contains much truth. If the professors are good they will inspire their students to turn out work which reflects the vitality of the teaching situation. With time and guidance their work will improve and will reflect their ideas as opposed to the ideas of their professors.

● "He has compounded these insults by bringing in guest artists to give lectures who also belittle the students' work. So far he has brought in five such artists — all personal friends."

★

The facts of this statement are that the department has had $4,000 a year for visitors. The staff has brought in a total of five visitors since 1967. This year Mr. Toynton has brought in a total of eight visitors. The staff has called this biased. Jack Pollack of the Pollack Gallery thought that the work was generally weak but the etching good. He purchased five etchings. Mr. Toynton had never before met Mr. Pollack.

Paul Van Hoydonk, a renowned Belgian painter came at a personal expense of one thousand dollars. This was because he was a friend of Mr. Toynton — he would not have come otherwise. Brian Wall, head of the Central School (London) sculpture department, visiting professor at Berkeley, considers the statement made by these four professors to be slanderous. He has a worldwide reputation as an artist and educator and the statements he made concerning the present standards of the department were based on his own professional integrity not on his friendship with the Chairman. (Wall is an examining member of the Summerson Committee—the judging board of all British art schools.) He came as a special favor to Mr. Toynton and made many practical suggestions. Alan Wood, head of Fine Art at Cardiff College of Art, visited the department at his own expense. He has a fine reputation as an art educator and is a well known practising artist in Europe. George Brecht was one of the first artists to exhibit in New York in the early 60s with Dine, Oldenberg, Rauchenberg, Johns, at the Rubin Gallery. He also studied with John Cage and worked with Alan Kaprow. Visitors expected are: Alan Kaprow, Dick Higgins, Harold Cohen, R. B. Kitaj, and Alan Jones. It is evident that Mr. Toynton knows artists of stature and can bring them to this university.

● Staff complained that they had no social contact with visitors.

It is the responsibility of staff, as hosts, to initiate social contact. Students have done so in the cases of Armajani, Wall, Sandle, Ascot, and Pollack. Mr. Toynton has repeatedly asked staff to attend lectures by visiting artists — they have seldom responded to this request.

● It is stated that Mr. Toynton offered only $25 to a distinguished Canadian visitor.

This visitor was being paid a full fee to visit another department. The $25 was offered as an additional honorarium.

● The letter claims that Mr. Toynton has refused to consult with other members of the staff on matters in which they are concerned, especially the forthcoming summer session.

Mr. Toynton stated at a meeting with students that he asked the staff to suggest people they would like to have teaching at summer school. He did not receive any suggestions and in order to draw up plans for the summer session he was forced to act on his own knowledge and experience.

● It is stated in the letter that Mr. Toynton removed a senior staff member from his office and that this office is now occupied by the secretary.

The secretary's contract calls for the secretary to have her own office. It is not Mr. Toynton's fault that space in the MacLaurin building is so limited. The staff member in question was given a private office in the Sedgewick Building.

★

It is obvious that the students have been given only one side of the total picture of the state of their department and that this action has been largely the responsibility of the Martlet, which instead of a free, unbiased account of the situation has presented and upheld only one side of this disagreement. It has failed to research the true facts of the matter and has been guilty of sensationalism. A vote of 28 to 1 in a department consisting of 114 students is hardly an indication of the feelings of the majority. I feel that as a student newspaper they failed in their duty as an honest medium for the student voice. — A. Poursafavi, 2nd year student

All Power to PM In 'Reform' Bill

By DALTON CAMP

The Trudeau government's reorganization bill represents an effort to reform the procedures of Parliament that is the perfect product of the executive mind.

One recognizes the imprimatur of the Prime Minister's elegant disdain for the parliamentary process; one also suspects it was drafted in the Prime Minister's office, principally by theorists whose knowledge of the political processes have been gained through such peripheral involvements as membership in the Governor-General's household and/or as contributors to Cite Libre.

You can only conclude, a little wistfully I'm afraid, that Canadian policy declarations these days have the ring of something between Papal Bulls and Executive Orders from the White House.

Which is not to say they are not clever, multi-purposed and formidable in both logic and authority. For if, in the disguise of reorganization, this recent proposal expands the power of the cabinet at the expense of its own caucus and of Parliament, we have gone yet another mile down the road toward the ultimate abandonment of the parliamentary system.

Certainly one of the achievements of the bill is the reduction of the number of parliamentary drones serving on the back benches. After all, there are titles, with pay increases, for some 90 MPs, all of them on the same side of the House. If nothing else, it is a means of increasing Parliamentary incomes without appearing to do so.

But, as well, it is a means of tighening the grasp of the Prime Minister on the loyalty of his followers by giving him patronage powers in Parliament beyond anything we have known. Or contemplated. So that the prime minister may now, as a consequence, enjoy a caucus of even greater docility — as he may now command the obedience, even the silence, of more than half of the majority of his supporters.

All of which places a further burden on the opposition members, whose time and opportunities to discharge their dutiful role in the system become considerably less.

I don't for a moment assume the country to be seized with the import of a mere measure that further muzzles parliamentary debate. When the prime minister declaims upon opposition "obstruction" in the corridors outside the House, we recognize the now familiar technique — what he says outside the House is obbligato for what he is doing inside the House.

□

And the Prime Minister knows, as he said the last time he was in the corridors, it is only "the newspapers, the opposition, the press (sic), the students, the professors" who are concerned about such esoterica. Numerically, a modest-sized constituency and, as he also knows, one whose disenchantment he can easily remedy when the time comes by resuming his role as the indispensable savior of Confederation.

He is heavily mandated by a majority who suspect Parliament, having endured the deep trauma of the past decade when the place became a cockpit, a majority deeply infected by presidential politics, and which includes in its numbers a heavy concentration of deep-breathing matrons and legions of conditioned consumers who habitually confuse packaging with content.

So saying, no man has ever had, in this country, a better opportunity to convert Parliament into a grist mill for government legislation. Obviously, the Prime Minister means to make the most of it.

And if so, we shall, one day, have a Parliament which any autocrat or despot would dream of, all in the name of reform, and all achieved in an atmosphere of heady indifference.

Parliament then will be quite a place, with roughly a third of its membership serving at the pleasure of the Prime Minister, perhaps another third awaiting his summons, and the remaining third seated in the outer darkness, muzzled by the strictures of time and menaced by the guillotine. What a time, indeed, for the rule of a tyrant. Or even for a prince.

Heavy Water Shortage Curbs A-Power

By JEFF CARRUTHERS

OTTAWA — The Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. may be forced to shut down temporarily three to five nuclear reactors in 1972-73 unless several hundred tons of precious heavy water can be found or manufactured by then.

An AECL spokesman said recently that Canada may be short as much as 750 tons of the exotic and expensive liquid by 1972.

Heavy water is an essential and, as it has turned out, a scarce and troublesome ingredient of the Canadian CANDU-type of nuclear reactor. The liquid is used to control the atomic fires and, in most versions of CANDU, to act as a circulating coolant and power-transferring material.

The two research reactors at AECL's Chalk River Research Laboratories north of Ottawa would be the first shut down if necessary.

Two electricity-producing plants (Nuclear Power Demonstration unit at Rolphton on the Ottawa River, producing 20,000 kilowatts of power, and the Douglas Point reactor on Lake Huron, producing 200,000 kilowatts) in Ontario, and a demonstration unit in Quebec (Gentilly, 250,000 kilowatts, which uses boiling regular water as a coolant) could also be affected for weeks, months or even years.

The plants, all now in operation, might have to be shut down to allow their heavy water to be used to start up the last two reactors at Pickering, near Toronto. The giant four-reactor nuclear complex at Pickering is now being assembled, to supply ultimately some 2,000 megawatts of power to the Ontario Hydro electric grid.

Each of the Pickering reactors require 500 tons of heavy water.

The first of the reactors was successfully started up a few weeks ago. The second is to be ready later this year. The third and fourth, the possible back-breakers for AECL, are scheduled for completion in 1972 and 1973.

The heavy water troubles are not new. They started several years ago when a Deuterium of Canada Ltd. heavy water plant at Glace Bay, N.S., which was supposed to be producing 200 tons of heavy water by 1966, was found to be inoperable as a result of sea water corrosion in processing pipes.

●

The federal government has just started a feasibility study to see how much it might cost AECL to take over the plant and put it back into production.

What is new, it would seem, is a fading optimism about finding heavy water elsewhere to tide Canada over the domestic production hump, which should occur about 1975.

In a desperate attempt to meet just current demands for heavy water, Canadian officials have scoured the world for heavy water in recent months. To date, AECL has purchased some 1,325 tons of the expensive liquid from the United States, 187 tons from Sweden, and 55 tons from Russia—all at $30 a pound, or $10 a pound more than it is supposed to cost to produce heavy water in Canada.

And now AECL reports there is no more heavy water to be found, at least in the foreseeable future.

The heavy water troubles, of course, are only part of the story of frustrations and failures which seem to have plagued Canada's nuclear program.

The latest blow was struck just this month with gloomy reports that Australia has chosen a British enriched uranium power reactor in preference to Canada's CANDU natural uranium-heavy water reactor.

An AECL spokesman explained that recent uranium finds in Australia are probably the reason for Australia's otherwise unexplainable switch away from CANDU.

The United Kingdom has reportedly offered to provide Australia with the technology to build a uranium enrichment plant. Such a facility would allow Australia to process and then sell enriched uranium at a higher price and profit than natural uranium. Japan is the most likely customer.

It should be noted that Japan has indicated interest in the building of an uranium enrichment plant in Canada.

And the seeming failure to make a sale in Australia does not improve the heavy water situation for Canada. An Australian plant would not require its 500 tons of heavy water until 1975, when Canada could provide it without difficulty.

By then, an existing heavy water plant run by Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd. at Port Hawkesbury, N.S., should be producing its maximum 400 tons per year.

And the 800-ton a year unit being built by AECL at Douglas Point, Ont., should also be in operation. Even without the Glace Bay, N.S., plant, Canada should be back in shape, with enough heavy water for domestic and international needs.

●

There is the additional hope that more economical heavy water production methods will have been brought into operation by 1975.

For example, scientists at Chalk River research laboratories are entering the second phase of a pilot test project involving a new method, called the "hydrogenamine exchange" process. It differs significantly from the current water-hydrogen-sulphide process.

The hydrogen-amine exchange process is designed to be set up adjacent to a large ammonia plant. It extracts deuterium (the heavy relative of hydrogen which combines with two oxygen atoms to produce water molecules) from the mixture of natural gas, water and air used to produce ammonia.

The main advantages of the new process, tests have shown, are lower production costs, lower danger to nearby residents from leaks and pollution, and lower power consumption.

The main disadvantages are that the plant must be associated with a large ammonia plant and lower production of heavy water. No new ammonia plants are being planned in Canada and a heavy water plant attached to the largest existing ammonia plant in Canada would produce only 50 to 100 tons per year.

AECL officials also admit the process is more suited to developing nations.

Despite indirect criticism of Canada's nuclear program in the first volume of the Lamontagne committee's final report on science policy in Canada (more direct criticism is expected in a few months in the second volume), AECL officials continue to maintain that the CANDU natural uranium-heavy water system is a success.

They point to the difficulties being experienced by other countries, the United States included, with other types of reactor systems.

Sex All-Purpose For the Asians

By DENNIS BLOODWORTH

SINGAPORE — A distinguished Singapore doctor of Chinese extraction has provoked much editorial uproar by telling 200 high school youngsters: "You have unfortunately been taught somewhere, somehow that sex is for love.

"Sex is for parenthood," he protests. "If there is any reason why a couple do not want a child at any particular time birth control should consist of self-control."

Dr. Gwee Ah Leng was hitting an exposed nerve when by implication he belittled the Pill and the rest of the paraphernalia of family planning in this Bonsai republic of less than 230 square miles, for it would be seeking parking space for three million instead of two million souls today but for birth control.

It is true that some wives suspicious of time-and-motion studies have shied away from a recent ministerial suggestion that they synchronise parturition with primary school entrance by arranging to bear their young in December, so that they will be promptly eligible for admission at the beginning of January six years later.

But otherwise Singapore leads Asia in the systematic fight against future generations, and sophisticated young women have started demanding sterilization after their first baby. Even the Communist terrorists in the jungles of neighbouring Malaysia carry Pills as well as pistols.

Score of Wives

However, there is an infinite variety of views on sex, love, marraige and parenthood in this region, and it is reported from Bangkok that General Vang Pao, the anti-Communist Meo guerrilla leader in Laos who is heavily patronized by the CIA, has married a score of wives and future mothers for purely strategic reasons. They are the daughters of hill-tribe chieftains whose loyalty he wishes to secure.

Paradoxically, the patriotic Vang Pao should win the approval of his enemies across the border in the Communist China province of Yunnan, where the Party has denounced the notion that decent young men and women can fall in love without regard for the fate of the State or the class war.

There is no such thing as individual love that transcends class, it warns severely. "To depart from the revolution and to pursue the idea that love is higher than anything is to help restore capitalism."

Family Planning

Everyone in Asia sees sex as the key to something different, it appears. For the with-it, it is fun, while for the squares it is love. For Dr. Gwee it is babies; for Vang Pao allies, and for Mao Tse-tung it is counter-revolution.

The Chinese are running their own family planning campaign (which includes the Pill of the 21 Remembrances), and girls under 25 and men under 28 are discouraged from marrying at all.

Yet there already appears to be a shortage of youth where youth should most naturally be found—in the universities.

A Simple Case of Frydolatry

By DOUGLAS FISHER

In the early '50s someone at Queen's University told me, half in mockery, of the philosophy professor's daughter and Northrop Frye.

After the girl finished high school, her parents felt she should go to college well away from Kingston and any campus chafing she might get over her father. Such a choice was made easier by the girl's ordinariness as a student. So she went to Toronto, to Victoria College.

★ ★ ★

The professor's resume of her sojourn at Victoria went like this.

When she came home after the first year we were quite disturbed. She would no longer go to church, she wasn't sure there was a God. She used a lot of jargon from psychology. We let this go. At least she seemed to be puzzled about life.

After the second year she was impossible, fiercely agnostic, argumentative, scornful of everything. Her poor mother was distraught.

In the third year she began to change again. She still didn't believe in God, but she occasionally mentioned some professors she admired, including an English professor called Frye. By the end of her third year, she chattered about everything, her mind popping around like a sparrow, and she mentioned Mr. Frye a lot.

★ ★ ★

Then, at graduation, we found that she had worked it all out. She believed in God again. The world was wonderful. Mr. Frye was God.

It's many years since I became, like that girl, a Frydolator. Occasionally I've wondered why this brilliant teacher and wise man has not had wide popular recognition, why his social influence has been less than, say, Frank Underhill the historian or Marshall McLuhan, like Mr. Frye, also a professor of English.

Mr. McLuhan is, comparately, an obscurantist as writer and teacher. Mr. Underhill has rolled steadily from pamphleteering radical, a Mel Watkins of the '30s, into a milder and sweeter apotheosis as the grand old man of large-L Canadian Liberalism and continentalism.

The easy answer for the brighter haloes of Mr. Underhill and Mr. McLuhan is that each got into a pop kind of running commentary on society and politics. The social scientist who explains its changing patterns has become society's sage.

The professor of English, especially one who burrows in poetry and epics and evolves a complex method of literary analysis, is off the mainstream unless he chooses to swim out into it wearing some gaudy suit.

Mr. Frye's manner almost asserts a refusal of color and flair: The measured walk, the impassive face, only the eyes and the thin lips moving, the careful voice issuing effortlessly from back in the upper mouth. Surely there's not a professor anywhere less theatrical.

★ ★ ★

These opinions of Northrop Frye come from a recent Evening with Northrop Frye at the University of Toronto, a student of Mr. Frye's, John Sian, presented a half-hour film, Fearful Symmetry; this was followed by a discussion and questioning of the subject and the producer.

The audience was not a specialized one, not English Lang-and-Litty. The interchanges were weak, largely, I think, because of a diffident hesitation to seem to match themselves with Mr. Frye.

An audience senses quickly from a few paragraphs of Frye-talk that he is a great scholar. Its awe is not eased by his shyness. He is not awkwardly modest; he just won't let performance intrude on content.

Of course, this was Mr. Frye, the lecturer. Mr. Frye, the author, has been more prolific than most professors, much like Mr. Underhill and Mr. McLuhan. His books range in difficulty from hard (Anatomy Of Criticism) to easy (The Modern Century).

Why is he so much the mentor of highly-educated and literature-centred Canadians? I come up with glib responses.

Because he gives insights, not answers. Because he works from such a grand range of literature the ordinary reader is intimidated by the erudition. Then I have to recognize that Mr. Frye does give answers (and not narrowly his own) on many themes.

★ ★ ★

As for book-hopping erudition, he's no more bent to it than Mr. McLuhan. And unlike Mr. McLuhan, he prizes continuity and coherence in developing themes.

Another Frydolator, a professor at the University of Western Ontario, has told me that he believes that on the level of world recognition, such as given to Albert Einstein or Arnold Toynbee or Bertrand Russell, it is coming to Mr. Frye slowly but steadily.

It was this simple idea, human nature as a constant; you and me as intrinsically the same as those who denied and forsook Christ, which I first wrestled with as a freshman in a Frye lecture.

I wasn't consciously aware of it but I had entered university believing in such conventional wisdom as: Human perfectibility; the idea that man could create a Utopia here; that the history of mankind was the history of progress, that the art and creativity of each generation exeeds in quality that which went before.

All this is irrationality, but I didn't know it until the clarity of Mr. Frye's exposition persuaded me.

★ ★ ★

The film about Mr. Frye is modern — a lot of split-screen, electronic sound, shots in boutiques, in urban wastelands, Vietnam, Martin Luther King, Allen Ginsberg, etc.

It seemed cliche material, compared to the voice of the teacher. But it is such films, the popularizing and promotional work of disciples, the Frydolators, which may bring more and more people to read or listen to him.

The intuition I had again the other night was an old one: That I had just heard and watched the one person of authentic genius I was certain about without ever having to check whether others older or wiser or smarter said it was so.

We'll be singing his praise 20 years from now: "There was a giant in our midst . . . etc." Further, he's been influencing our writers, especially the poets, for a long time.

Then he's neither a fetish Canadian nationalist nor pussy footing along under a sense of inferiority to the Americans. In this sense he is not "in synch."

And he won't fiddle, full of awe, with gimcrickery on technological change and the march of science. He knows human nature is a constant.

B.C. Fruit Market Undermined by Imports

Low-priced fruits from California, Australia and South Africa are undermining parts of the British Columbia market, the legislature's agricultural committee was told Thursday.

Representatives of Western Food Processors Association told the committee lower production costs, lower tariffs and the necessity to find new markets have led fruit producers to invade B.C. markets.

Association President Douglas Kitson told the committee B.C. apricots, Bartlett pears and peaches cannot compete with imported products. Kitson said Australia has deliberately been setting lower prices for peaches in an effort to gain a foothold in B.C. — and elsewhere — because of Great Britain's imminent entry to the European Common Market.

Low-priced apricots from South Africa, and cheaper pears from California are coming into B.C.

HIGH TARIFFS

Kitson said part of the problem is due to high tariffs in the United States which make it uneconomical to export canned B.C. fruits such as plums. Yet the federal government allows U.S. fruit into Canada at a 10 per cent duty compared to a 30 per cent duty in the U.S.

In response to a question from Allan Williams (L. — West Vancouver-Howe Sound), W. S. Deacon, president of Berryland Canning Company in Haney, said he would not favor strong import restrictions on U.S. fruit.

Deacon said competition is a good way to indicate to B.C. fruit processors and growers which areas they ought to produce in.

For example, the association noted that raspberry exports to the U.S. have been good in recent years due to shortages of the fruit in the south.

The association denied B.C. fruit processors and growers make large profits. They said profit margins are a maximum of one and one-half per cent, whereas the average for all Canadian manufacturers is 4.1 per cent according to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

An important factor in retail food costs, the association said, is the cost of packaging.

Based upon 1968 reported profits from five Canadian packaging companies, the ratio of profit to sales was between 4.7 per cent and 7.

Another problem in the fruit industry is failure to meet contracts by cash-hungry farmers who sell their products to small operators after contracting to larger companies.

Pre-Marital Sex Backed

LONDON (UPI) — Former Archbishop of Canterbury, Geoffry Fisher, Thursday said there was "a good deal to be said" for premarital sex.

In a book of essays published today entitled "Touching on Christian Truth," the 83-year-old former primate of England recommended a revival of the ceremony of betrothal, a morally but not legally binding contract to marry, which would allow for engagement "with a practical meaning."

"There are some young people today for whom, for many good reasons, marriage is not an immediate possibility," Lord Fisher said.

"If they come to feel that to anticipate marriage is not necessarily blameworthy, but is called for as part of their committal of themselves to one another, there might be a good deal to be said for the revival of betrothal as a real and significant social and religious custom, with a practical meaning," he said.

Stray Feathers

By HAROLD HOSFORD

A steaming plate of ham 'n eggs was well on its way to oblivion when a sight outside the dining room window caught my eye. The dining room in this case was on the Queen of Victoria; the sight, 13 cormorants flying in line astern.

The Queen, and the cormorants, and I for that matter, were all somewhere off Beaver Point in Swanson Channel.

Outward bound from Swartz Bay with a load of pig iron and people destined for that fleshpot of the east — Tsawwassen, the Queen of Victoria was ploughing through the grey dawn of a misty March morning. So were the cormorants.

Really nothing about this scene to draw a Hosford away from his victuals yet if my limited knowledge of converging lines was correct, that line of cormorants was soon to be intersected, somewhere about bird 6 or 7 in the line, by the pug-nosed bow of the Queen. So, breakfast forgotten, I watched.

CRASH COMING

The birds were pelagic cormorants. A touch of white astern in an otherwise dark body, told me that much. And they were making good headway against a strong south-east wind.

But were they making enough head? Not by my calculations. A collision seemed unavoidable.

The cormorants plodded on, narrowing the gap between their leader and the Queen's bow and apparently oblivious to the leviathan bearing down on them. Just when all seemed lost and the first bird was almost in the bow spray, their line broke and the cormorants dropped away, narrowly avoiding disaster.

But they had not given up. Quickly regrouping, the cormorants resumed their steady progress, once more across our bow. Again, when collision seemed unavoidable, the line broke and they veered off.

These cormorants were apparently from the old "try, try again" school for hardly had they lost one bout with the wind than they were ready for another.

Five times they tried. Five times they failed.

Needless to say, any diabolical anticipation I had of a possible cormorant catastrophe went for nought. On the sixth try they won and soon left the Queen and me far behind.

Those cormorants weren't the only birds about on that sombre grey day. Despite the weather, and without binoculars, it was possible to identify a dozen or more kinds without difficulty.

Prominent, of course, were the gulls — "sea" gulls as most folks call them. Prominent among the "sea" gulls floating above our stern were the large glaucous-winged gulls, the ones with the plain silvery grey back and wings. Probably the most common gull in these waters.

Occasionally, smaller, slightly darker gulls, with patches of black near the tips of their wings, could be seen in the general melee. These were mew gulls.

Gull identification would be simple if there were only these two to look for. The issue can get very confusing when 3 or 4 more species are added to the list of gulls you might see from the ferry — all with varying amounts of grey or black on their wings.

Add to these, gulls in bewildering immature plumages — some take up to 4 years to reach their immaculate adult plumage — and it's no wonder people just let it go at "sea" gulls.

SHORT FLIGHT

But back to the birds that day. Off Prevost Island, entering Trincomali Channel, the ferry roused a flock of dark birds with white wing patches — white-winged scoters — which flew about a hundred yards before pitching back into the rough waters.

The tidal eddies and swirls at the entrance to Active Pass were alive with birds. Many were western grebes, identified by their long thin black and white necks but the blasts of the Queen's horn sent a vast concentration of ducks into a wild melee of flight.

Most of them were scaup which circled briefly before settling back onto Village Bay. Others showing more black and white — red-breasted mergansers — didn't relax quite so quickly. They rose into the wind, then turning with it in their backs, raced north up the Tricomali and disappeared in the mist.

EAGLES APPEAR

Around Helen Point, and certain that no Soviet freighters lay in wait for us, I turned again to birds. This time it was the dark silhouette of great wings soaring in and out of the mists above Mount Galiano.

Eagles — probably bald eagles — rode the currents and updrafts along the north side of the Pass.

We were rounding Mary Anne Point when another six soared into view, low enough this time for white heads and tails to confirm my earlier guess.

Now the Queen of Esquimalt got into the act. As she passed, with her retinue of gulls, a great commotion broke out on the waters between us as more pelagic cormorants, common loons and murres, scaup, goldeneyes and murrelets pattered over the water trying to get airborne to escape the sudden intrusion.

The loons were the least successful, floundering for a few yards before resorting to diving. The murrelets too seemed to feel ill at ease in the air. After hurtling low over the water for a hundred yards or so, they landed with a splash, only to dive almost immediately.

But my relaxing bird watching interlude was near an end. As the bleak grey waters of Georgia Strait hove into view and the Queen of Victoria began to react to the swell, I was suddenly and uncomfortably reminded of my land-lubber heritage.

Not even six more bald eagles over Georgina Light could rouse me from the sullen stupor that now engulfed me.

Ham 'n eggs — ugh!

Sharp Drop Recorded In Housing Starts

A sharp drop in Greater Victoria new housing starts during January brought the B.C. total down 16 per cent, reports Central Mortgage and Housing Corp.

Most other centres in the B.C. district reported static or little changed housing starts for the first month of 1971, although Vancouver improved by 60 units to 1,010.

Victoria, including surrounding municipalities and unorganized areas, had only 208 new units of which 147 were in the city proper. The figure compares with 525 new starts a year earlier.

As a result, the regional total fell from 1,505 units to 1,264 in January.

In the same month, there were 231 completions, against 271 units finished in the metro Victoria area a year ago, leaving 1,477 still under construction compared with 2,472 in January 1970.

Of the 208 Victoria starts, 171 were row houses, apartments or other multiple dwelling units, 146 in the city proper, while 37 were single, semi-detached or duplex construction.

A year ago there were 452 multiple units vs 73 single family dwellings.

There was a slight drop in the number of units completed but unoccupied in Victoria in January — 268 apartments and row houses (280 last year), and 142 housed and duplexes (155).

Welfare Burden

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. government says seven of the 20 largest American cities have more than one resident in 10 on welfare roles. Boston leads the list with 15.3 per cent of its population receiving public assistance and New York is second with 13.4 per cent. Baltimore had 12.8 per cent, St. Louis 12.5, San Fransicso 11.7 ,and Philadelphia and Newark 11.5.

Carrier Found

COQUITLAM (CP) — Riverview Mental Hospital officials said they have found the carrier and think they have halted a dysentry outbreak which affected at least four patients.

'Indians Get Lumps'

SASKATOON (CP) — Only a small amount of the money budgeted for Indian aid ever reaches them, David Ahenakew chief of the Federation of Saskatchewan Indians, said here. Administration and salary costs will be deducted, he said, from the $260 million allotted by Ottawa for Indians this year. "They take the cream of all those millions and we just get the lumps."

Land Title Sought

CALGARY (CP) — A committee of government and Indian officials is studying a request by the Ermineskin Indian Band to receive title to the wilderness land they occupy.

Chief Robert Smallboy led the band of Crees into the Kootenay Plains area, 150 miles southwest of Edmonton, three years ago to escape civilization.

Chief Smallboy's request for title to the provincially-controlled land said they will not "pollute" it in any way.

Study Announced

SASKATOON (CP) — A $400,000 contract to the Saskatchewan Research Council to study techniques for moving bulk commodities by pipeline was announced today.

The announcement was made jointly by the Canadian Transport Commission and J. C. McIsaac, Saskatchewan minister responsible for the council.

It said the council will conduct a three-year investigation into the problems of carrying potash, iron ore, coal and sulphur in pipelines filled with water or petroleum.

Strike Vote Asked

CALGARY (CP) —Public school teachers voted Thursday night to apply to the Alberta department of labor for a government-supervised strike vote.

The announcement came after a meeting of more than 2,000 teachers and a spokesman said a strike vote likely will be held March 23.

The city's 3,500 public school teachers have been working without a contract since Dec. 31.

Policies Queried

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta property rights policies are "based on a false premise — that game is a free food and there is no production cost involved," the Western Stock Growers' Association said in a brief to the cabinet. The brief said costs to farmers from feeding and housing game, and allowing hunters on to their land are ignored.

More Judges Sought

EDMONTON (CP) — The federal government has been asked to increase the number of judges on the Alberta Supreme Court, Attorney-General Edgar Gerhart told the legislature Thursday. He said the bid was put in several months ago to help the court deal with an increasing workload.

Skipper Fined

VANCOUVER (CP) — A $1,000 fine was ordered Thursday for an oil spill last month into Burrard Inlet at nearby Port Moody.

Dimitrios Colios, captain of the Liberian freighter Dona Mari, pleaded guilty to allowing the oil to escape. The case was heard at Provincial Court in Port Moody.

Harbor authorities estimated the spill at about 4,500 gallons, and the skipper was charged under the Canada Shipping Act.

Not 'Reality' If Dockmen Win Parity Demand

OTTAWA (CP) — Treasury Board President C. M. Drury said Thursday the government would have to ignore the "reality of life in Canada" to bow to demands by dockyard workers on strike in Halifax for the same pay as received by their West Coast Counterparts.

Appearing before the Commons miscellaneous estimates committee, Mr. Drury told Rod Thompson (NDP — Battleford-Kindersley) government programs are intended to promote greater economic equality among different parts of the country.

Still, he said, the reality of life for a vast majority of Canadians is that they do not receive equal pay for equal work in different regions.

The government, he said, "is seeking to recognize this fact" in the pay offer it has made to the Halifax workers.

The 1,700 east coast workers have been on strike since Sunday. The 1,200 Esquimalt men are scheduled to join them Monday.

The difference in the tradesmen wages the government has been paying to the two groups of workers is 85 cents and would be increased to $1.15 by the contract terms the government has offered by the end of this year.

Halifax tradesmen employed by the government have been paid $3.31 and the rate would rise to $3.85 under the contract offer. Privately-employed workers in the same area now earn an average $3.30 and will reach $3.60 in November, the government estimates.

On the West Coast, government rates of $4.15 are to go to $5 an hour by the end of the year. A treasury board spokesman has said there is no one group of privately employed workers in the area whose rates can be compared with the Esquimalt employees.

B.C. Bank Keeps Firm Canadian

Keeping Johnston Terminals and Storage Ltd. B.C.-owned was facilitated largely by the Bank of B.C., its president-to-be said today.

James M. Methven, a director, vice-president and general manager of the company about to be bought by an Vancouver group, said the bank had done "a tremendous job" in providing term financing for his group.

He noted one of the reasons the Bank of B.C. was organized was to be of special assistance to provincially-based business and industry.

"They deserve all the credit they get," Methven said.

Johnston directors rejected a takeover bid from the B.C. subsidiary of a large Chicago-based transportation company and accepted an offer for the outstanding shares by the local group.

CONTROL EXPECTED

Methven said the new group, consisting of himself, eight other members of the company's management, and Cornat Industries Ltd., expects within 30 days to get 90 per cent of the outstanding common shares at their offered price of $12.50 cash, $2 more than offered by Procor (B.C.) Ltd., wholly-owned by the Trans Union company of Chicago.

Johnston directors said they would tender all their shares to the group, and recommend the offer be accepted by the other common shareholders. There are 597,046 shares outstanding, plus an issue of second preferred shares which the group offers to redeem at $8.

For purposes of the transaction, the management group and Cornat formed a holding company, Western Transport Ltd., of which Methven is president. Interest is about equally divided, and when the share transfer is completed, voting control will be with the management group.

Methven said ownership would be 100 per cent B.C., almost entirely in the hands of Vancouver people.

Tug Firm Files Writs Over Outfall

Island Tug and Barge Ltd. has filed writs in Vancouver Supreme Court claiming $136,000 against Macaulay Point outfall contractors Ratzlaffe, Poole and Archibald.

The Capital Regional District is named both as plaintiff and defendant.

The shipping company said the money is owing for its work as subcontractor in towing the outfall pipe to sea and lowering it to the ocean bed last September.

The contract price was $495,000.

Inspections since the pipe-laying have shown that 200 feet of diffuser is missing from the end of the 1,600-foot outfall.

In the suit, which names the district as a joint defendant with the outfall contractors, an injunction is asked to prevent the district from making any further payments to Ratzlaffe, Poole and Archibald. The suit has been launched under the Mechanics Lien Act.

It also asks for an injunction to stop the contractors from spending any of the money already paid to them by the district.

In another writ, issued under the Labor and Materials Act, the district is named as joint plaintiff against the contractor and the bonding company.

In this writ both the outfall contractors and the bonding company are asked to pay the $136,000 in question.

C. S. Hopkins, lawyer for Island Tug and Barge, said Thursday in Vancouver the legal cases will not affect the district's right to use the outfall if it wishes.

No date has been set for the hearing.

Canada Steamship

Earnings of Canada Steamship Lines Ltd. last year rose 7 per cent, despite difficulties encountered by others in shipbuilding and transportation industries.

The Montreal-based company reports gross revenue from its shipping and shipyard undertakings amounted to $144 million, down $22.84 million due to fewer shipyard deliveries that offset improved water and land transport income.

Capital spending fell from $13.67 million in 1969 to $5.95 million, working capital rose from $13.4 million to $26.23 million, and net earnings went from $8 million to $8.65 million ($2.70 vs. $2.50 a share).

Backlog of shipbuilding orders amounts to $40 million with another $60 million expected to be awarded soon.

Zellers

Zeller's Limited reports record net earnings of $7.85 million or 59 cents a common share for the fiscal year ended Jan. 31, an 11 per cent increase over the previous year's net earnings of $6.82 million or 53 cents a share.

Sales for the period were a record $176.6 million compared with $157.6 million the previous year.

Western Pacific

Western Pacific Products and Crude Oil Pipelines Ltd. report net earnings for the year ended Dec. 31, of $2.5 million or 38 cents per share, compared with $2.22 million or 33 cents per share in 1969.

The company said its earnings include an extraordinary item of profit from "the sale of a portion of its interest in certain oil and gas permits." Excluding this, the company's net profit was $2.2 million.

R. L. Crain

Net earnings of $1.46 million (66 cents a share) in 1970 compared with $1.39 million (80 cents) in 1969, despite higher revenues, reports R. L. Crain Ltd.

Manufacturing, selling and administrative expenses — including a rise in director's fees — went from $18.65 million to just over $20 million while revenue increased from $21.57 million to $22.65 million.

Retained eranings at year-end (Dec. 31) amounted to $8.2 million vs. $7.75 million.

Great West

Great West International Equities Ltd., of Calgary, reports a net loss of $659,437 or 10.3 cents a share for its 1970 operations compared with earnings of $1.27 million or 20 cents a share a year earlier.

Revenue dropped from $29.44 million to $26.94 million, but before-tax income was higher by $800,000 at $3 million. An extraordinary item, a $2.49 million write-off for investment in Inter Access Corp., of Palo Alto, Calif., produced the loss. Interest in the firm has been terminated.

Cash flow per share amounted to 56.3 cents compared with 40.7 cents in 1969.

Gulf Oil

Gulf Oil Canada Ltd.'s new Strachan gas plant near Rocky Mountain House, Alta., has been put on stream, the company reports.

With a daily raw gas capacity of 250 million cubic feet, the plant will produce as much as 200 million feet a day of residue gas, 5,430 bbls. of condensates and 830 tons of sulphur.

It is among the first of a series of new gas plants and expansions totalling more than a dozen due for completion this year in western Canada as domestic and import natural gas demands rise an expected 20 per cent.

Gulf shares interest in the plant with three other companies.

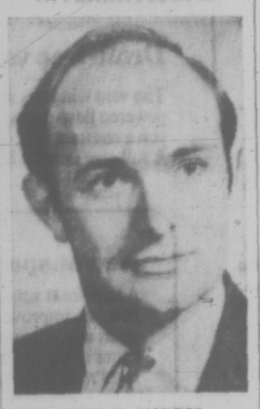
GROSVENOR INTERNATIONAL



JOHN E. HARRIS

Mr. Neville E. Gibson, President of Grosvenor International Limited, is pleased to announce the appointment of Mr. John E. Harris, B.Sc., A.R.I.C.S., R.I. (B.C.), as Development Manager.

Mr. Harris has had a wide range of experience in real estate development in several Western Canadian cities. His responsibilities in Grosvenor International will include initiating and implementing development projects arising from the Company's expanding activities in Canada. Mr. Harris will be based at the Company's offices in Vancouver.

B.C. Tel Planning Two Issues

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Telephone Company expects to have a common share issue followed by a bond issue this year to help raise the $50 million it needs to expand its facilities, president Ernest Richardson told the annual meeting Thursday.

Richardson, who was elected chairman of the board to succeed retiring Cyrus McLean, said the company's expansion program for 1971 will cost $116.7 million.

Company policy is to maintain a debt ratio of about 50 per cent. The debt portion of the company's capital now is slightly larger than that, he said, and the next financing issue is expected to be in "some form of equity, determined by conditions of the market."

"Things being equal, we shall have a common share issue during the year, followed by a bond issue. If it seems opportune, we will also carry on our practice of staying in the short-term money market by way of notes."

EXAMINE TRENDS

Regarding the company's recent application to the Board of Transport Commissioners for a rate increase, he said a company "may wait until it is so irrevocably in the red that its condition will be apparent to all and sundry."

"The other approach is to examine trends carefully, to analyse one's capital and operating budgets for the future with care and to react quickly as to what the future well being or otherwise of the company is going to be."

He said B.C. Tel would be remiss to wait for its surpluses to dwindle and service to deteriorate before seeking a rate increase.

On Feb. 26, the company reported it had near-record earnings of $19.05 million for 1970.

Tax Tips

Tax Tips, a daily feature in the Times, is prepared by the Victoria District Office, National Revenue, Taxation. For additional information on preparation of your income tax return, write to the Victoria office of National Revenue, Taxation.

Q. I have heard that I can deduct the fees my tax consultant charges for making out my income tax return. Is this correct?

A. There is no provision in the Income Tax Act which permits deduction of these charges. However if you normally require legal or accounting advice in connection with your business, the tax consultant charges may be deductible as a business expense.

Q. I am a farmer, and employ a laborer for approximately 20 days each autumn. Must I deduct Canada Pension Plan contributions from his pay?

A. Not unless the laborer is employed for 25 days and is paid $250 or more in a year. If he is, you must deduct for the whole period of employment.

Q. I am a transport employee and I do have certain travelling and away-from-home expenses. What records are necessary to prove my claim for these expenses when filing my income tax return?

A. If you are an employee of an airline, railway, bus or other transport company and you are required to travel regularly away frm the municipality or metropolitan area where you report for work, by aircraft, train, truck or other vehicle used to transport passengers or goods, you may claim actual expenses for meals and lodging while away, minus any amount reimbursed by your employer. You should keep a detailed record of such expenditures and complete form T12. This form, properly certified, should be filed with your return.

Victoria Climate Studied

An urban climatologist with the University of Victoria is studying climatic changes taking place in various areas of downtown Victoria.

Stan Tuller and some of his students are comparing the changes in two one-block areas.

Regional wind patterns also are being studied.

"Man is modifying the micro-climate every time he modifies the surface by doing anything such as planting a lawn or building a house," Tuller said.

He said the climate of the entire Greater Victoria area might be altered if enough high-rise buildings were constructed in the southwestern section to block out the prevailing southwesterly winds in the summer.

For his study, he has chosen the rear block of the Eaton's Building, bounded by Fort, Broad, View and Government streets.

A an example of a residential block, he is using the James Bay area bounded by Oswego, Montreal, Ontario and Michigan.

Tuller, with the aid of instruments scattered throughout the city, is studying wind patterns with a view to determining possible effects of air pollution in Greater Victoria.

So far, he said, there is little chance air pollution will become a serious problem.

"Victoria has pretty good wind speeds and it is not in a valley," he said. "So there is nothing to trap the pollution over the area in general."

Taste Of Life On a Sloop

Every boater who's dreamed of getting away from it all will be hit by a knock-out dose of sea fever tonight at 8 p.m. if he goes to the Provincial Museum's Newcombe auditorium.

He'll get a taste of life aboard a 37-foot sloop cruising the Hawaiian Islands and such places as South Africa, Brazil, the West Indies and the Panama Canal.

Vancouver sailor Charles Kennedy will reminisce and show slides of the four-year trip he took with his wife Leiv, and their son, Curtis, in their yacht Kelea.

Leiv is well known to yachtsmen through her magazine articles.

One of the best 24-hour runs Kelea made during her 36,000-mile trek was on her way from Hawaii to Tikihau Atoll, a distance of 2,300 miles. In one day her log registered 175 miles.

During the whole of that leg, which she made in 15½ days, Kelea's self-steering wind vane was in sole control of the helm.

VOW Seeks Policy Shift

The British Columbia branch of the Voice of Women has asked the federal government for a change in foreign policy priorities, says provincial president Mrs. T. D. Birmingham of Nanoose Bay.

Along with branches in Manitoba and New Brunswick, B.C. members ask that solutions to the problems of peace, of social justice, of the fair distribution of wealth and of the conservation and rationalization of resources be given first place.

The submissions were made to the committee on external affairs and national defence on the white paper "Foreign Policy for Canadians," said Mrs. Birmingham.

The Queen's Color will be presented at Royal Roads Military College Thursday, April 8, at 2 p.m.

More than 200 officer-cadets will take part. The public is invited.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

The 22-year-old driver of one of three cars involved in a fatal crash Nov. 8 was fined a total of $450 Thursday when he pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of dangerous driving and another charge of driving with a blood-alcohol level greater than .08 per cent.

Raymond Thomas Perry, of 2340 Weiler, was originally charged with criminal negligence, but when he appeared in provincial traffic court before Judge E. F. N. Robinson a dangerous driving charge was substituted.

Twenty-one-year-old James Maude of Sidney died 12 hours after the crash on the Pat Bay Highway near Elk Lake, and two other persons were critically injured.

Perry's breathalyzer reading was .11 per cent after the crash.

His car and Maude's car were both southbound on the Pat Bay Highway at 1 a.m. when they were involved in a minor collision. Maude's vehicle swung out of control across the centre line and smashed head on into the older-model car of Richard Collett, 21, of 5174 Patricia Bay, court was told.

Although Collett's car weighed 4,000 pounds, the impact drove it backwards from the point of collision.

Susan Costain, 18, of 6961 Central Saanich Road, was a front-seat passenger in Maude's car and suffered severe head injuries.

Both cars were demolished. Judge Robinson ordered Perry banned from driving for six months except for work purposes.

Vaughn Barnard, 19, of 1531 Elford, was sentenced to four months in jail Thursday on a charge of possession of a narcotic after Judge William Ostler read a pre-sentence report.

Barnard told Ostler in provincial court he had been an idealistic youth when he "first came west." He said he was thrown into reality suddenly.

"I looked upon the street scene, as we call it, as very necessary to my life."

Barnard also challenged some aspects of the pre-sentence report.

He said that where the report said he had received welfare payments he had in fact made an application but received no reply.

He also challenged a section of the report which said that when he was in high school he had a detrimental effect on young female students in his classes.

At the time he was only 18, he said, the same age as other students.

Ostler sentenced him to four months in a forestry camp.

★ ★ ★

Jack Brown, 20, of 1260 Pembroke, was sentenced to 18 months in jail on a charge of theft over $50 and one month concurrent on a charge of driving while prohibited.

★ ★ ★

Stewart Robinson, 33, of no fixed address, was sentenced to three months in jail for wilfully damaging a door at the Lincoln Hotel Wednesday. He had been released from jail the same day.

In traffic court: Mrs. A. B. Harrison, 54, of 1247 Montrose, was fined $100 for failing to remain at the scene of an accident; Kaj Pedersen, 46, of 1235 Balmoral, was fined $200 for driving with a blood-alcohol level of more than .08 per cent; and Alvin Antrim, 33, of 831 Seven Oaks, was sentenced to 14 days for impaired driving.

★ ★ ★

Pleading guilty to a three-count Unemployment Insurance Act charge, Gordon Erickson, address not known, was fined a total of $150.

Court was told he received $57 in benefits to which he was not entitled in the period from Nov. 9, 1968, to Feb. 8, 1968.

'Straight' Not Wanted —Baird

Ald. Robert Baird may be given the opportunity of telling the publishers of the Georgia Straight that their underground newspaper is not wanted on the streets of Victoria.

Referring to written complaints by a Victoria resident who called the newspaper "filthy and profane," Baird told city council: "I don't think we want this junk sold on these streets because we are proud of our city."

Baird appeared slightly annoyed when Mayor Courtney Haddock said he would prefer to discuss the matter privately at another time.

When Baird persisted, Haddock said he "might delegate the job to you, Ald. Baird."

Baird replied he wouldn't object.

Ald. Ove Witt pointed out to council that "you would have trouble doing it," because Time magazine has printed language similar to that found in the Georgia Straight.

Haddock said today he has not discussed the matter yet with Baird, but he explained "I don't think we should give them all that prominence and publicity."

He said he plans to give Baird a chance to talk to the distributors, but "frankly, I think it's over-rated."

Another suggestion came Thursday from Ald. Peter Pollen: "Maybe we could contact Hugh Hefner at the same time." (Hugh Hefner is the publisher of the large-circulation magazine Playboy.)

The issue of banning street sales of underground newspapers has come up before, but this time was precipitated by letters from Herman Voorsluys, 710 Vancouver, who said a copy of the newspaper had been tossed into his car when he stopped for a traffic light.

There's a new world of value at your Pontiac dealer's.

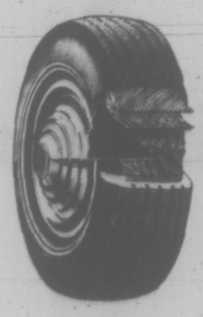
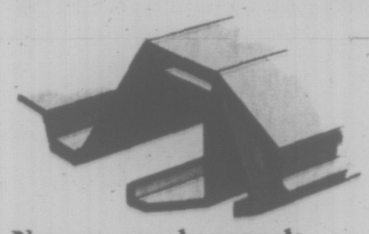
Variable ratio power steering.
While driving on the highway, you've got plenty of road feel. But when parking, the variable feature greatly reduces the steering wheel turns required for tight-space maneuvering. Standard on some Pontiacs, available on all others.

Side-guard beams.
Increased side impact protection in every door. Originated by General Motors and standard on all 1971 Pontiacs.

Inside hood release.
Stops uninvited hood lifters. Release handle is located under the dash. Standard on all big Pontiacs. Available on trim-size models.

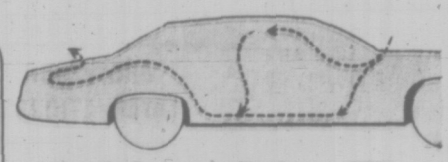


Bias-belted tires.
Helps improve handling and traction. Bias-belt design also helps increase tire life by resisting flexing, thus cutting heat build up. Standard on all Pontiacs.



New open rocker panels.
Reduces salt and water build up, helping to eliminate unsightly rust and corrosion. A feature on full-size Pontiacs that'll pay off at trade-in time.

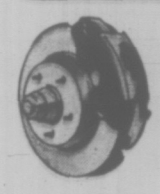
Roomier, quieter interiors.
There's more room inside, because all full-size Pontiacs ride on longer wheelbases for 1971. New double roof construction is acoustically-designed to absorb sound.



Draft-free ventilation.
The vent windows are gone, in favour of Pontiac's powered flow-through ventilation system. It gives you a constant flow of fresh air, and does it quietly. A full-size Pontiac feature.

New suspension.
A new front suspension on all full-size Pontiacs improves handling on bumpy roads and in crosswinds. The result, a better ride and more precise road holding. Prove it yourself with a test drive.

New emission controls.
Pontiac is doing its part to help clear the air by designing engines that run cleaner and more efficiently. And there's an Evaporative Emissions System on all Pontiacs to absorb fuel vapors.



Power disc brakes.
Power front disc brakes help assure fast, fade-resistant stops under the toughest driving conditions. Standard on all big Pontiacs; optional on trim-size Pontiacs.

Complete GM safety package.

Justify Office, Hoffa Ordered

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Teamster Union President James R. Hoffa, now serving an eight-year prison sentence for jury tampering, was ordered by a federal judge Thursday to show cause why he should not be enjoined from holding office in the union.

Judge L. Clure Morton of the U.S. district court issued the order in response to a complaint filed by Don Vestal, president of Teamsters Local 327 here.

The order also would enjoin Frank E. Fitzsimmons, Teamster Union general vice-president and Hoffa's hand-picked stand-in, from holding office.

ALLEGES THREATS

Morton said in the order that unless the charges in the complaint can be proved false, a receiver will be appointed by the court for the purpose of calling an election to replace Hoffa and Fitzsimmons.

The complaint alleges that Hoffa and other union officers are using threats of force to restrain activities of the local, and misuse of strike benefits of workers at a plant in Lawrenceburg, Tenn.

Hoffa, whose current term as union president expires in July, now is in federal prison at Lewisburg, Pa.

Among the charges included in the complaint is an accusation that Hoffa in 1966 withheld strike benefits from workers at the Murray Ohio plant at Lawrenceburg, Tenn., to influence Robert Vick to change his testimony in a criminal proceeding against Hoffa.

Osborne subsequently was disbarred and sentenced to three years' imprisonment for jury tampering. Hoffa was sentenced to eight years. He also lost an appeal in the U.S. Supreme Court Jan. 11 from a five-year pension fraud sentence imposed in Chicago.

Puerto Rico Rioting Kills Three Persons

SAN JUAN (Reuter) — The lush green campus around the University of Puerto Rico was in near ruins today and the school itself was shut down after a day of rioting that left three persons dead and at least 50 injured.

Barricades set up by students blocked entrances to many streets and glass from shattered store windows littered the area. Bullet holes scarred university buildings.

Sniper fire rang out intermittently Thursday night. The police riot squad stood by as a police helicopter circled the campus dropping flares and broadcasting messages to stay off the streets. Police said they found three unexploded bombs near the Capitol building.

University officials suspended classes and there was no indication when the school would be reopened.

50 INJURED

Among the dead was Cmdr. Juan Mercado, 45, leader of the police riot squad. The other dead were a member of the riot squad and a student.

Authorities said at least 50 persons were injured, many of them wounded in the shooting.

The rioting began when groups of left-wing students demanding independence for Puerto Rico, which has commonwealth status with the United States, stormed the Reserve Officers Training Corps building on the campus.

Within an hour, thousands of students were milling about. Molotov cocktails were thrown through store windows and at cars.

University Chancellor Pedro Jose Rivera asked assistance from the riot squad, and as the police entered the campus, snipers opened fire from rooftops.

There have been numerous bombings in San Juan in the last year by groups seeking independence from the U.S.

QUEBEC SETS UP LAWS FOR USE OF FRENCH

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Quebec wants immigrant professionals to the province to speak French and has set up laws to bring this about.

Francois Cloutier, minister of cultural affairs, said Thursday in the Quebec national assembly that rules regarding application of legislation encouraging immigrants to speak French have been worked out and will be published in the official gazette "without delay."

The legislation, which became law last December, allows immigrants to join 19 professional associations in the province while they are awaiting citizenship to be granted, provided they acquire a working knowledge of French within one year of joining.

Previously, only Canadian citizens could join the associations concerned and non-citizens were unable to practise any of the professions controlled by the associations.

BEACHES FOR ISLAND

The Nova Scotia government introduced a bill that would bring bleak Sable Island into the province and extend provincial voting rights to the nine eligible voters now residing there.

Earlier it had been argued the sandbar, located about 180 miles southeast of Halifax, was under federal jurisdiction. It is a meteorological base for the transport department.

The federal government should withdraw from all existing cost-shared programs, the Alberta house was told by John Landeryou (SC—Lethbridge) when he proposed a motion urging the programs be replaced with unconditional transfer payments to each province on an equitable basis.

In Regina, the opposition New Democratic Party asked for a legislature inquiry into Homecoming '71, particularly into financial assistance being offered by the government for local projects.

The director of Homecoming, Wilf Gardiner, was fired Wednesday for refusing to carry out instructions from the government limiting grants for projects to one for each community.

Beaver Placates Wind Gods

An enactment of a centuries-old tradition was slated today when the navy's model of the old steamship Beaver was due to have her mast stepped at the graving dock in CFB Esquimalt's dockyard.

Before the mast was raised in place a centennial medal was put in position at the base.

Dating from ancient times, sailors believed that placing money or another token in this position would placate the wind gods.

On hand for today's ceremony was Laurie Wallace general chairman of the B.C. Centennial 71 Committee, and Rear-Admiral Richard Leir, commander of maritime command Pacific.

Traditional maritime prayers were to round out the special ceremony.

ANOTHER RECORD goes crashing as Boston's Phil Esposito (7) fires 10-foot shot past Los Angeles netminder Denis Dejordy to break Bobby Hull's mark of 58 tallies in single National Hockey League season. It was 59th goal for Esposito, who raised record to 60 later in Friday's game at Los Angeles while Bruins were on way to 7-2 triumph over Kings. Phil's linemate, Ken Hodge (left) is ready for possible rebound while defencemen Larry Cahan (3) and Gilles Marotte are merely helpless spectators.

BILL WALKER

It's almost as though the brat brother of a few years ago is going to make it bigger than all the rest who were at the parties. At least Tony van de Mortel would like a real good chance to prove it. And if things happen to work out, he'll gladly accept the ride, and at Indianapolis, too.

Tony Mortel, 23, is a race driver in the super-modified manner of such things. Dutch-born, and B.C.-raised, he races mainly on the Canadian American Modified Racing Association circuit.

He was the Association president last year, while putting a new car together; ranked sixth overall in CAMRA points, although competing for only half the season, and had one of his biggest thrills.

'I was named Sportsman of the Year," he said proudly.

It all began, I guess, at the after - the - race get-togethers when I was a kid, he explained of his philosophy in life.

"My sister Kay married Pat O'Connor, and he used to drive stocks and wrench cars. All the fellows, the drivers and mechanics, used to come to our place; and being the kid in the party, I'd get all the Joe jobs to do," he added.

"That's when I first took an interest. They were a great bunch, good to me, and often said 'one day we'll get you in the seat of a car.' They did."

First, there were stock cars. "I began in 1965," Tony said. "And I admit it, I was scared. I was shaking all over until the green starting flag came down. Then suddenly everything was all right."

●

If Tony was impatient in his quest for better things, he first recognized the fact in 1968, and made the jump to modifieds. Besides he got a sponsor, Blake Sprague.

This combination was successful enough to finish with a sixth-place total in CAMRA competition and a second place in the championship race. For this Tony was named "rookie of the year," a title he also had earned from the Vancouver Island Track Racing Association at Western Speedway in 1966.

The following season, Tony moved up another step. Now he was in super-modifieds. Fourth place in the final CAMRA standings was his reward. Again last year, the price went up. Tony had his car redesigned into the roadster type. The results were more than satisfactory.

Now it is spring again, and Tony has an itchy foot. The car is ready to go; it only needs to be assembled. He has done little else this winter but to make certain it has the best equipment available, and will be in the finest possible condition.

Naturally, the CAMRA events are high on his schedule of priorities. But he also wants to race against better, and will, at the Minnesota State Fair. "I'd like to get to Oswego, New York, too," he explained. If things work out in Minnesota, I hope to."

●

In all, Tony figures to compete in 40 or 50 races. "Some are two-day events," he explained, "and are decided on a point basis. And if I can do well . . . sure, I'd like to work up so that I could get to Indy."

Tony works on his own car and feels it gives him an advantage "As a wrencher, I can tell a mechanic what is wrong. Besides, it makes me much more sure of my car."

"I think you have to spin out a few times before you learn what to do," he said of his more exciting moments. "But that's when you learn to gather it up. You have to."

Is it a lucrative undertaking? Not necessarily, at the moment. The prize money isn't that high, yet. "But they are boosting it," he said. "The first two years I raced, I put some money in the bank when I came home. Last year I just made expenses."

As a former machinist at the Dockyard, Tony machines much of his own equipment, and if it isn't right, he'll make certain it is. "I couldn't afford to race it otherwise."

The financial interest in his car, equipment, tow car, trailer and maintenance costs, runs to about $25,000. "One year I even paid about $500 in ferry tolls," he laughed.

And therein probably explains why even if Tony does have all the tools, even the car and figures he can get the job done, he is in almost the same boat as others with an eye to an auto-racing career.

●

Sometimes a push is needed in order to get started.

Which is one reason why Tony isn't denying the fact that he is seeking out a kindly sponsor, or even a benevolent angel. Either one will do. Not necessarily for Tony's dreams of the future, but for this season only, the CAMRA competition.

"I'm certain I can do well," Tony said.

As for the future, "I've been told we could buy an Indy-type car, one that could race on the United States Auto Club championship circuit, for about $15,000," he explained. "To put it on the track would cost about $50,000."

"Sure, I'm thinking of it," he added, "but right now it's this year I'm interested in.

"Look, I've even written to Andy Granatelli," he said. Sure enough the letter hadn't been folded, and was addressed to the STP corporation which Granatelli heads.

"I even thought of starting it:

" 'Dear Andy' . . . But I didn't have the nerve."

Bruins Continue To Wreak Havoc With Records

By The Canadian Press

Phil Esposito and Bobby Orr led a Boston assault on the National Hockey League record book Thursday night as the awesome Bruins stomped Los Angeles Kings 7-2.

In another game, Vancouver Canucks defeated Detroit Red Wings 7-3.

Esposito, who equalled Bobby Hull's single-season goal scoring record of 58 the previous night, scored twice and added an assist to shatter three NHL season marks while Orr scored once and assisted on three others to set up three more one-season highs.

Esposito's two goals also shattered the previous high of 59 for both regular season and playoff games set by centre Jean Beliveau of Montreal Canadiens.

Beliveau's record was set during the 1955-56 season while Hull's mark was established by the Chicago Black Hawk winger in 1968-69, the same year Esposito set the single-season points record of 126 he surpassed Thursday night.

NOW HAS 128 POINTS

The three points picked up by the rangy 29-year-old centre from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., gave him 128 with 11 games still to play in the 78-game schedule.

"I'm just glad the pressure's off," he said, referring to Hull's goal-scoring recorrnd. He admitted the Kings have been an easy mark this season.

Orr, 22, from Parry Sound, Ont., who broke his own goal-scoring high for defencemen Wednesday night with his 34th of the year, padded that mark while establishing a single-season high for assists (88) and points for a defenceman (123).

And the Bruins, who already boast numerous single-season records as a team including the most 20-goal scorers (nine), wins (50), goals scored (339), and points (107), have two other shooters threatening to break the 100-point barrier.

BUOYK NEXT

Left winger Johnny Bucyk, leading candidate for the Lady Byng Trophy as the player best combining ability and sportsmanship, has 98 while Esposito's linemate, Ken Hodge, has 95 points. Bucyk scored twice to raise his goal total to 47.

When Esposito and Orr scored 100 points, it was the first time in NHL history two players on the same team had reached the century mark the same season.

The Vancouver victory, sparked by three unanswered goals in the first period, enabled the East Division tailenders to close within three points of Detroit.

Ted Taylor, with the first of his two goals, Danny Johnson and Mike Corrigan counted in the first period during a 16-shot barrage on Detroit's rookie goaltender, Jim Rutherford.

The Canucks opened a 5-2 lead by the end of the middle period against a drab Detroit offence whose only bright spot was the performance of rookie Tom Webster. His two goals gave him 26 for the season.

CANUCKS 'PLEASED'

Officials of the Canucks said they were pleased with their first experiment with closed circuit television.

Thursday night's game was relayed from the Pacific Coliseum, with its sellout crowd of 15,500, to the nearby 5,000-seat Agrodome building where about 350 watched.

Canuck vice-president Lyman D. Walters said two more games will be relayed in the same manner — Canucks versus Chicago and Minnesota — and that delayed telecasting by CHAN-TV in Vancouver also will be repeated.

Walters said there were some lighting problems Thursday, but that more lights will be used in future closed-circuit games.

Tickets to the Agrodome all were priced at $2.50, the standing-room rate at the Coliseum itself.

Hockey Parents Should Keep Out

HAMILTON (C) — Alan Eagleson, executive-director of the National Hockey League Players' Association, stayed clear of rapping NHL owners Thursday night but knocked parents who press their youngsters into highly-organized hockey at an early age.

He told the 49th annual McMaster University athletic banquet he was disgusted with parents of peewee-aged hockey players who invade the dressing room after a game and berate their sons, ignoring the coach.

He added that he coaches a peewee team.

"And the tragic thing is the parents sitting in the stands screaming 'Get him! Kill him' at their sons during a game. If this is the philosophy we are developing then we should get someone else to take over."

Eagleson singled out the annual Quebec peewee hockey tournament, "regarded as the Stanley Cup of peewee hockey" as a prime example "of the cancer in minor hockey."

The Toronto lawyer said he had seen parents fighting at the tournament and NHL scouts watching 10-year-old players. He said the same scouting of eight-, nine- and 10-year-olds is carried on by Toronto Marlboro juniors.

"They see a promising boy and they try to steer him. . . . And the parents push the boys because they want him to play for Marlboros.

He said damage caused by situations of this nature was best illustrated by the fact that of 30 or 40 boys who start playing hockey at the peewee level, only one is still in hockey after playing in a juvenile league.

"It's push, push, push. When the boy finally gets a chance to make a decision he rebels."

As a director of Hockey Canada, he emphasized the need to place education first and look on hockey as a means to an end, not an end.

He was critical of NHL owners not supporting university hockey programs.

Last-Second Shot Saves Esquimalt

Kathy Wilkinson sank a basket with one second remaining Thursday to give Esquimalt a 45-43 victory over First United Knickerbockers in the Victoria and District Amateur Basketball Association bantam girls' playdowns.

The loss eliminated Knicks from the double-loss tournament.

In the other game played at Mount View High School, First United Saints advanced to the final with a 46-31 win over Yarrows in a winners' bracket contest.

Esquimalt plays Yarrows at 7:30 p.m. Monday on the same floor for the right to meet Saints.

Dale Denning led Esquimalt with 14 points while Crystal Aylesworth added 12 and Carol Bannister, 11. Debbie Donaldson scored 14 points for Knicks.

Margaret Mainwaring topped scoring for Saints with 20 points while Yarrows collected nine points from Janice Turner.

United, Columbus Set For Crucial Encounter

Finally, and barring any unforseen circumstances, Victoria United will meet Vancouver Columbus in "the" Pacific Coast Soccer League match of the weekend Saturday at Royal Athletic Park.

The match, originally scheduled for Jan. 16 has been postponed twice — once due to snow and a second time because of a wedding.

And it almost was postponed again.

Columbus manager Peter Menardi sought a postponement earlier in the week because some of his players would be working Saturday. The PCSL executive dismissed the Columbus request.

MILNER ON SIDELINES

It appears that the Columbus lineup will only be without John Milner, currently serving a 12-game suspension for striking a referee.

Columbus, however, is still left with one of the strongest lineups in the league. This is composed of powerful attacking force of Victor Kodelja, Vanni Leonarduzzi, George Zambrano and Sergio Zanatta; link-men Peter Simpson and Bruce Wilson; as well as a strong defensive line of Gino Vazzoler, Del Chata, Sam Lenarduzzi and Barry Calhoun. All this is in front of an outstanding goalkeeper — Peter Greco.

United is almost at full strength. Both Ray Telford and Jim Irvine, out for two matches with twisted ankles, are ready for action although not listed as starters. In addition, Brian Robinson has recovered from an injured knee and thigh muscle.

FOUR-POINTER

Coach Frank Grealy said that he will go with much the same lineup that has been successful in recent encounters — forwards Bob Bolitho, Ike MacKay, Gil McIlraith and Jan Bentley; link-men Robinson and Tom Westwater; defencemen Howie Anderson, Peter Robarts, Bill Hamilton and Rom Thompson as well as goalie Barry Sadler.

Victory for United would send Victoria into a seven-point lead and virtually wrap up league honors. A loss would cut United's lead to only three points and throw the race for first place wide open again.

Game time is 2 p.m.

McGrath Quartet Grabs Mixed Title

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — With a near-perfect raise on the final rock of the game, Larry McGrath's Saskatchewan rink Thursday won its third Canadian mixed curling championship.

One round remained in the 11-rink, round-robin tournament, but runner-up honors remained the only major issue at stake in the five closing matches today.

"We play for fun tomorrow," said Saskatchewan second John Gunn following the 6-5 10th-round victory over Kelly Carin's Kamloops, B.C. rink.

With McGrath and Gunn on the three-time champion rink from Kindersley are lead Audrey St. John and third Darlene Hill.

Saskatchewan went into the final day's play with an 8-1 record.

McGrath, a 30-year-old farmer, drew words of praise from the observers at the River side Country Club near here with his final shot of the title-clinching match.

With the game tied and after having moved the B.C. shot rock off the button to the four-foot with his first shot, McGrath threaded a port with his final stone and raised one of his own rocks into the four-foot ring for the victory.

Island's Title Hopes With Colquitz, Bays

Colquitz Warriors and Oak Bay will journey to the mainland next week as Vancouver Island representatives in the second annual British Columbia junior high school boys' basketball championship tournament.

The 12-team, three-day tourney is scheduled to start next Thursday at North Vancouver High School.

Colquitz downed Oak Bay 63-23 for the Vancouver Island title after beating Woodlands of Nanaimo 61-39 and Lansdowne of Victoria, 58-47. Bays advanced to the final with a 38-36 victory over Campbell River.

Only seven of the 12 provincial finalists have been decided so far. The other five are Windsor Dukes (Vancouver North Shore), Lord Byng Grey Ghosts (Vancouver), Alpha Olympics (Burnaby) as well as Hope Mustangs and North Delta Huskies (Fraser Valley).

Still to be decided in tourneys this weekend are representatives from Okanagan (2), the Kootenays, Northern B.C. and the Richmond-Vancouver-Independents-Upper Howe Sound zone.

Alberta Elks Win Bonspiel

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — Jim Kosh's Alberta rink won the national Elks curling championship here Thursday, defeating a British Columbia foursome skipped by Chuck Kennedy of White Rock, B.C., 10-8 in the final.

The Edmonton skip finished the three-day bonspiel with a 5-2 win-loss record. He beat Bob Pickering of Milestone, Sask., 9-8 in a semi-final match earlier in the day.

WORLD CUP QUEEN — SWEEPS IN SLALOM

Annamarie Adds Polish

ABETONE, Italy (UPI) — Austria's brightest skiing star, Annemarie Proell, put the polish on her new women's World Cup ski championship Thursday by winning her second consecutive giant slalom in the 21st Foemina Skiing Cup.

The 17-year-old student from Kleinarl swept all honors in the Foemina Cup competition. She covered the course Thursday in a blazing 1:32.37 minutes, almost out of sight of the runners-up.

Francoise Macchi of France, third Wednesday, finished second in 1:35.20. Austria's Gertrude Gable was third in 1:36.39.

Miss Proell whipped through 59 gates of the 5,280 foot Val De Luce course Wednesday in 1:36.35 to win the 1971 World Cup title. She had needed only four points for the championship and got 14 with the win. Thursday's victory was so much frosting on the cake, as she dropped through 64 gates over the same distance.

The men's World Cup championship still is unsettled but Gustavo Thoeni, 20, of Italy, needs only a good showing in one of the season's two final events in Are, Sweden, to win it.

Austrian girls had five of the top 10 rankings, two girls from France, two from the United States and one from Switzerland joined the Austrians in the top 10.

Sandra Poulsen of Olympic Valley, Calif. was fourth in 1:37.30 and Marilyn Cochran of Richmond, Vt. sixth in 1:37.53.

Blacker the Fish — Better the Day for Fishing

MIAMI (AP) — Baltimore Orioles slugger Boog Powell leaned his 261-pound frame and whispered to Japanese home run king Sadaharu Oh: "Fella, you make more money than I do."

The Tokyo Giants' hero grinned and said in fractured English . . . "47 homma runnas."

Powell had to back off. The American League's most valuable player hit only 35 homers last season while helping the Orioles win the world championship.

Oh is a short, powerful man who earns more than $100,000 in salary and another $100,000 in endorsements and personal appearances. Powell recently signed for $90,000.

"Sumo . . . Sumo," the Giants muttered as Powell took his mighty swings in the batting cage Thursday. They stood in awe as the biggest Bird ripped shots over the Miami Stadium fence.

OH LIKE OTT

Oh hits lefthanded, kicking his right leg high off the ground much in the style of former New York Giants great Mel Ott.

Tokyo's No. 1 team, champions of Japanese baseball the last six years, is spending three weeks in the United States playing exhibitions against major-league clubs.

Toru Shoriki, a smallish man of 52, owns the Giants and is footing the $300,000 tab for the journey that includes 25 players, 30 reporters and a dozen club officials.

Shoriki can afford it. Not only does he possess the most prosperous team in a baseball-crazy land, but also owns the Yomiuri newspapers, is a director of the Nippon television networks and heads one of Japan's posh gold club.

COMMERCIALS PAY OFF

"Baseball is biggest game in Japan," said the millionaire owner. "Every game is on television and sometimes we have 30 million viewers."

The average Giant is paid about $15,000, but slugging stars such as Oh and Shiegeo Nagashima earn six-figure salaries.

Gordon Windhorn, former New York Yankees outfielder, spent six years with the Yankyu Braves. He now scouts for California Angels.

"Their main problem is that managers never change ways and ballplayers aren't supposed to think for themselves," said Windhorn.

He claimed the Japanese "don't really play hard and end up singing, win or lose."

Windhorn pointed to a well-dressed Japanese.

"He's a broadcaster now, but he won 20 games for 20 straight seasons. When you sign with the Giants, they take you for life. When you can't play any longer, the owner makes you an announcer or a sports writer."

The Giants drew 2.5 million fans into their 50,000-seat stadium last summer.

As owner Shoriki said — "We make lot of money."

Reports on The Outdoors

Although the fishing picture for Vancouver Island during the past week could be neatly expressed as "bleak," a few hardy and persistant anglers continue to pick up the odd salmon, trout or steelhead.

High winds and rain have discouraged many saltchuck fishermen but some fair catches of blueback salmon have been reported in the sheltered waters of Saanich Inlet.

Small coho seem to have shifted southward and may now be found around McCurdy Point, Deep Hole and Stone House while jacksprings are being caught in Indian Bay and along the shore from Bamberton to the Mill Bay ferry marker.

Finlayson Arm waters have yielded winter springs.

Other catches of springs have been reported on the tide change near Deep Cove.

In Oak Bay waters, Fiddle Reef and Goat Island have been favorite spots for springs.

Victoria's harbor entrance is giving up the odd jack while fishermen trolling along the kelp bed in Pedder Bay and near Church Rock in the early morning are coming home with a few winter springs up to 14 pounds.

The only bright spot up Island is Union Bay, which has produced a few springs.

★ ★ ★

Several streams on the east coast of Vancouver Island continue to produce steelhead for the angler hardy enough to find them.

Cowichan River has yielded sea-run rainbows in the Riverbottom area and near the B.C. Forest Products pumphouse. Another stream which should come into its prime, if the weather turns cold, is the Koksilah.

Nanaimo River remains a fair bet, giving up bright steelies like the 14-pounder caught earlier this week by Larry Bowers of Nanaimo.

Some of the other Island streams producing now are the Puntledge, Campbell (Sandy Pool), Quinsam and Oyster.

★ ★ ★

And while coolish weather hasn't served to enhance chances of catching trout, some are snapping up bait dropped down to the bottom of Quamichan Lake.

Brown trout are being landed by some anglers on the upper reaches of the Cowichan River and other trout are coming to flies near the mouth of the Taylor River in Sprost Lake.

Heard a Good Reason For Getting Married?

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Jerry Heard, tied with Arnold Palmer going into today's second round in the $150,000 Florida Citrus Open, credits his recent marriage with the stunning improvement in his game.

"I've only been married to Nancy for about nine months," the 23-year-old Californian said Thursday after matching Palmer with a six-under-par 66.

"I won about $6,000 last year before we got married, and about $40,000 after. My game is three times as good now as it was before I got married. My whole game, my whole life, did a complete turn-around."

He hasn't won in three years on the pro tour, never even led at the end of a round, but has won almost $16,000 this year, including a tie for fourth in the Bing Crosby Open and a tie for ninth in the PGA national championship.

PALMER HOT

Palmer, one of the early starters on the 6,849-yard Rio Pinar Country Club course, birdied five consecutive holes and seemed destined to hold the lead alone until Heard rolled in a 35-foot putt on the final hole.

There was a group of six tied at 67. They were national seniors champion Julius Boros, New Zealand rookie John Lister, veteran Dan Sikes, Dick Lotz, Bert Greene, and Jerry Magee.

The leading Canadian was Winnipeg's Wilf Homenuik with a 73 while George Knudson of Toronto finished at 76.

Charlie Sifford, a 49-year-old veteran, also was six-under-par until he hit into an unplayable lie and scored double bogey on the 17th hole.

Sifford, winner of two tour events but having his troubles the last two years, was one of a large group at 68. Also at that figure were Lee Trevino, Bobby Nichols, Bob Murphy and a dozen others.

Defending champion Bob Lunn had a 70, while South Africa Gary Player and national amateur champion Lanny Wadkins also had 70s.

U.S. Open champion Tony Jacklin of England had a 73.

MIAMI LANDS THEISMANN

MIAMI (AP) — Notre Dame quarterback Joe Theismann has signed a multi-year contract with Miami Dolphins of the National Football League for an undisclosed sum.

J. C. Snead and Tom Shaw, the only two men to win two tournaments this year, had a 74 and 73, respectively, well back in the field.

"Actually, I was just trying to lag it up and the ball dropped in the hole, if you want to know the truth about it," Heard said of the putt that tied him for the lead.

COULD BE BETTER

Palmer, winner of the Bob Hope Desert Classic but in trouble since then, reeled off a string of five consecutive birdies starting on the eighth hole.

He hit every green, missed only two fairways and missed three birdie puts of eight feet or less, plus at least five others he said could have been made.

"I could have shot a 62 or 63 — or anything," he said.

Hockey in Province Continues to Expand

Hockey continues to exhibit a steady growth in British Columbia.

Ivan Temple of Victoria, the B.C. Amateur Hockey Association's secretary-registrar, reported registration for the 1970-71 season reached a record 36,933 players — up 4,834 over the 32,109 registered last season.

Temple said the increase was in "keeping with the 20 per cent average" recorded over the past several years.

The growth consolidates B.C's position as Canada's third largest hockey province, behind Ontario and Quebec.

Temple said a total of 1,912 teams were registered with the BCAHA this season, an increase of about 300 over the previous year.

The sport's growth is expected to be maintained with seven new artificial ice rinks due to be completed in B.C. this year. The seven will increase B.C.'s (artificial) rink count to 83.

Cubs, Caps Open Coast 'B' Finale

Victoria Cubs have no alternative. They will have to take advantage of home ice if they hope to advance along the junior "B" playoff hockey trail.

Cubs and Norwest Caps open a best-of-three Coast final tonight, starting at 9:15 p.m. All games of the series will be played on Memorial Arena ice.

Second game is scheduled for Saturday night, starting at 8:30, and the third, if needed, Sunday at 8 p.m.

Consequently, the Cubs will have to "make do" with Victoria ice. They neglected home-ice "advantage" in the Island final with Nanaimo Buckaneers, winning all three games in Nanaimo but losing two straight at the Arena in a series that went the limit.

Norwest wrapped up Mainland League honors Wednesday, defeating Surrey Stamps 6-2 to win the best-of-three final 2-1. Surrey opened with a 3-2 victory but lost the second game 9-3.

The winners of the Coast championship advance into the B.C. semi-final against the Kootenay champs in a series scheduled at the home of the Coast champions.

Track Season Opens Sunday

Victoria and District Track and Field Association opens its outdoor season with an all-comers meet beginning at noon Sunday at Centennial Stadium.

Athletes from many schools and clubs on Vancouver Island are expected to compete in the variety of age-class events. The 25-cent entry fee for each athlete will allow him (or her) to compete in several events.

Others interested in coaching or officiating are invited to attend. Further information is available from Jack Hutchison at 592-1837.

Limit Entry For Bonspiel

A limit entry of 64 rinks will open action in the fourth annual Inter-Club women's bonspiel at three curling establishments on Monday.

Competition begins at Victoria Curling Club, Racquet Club of Victoria and Playland Curling Club with finals on Thursday scheduled at the Racquet Club.

'ALL GOOD THINGS COME TO THOSE WHO WAIT'

Winifred M. Clark Centre Ready to Move Into New Home

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Right now there's a wave of excited anticipation running through the Winifred M. Clark Centre for training the retarded. Moving day is coming up on Wednesday, March 31.

Forbes

As many people know, the Elford Street place has been bursting at the seams for some time now.

★ ★ ★

All efforts to find larger quarters came up against the problem of high property costs and rent. Until the finding of a more suitable location almost took on the aspect of an impossible dream.

However, as pointed out in a recent newsletter of the Greater Victoria Association for the Retarded, "all good things come to those who wait."

A while back the Christadelphian Church, at the corner of Blanshard and Kings Road, offered its property to the centre "at a very nominal figure, far below the commercial value."

Into the bargain, I've learned church members said they would give time and money to make any alterations necessary. Provided the money did not exceed $2,500.

It turned out the building was eminently suitable. It is only 18 years old and in splended condition.

★ ★ ★

What makes it even better is the fact that the 56 trainees, ranging in ages from 18 to 50-plus, will all be under one roof there. This will provide for a more efficient and economical operation.

There will also be larger quarters for the Elford Bargain Boutique to display good used clothing and other donated articles for sale.

The new location is handy for buses and will be much more central for those who come from the Langford, Colwood and Gorge Road districts.

There's another side to this story too. It hinges on the words of an old song — "Have you had a kindness shown, pass it on, it was not meant for you alone, pass it on."

★ ★ ★

Staff members at the W. M. Clark Centre have been humming that tune in recent days. Why? Because they have been able to pass a kindness on. That too, is adding to their excitement.

You see the Canadian Mental Health Association, White Cross Centre, has been under "eviction" orders for some time. It has needed a new home desperately.

Now the CMHA is buying the W. M. Clark Centre property at 1450 Elford Street and its members too, are living in a state of excited anticipation.

★ ★ ★

Moving day for everyone is Wednesday, March 31. I'm sure there is not a person in Greater Victoria who will not wish them well.

Those who might like to add something to the retarded association's funds and at the same time, enjoy an interesting evening, might like to know the ladies' auxiliary is planning another fashion show and musical review for March 17 (St. Patrick's Day) in the Newcombe Auditorium at the provincial museum at 8 p.m. Tickets can be obtained at the W. M. Clark Centre or from auxiliary members. They are $2.00.

I sat in the other day at a luncheon meeting of a co-ordinating committee that planned and organized a recent volunteer training program. It was sponsored by the Ecumenical Women's Outreach, a group that includes church women from Roman Catholic, United, Anglican and other denominations.

★ ★ ★

An all-day training session under chairmanship of Mrs. L. Hagglund was followed a week later by a practical demonstration of volunteer work at Mount St. Mary, arranged by Mrs. F. Simmonson, program co-ordinator there.

"It was all a great success," Mrs. Hagglund told me. "We had over 200 at the training session, from teenagers to those well into retirement years and over 50 at Mount St. Mary. Some gave up their day off work to attend. Others took a day from their annual holiday time."

Many of those who gave their names to Mrs. D. Dickinson of the Community Welfare Council's Volunteer Bureau, have already been placed where private hospitals and nursing homes had requested this type of service.

"It has been a wonderful experience in co-operation and it has proved we can work togther for a worthwhile cause," Mrs. Hagglund said. She spoke for every member of the co-ordinating committee.

More Recreation, Less Work Urged for the 'Day of Pause'

TORONTO (CP) — Proposals designed to redefine Sunday as a "day of pause" were made public Thursday by the Ontario Law Reform Commission.

A commission report calls for greater restrictions on retail and industrial operations—to cut down the number of people forced to work—but also urges more freedom for entertainment and recreation facilities.

Early reaction was mild from church spokesmen who say the proposals merely recognize an existing situation. Business and labor spokesmen were more outspoken.

The commission, under chairman H. Allen Leal, recommends replacement of the federal Lord's Day Act in Ontario by a "Sunday Leisure Act."

"The adoption of this proposal would clearly reverse the traditional legislative process which regarded many forms of recreation, entertainment and culture on Sunday as undesirable, sinful, and instead would allow them to be treated as positive virtues," the report says.

SOME COULD OPEN

Ten types of businesses making "essential" Sunday sales would be allowed to stay open Sundays but some—including drug stores and jug milk stores—would be restricted to a maximum six hours of operations except under special circumstances.

Licenses for Sunday opening, granted by a special review board, would be denied stores with more than 2,000 square feet of floor space or three employees, including the owner or manager.

Seven industrial categories, including farmers and commercial fishermen, would be exempted from Sunday work restrictions.

The report urges repeal of all provincial legislation restricting the operation of leisure-time pursuits, including Sunday hunting bans, but would allow local municipalities to pass restrictive bylaws as necessary.

Mr. Leal said, the new law would not conflict with the federal Lord's Day Act because present commercial restrictions are seldom enforced, but he would prefer to have the federal government exempt Ontario from pertinent sections of the federal act.

Nationalization Of B.C. Tel Urged

VANCOUVER (CP)—Pickets Thursday picketed the Hotel Vancouver demanding nationalization of the B.C. Telephone Co. while the company held its annual meeting inside.

The pickets, who identified themselves as members of the B.C. Waffle Movement of the New Democratic Party, were protesting proposed B.C. Tel rate increases.

The demonstration was orderly and only a small number of protestors were involved. Some carried signs saying that "B.C. Tel rate increases come to you courtesy of the American empire (Canada) Ltd."

Reports of a possible Yippie invasion of the meeting did not materialize, but several plain clothed police officers and hotel security men stood by.

The picketers claimed that B.C. Tel's rates are the highest in Canada. The company denied many of the statements made by the group and a statement was issued saying that the "proper facts" pertaining to the proposed rate increases have been submitted to the public and there will be ample time for any opposition at hearings to be conducted by the Canadian Transport Commission in a few months.

The rates must be approved by the commission before they can be put into effect.

Canada U.S. Colony —Chartrand

TORONTO (CP) — Quebec labor leader Michel Chartrand said Thursday Canada is a United States colony with a fascist government.

"We don't live in a democracy; we live under an economic dictatorship and our leaders are puppets of this dictatorship," he told about 500 persons, mostly students, at the University of Toronto.

Mr. Chartrand, president of the Montreal council of the Confederation of National Trade Unions, urged that Quebec be let alone to decide its own future and warned that the province will not be crushed by an English-Canadian majority. In the Canadian colony, French Canadians are "white Indians."

"We want democracy. We want to live as we are. We are a different flower in the Canadian garden."

CRITICIZES GOVERNMENT

One of the first arrested after the War Measures Act was invoked last October, he described invocation of the act as a reaction "of a fascist government" aimed at halting all dissent.

Sharing the platform was Laurier LaPierre, who will be co-chairman of the federal New Democratic Party leadership convention in Ottawa next month.

He said he has come to believe that the country he once considered his own actually belongs to people who are keeping a "stupid, irrelevant and atrociously vicious law in effect against the liberty of the people of Quebec."

Mr. LaPierre said the time had come "when you have got to decide that if you are a Quebecer there is no other place for you but Quebec."

Sweden's No-Strike Ban Now Law

STOCKHOLM (Reuter) — Sweden's emergency powers banning all strikes and lockouts for six weeks became law today, halting a 38-day labor dispute which has disrupted the country's civil life.

The emergency legislation, rushed through parliament Thursday to stop the dispute, was formally approved by King Gustav Adolf and the cabinet today.

The ban, which comes into force midnight, will apply until April 23, giving 47,000 civil servants time to negotiate a pay settlement.

The law halts Sweden's worst spell of labor troubles since the Second World War.

At one time it was feared the dispute might involve a government lockout of officers and men in the armed forces, thus threatening national security.

FIRST INTERVENTION

The legislation marks the first case of direct government intervention in a dispute arising from the country's wage bargaining proceedings, long considered a model of sophistication.

It has aroused union fears that it will, by implication, spell the end of civil servants' rights to negotiate.

Today's implementation of the law will send 12,000 strikers back to work in the next few days, including 600 train controllers who brought rail services to a standstill when they walked out Feb. 5. Rail officials say services will be normal by Sunday.

The 35,000 other civil servants in the conflict—including 25,000 teachers—returned to work Thursday following the cancellation of all government-imposed lockouts.

Senator Levels Fresh Charges At Maritime Media Monopoly

OTTAWA (CP) — Senator Charles McElman (L—New Brunswick) levelled a fresh barrage of criticism at New Brunswick's English-language daily newspapers Thursday, despite a counter-attack by three of his chief targets.

Speaking in debate on the report of the Senate's special committee on the mass media, Senator McElman said his remarks were aimed mainly at the K. C. Irving interests in New Brunswick.

These include ownership of all five of the province's English-language daily newspapers, a television station and a radio station.

Senator McElman said Thursday, "that corporate empire in New Brunswick operates with the power of a lion, the appetite of a vulture, the grace of an elephant, the instincts of a barracuda and the principles of an alley cat."

Wednesday Senator McElman told the Senate that Michael Wardell, former owner of the Fredericton Gleaner, which was sold to the Irving interests, "is the same man who has used over too many years that daily newspaper in attempts to stir up racial disunity, hatred, prejudice, malice, bigotry and distrust in New Brunswick."

ACCUSES SENATOR

In reply to Senator McElman's comments of Wednesday, Mr. Wardell accused the senator of using the privileges of the Senate to slander him.

Mr. Wardell said in a statement: "The truth is that these are the very evils that I fought against over the years in The Daily Gleaner. The printed copies of The Daily Gleaner stand as testament to me and as contradiction of the senator."

He described Senator McElman's words as further proof of his "bitter personal bias."

"They confirm the charge I made at the Senate committee's hearings, that by his persistent attempts at harassment in the months preceding the committee's hearings, Senator McElman had disqualified himself from membership of the special Senate committee on mass media and that he could greatly assist the committee to present an appearance of judicial fairness by retiring from it."

TIMES THUNDERS

In Moncton, The Times said in an editorial answering Wednesday's charges by the Senator, that, "it would appear from here that Senator Charles McElman is determined to wring every last inch of mileage out of the Senate's special committee report on the mass media."

The senator had accused industrial tycoons of trying to grasp power: "They want to choose and appoint publishers and editors who share their philosophy, or who will at least operate the newspapers in strict accordance with their philosophy."

The Times replied that ". . . Senator McElman is still unable or unwilling to make the very important distinction, which is essential for understanding the situation, between ownership and control."

"Senator McElman sounds an alarm time and again about the dangers inherent in powerful conglomerates gaining ownership and control of the news media.

"One cannot deny that dangers exist . . . for that matter, everyone is a potential murderer . . . but there is a vast difference between what has and is happening, and what Senator McElman says could happen."

The Saint John Times-Globe said in an editorial that even if it were disposed to answer Wednesday's criticism by the senator, it "could hardly improve" on the reaction of his fellow senators.

FILTHY AFTERNOON

The newspaper quoted Senator David Walker of Ontario as saying: "This has been a filthy afternoon, listening to you, Senator McElman."

"Thank God there was some one in the Senate chamber with the courage and integrity to stand up and speak for those not present to defend themselves," the newspaper said.

"A filthy afternoon—what a condemnation from a fellow senator."

During Thursday's round of criticism Senator McElman said Mr. Wardell had referred to Brunswick Mining and Smelting Co. during his testimony to the Senate committee.

WENT BANKRUPT

He said Irving interests took over management of the company but after a lengthy series of financial misfortunes, the firm went bankrupt.

"The province literally had to force the Irving group out of control so that the project could be salvaged.

Senator McElman said that during this time, editorials written by Mr. Wardell "would lead the public to believe that the Irving groups are the aggrieved parties in all of this."

The real losers, the senator said, were the small investors who lost their savings in the company.

Senator McElman did not specify when the financial collapse took place.

The senator said K. C. Irving is a man who merits respect. He could be courteous and almost gentle in his personal relationships.

"But the corporate empire is something else again. It displays none of the gentle or considerate attributes of the man. Its thirst for power and more power is insatiable."

Cool-Aid Starts All Over Again In Church Bid

Cool-Aid had to start all over again Thursday to seek approval from the city and its citizens to establish a youth hostel in the Emmanuel Baptist Church at 1900 Fernwood.

Council agreed to drafting a new bylaw that would give Cool-Aid the right to operate a hostel in the church, and grant the title to Cool-Aid's parent-body, the Pacific Community Self-Development Society.

If the process of bringing the legislation forward goes smoothly, a public hearing on the rezoning should be held at council's April 8 meeting.

HAD HEARING

Cool-Aid has already undergone a public hearing to secure the church at which the idea was vigorously defended and attacked. The brunt of opposition was from the area's residents while support came largely from professional people who donate their services to the youth organization.

Council was prepared to allow the rezoning but financing, tentatively promised by the provincial government, did not materialize.

This time Cool-Aid expects to get financing from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation with backing from the federal health department.

At Thursday's meeting of council, Cool-Aid's arch opponent, Ald. Robert Baird, said he wanted Cool-Aid to show proof it will have funds to operate the hostel, should capital financing come through. Ald. Peter Pollen also wanted a comprehensive brief of the organization's project.

Ald. Ove Witt, who presented the motion to draft a bylaw, has been supporting Cool-Aid and answering its critics.

At the last meeting of the Intermunicipal Committee, at which Cool-Aid made a general presentation of its aims and new projects, Baird tried to speak on the topic but was turned down by chairman Frances Elford. Witt, who was also present, did not attempt to speak once Baird's comments were disallowed.

The new bylaw, if accepted, will likely designate the church for use as a hostel only. This would answer some of the objections heard at the last public hearing, when it was feared passing the bylaw would allow any public building to become a hostel.

The new one would stipulate that if the hostel was closed down, any further use of the church for a new purpose would have to be approved again through new rezoning.

Crosby, Friends Bidding for PoWs

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Bing Crosby's brother says the singer and a number of wealthy associates are attempting to negotiate ransom with North Vietnam for American prisoners-of-war.

The group, The Prisoners-of-War Rescue Mission, may appeal to the American public for financial support if the North Vietnamese make a reasonable offer, Larry Crosby, 76, said Thursday.

Crosby, often a spokesman for his millionaire brother, said in an interview an emissary for the group is in Vientiane, Laos. He said the emissary, John Fairfax, 55, met once this month with North Vietnamese embassy officials there.

The group seeks to ransom American PoWs with cash, reparations, or both, and if North Vietnam would not grant outright freedom it seeks their interment in a neutral country, Crosby said.

Period Plays Pleasantly Done

By CHERYL BORRIS

"This was the night for period plays," observed adjudicator Carl Hare at Thursday's evening performance of the Greater Victoria Drama Festival.

"We've had productions portraying 17th, 18th and 19th centuries this evening."

He explained that this is an area where young actors become involved with problems other than character portrayal. They must assimilate the manners, customs and strange speech idioms and diction of another era, and then get at the reality of the people behind the manners and customs."

She Stoops to Conquer, presented by Oak Bay Senior High was described as a genial comedy of manners, based on comic misunderstandings.

"Here the young actors were trying to get under the skin of people totally different to our way of life," remarked Hare.

●

He commented upon Greg Smith's Mr. Hardcastle, saying that the actor made a nice attempt at portraying the creature of comfort Mr. Hardastle was, and said that Lisbeth Knudsen as Mrs. Hardcastle "looked the part and played the spirit." He said that she had difficulty assimilating the different idioms of speech her lines required.

Tony, played by Scott Usborne, gave a very nice performance, but was required to present the part of a bumpkin. Instead, he betrayed himself with his hands as "they were the hands of a gentleman, unconsciously too graceful."

Robin Drader's Kate was praised for good diction, and Evelyn Menting's Constance was charming and attractive.

All in all, it was a pleasant and comfortable performance.

The second play of the evening presented by Central Junior High was Witches, described as "a sombre tragedy of superstition, taking place during the 17th century — a witch-fearing age."

The play contained parts of great emotion and intensity which the actresses sometimes caught through their own conviction of their parts.

Leslie Gerguson was complimented on her Dorcas, as she played with great fervor and viciousness.

The final presentation of the evening was Noel Coward's Family Album, offered by Oak Bay Senior. Hare commented on the tableau which nicely began the play, and on the diction of the players, a necessary ingredient for mid-19th century manners.

He said, "In this play, the actors and actresses were ladies and gentlemen naturally. There was nothing false about their characterizations.

"The personalities on stage were nicely balanced. Emily, played by Kathy Bullough, brightened the performance with her vivacity; Harriet (Catherine Racine) gave us a quiet, gentle performance with very much of the sense of a lady; and Jane, played by Amanda Allen, was sympathetic and sincere.

●

"Martin Kava gave a sympathetic, if energetic, performance of the aged family butler. This production was a fine, polished performance."

The festival concludes tonight at S. J. Willis, with plays by Esquimalt and Claremont Senior High schools and S. J. Willis Junior High.

At the conclusion of the festival, one play each from junior and senior division will be chosen for an honor performance Saturday night at Oak Bay Junior High.

AN ELECTRIC sound that has registered solidly in Vancouver comes to McPherson Playhouse Sunday, 8:30 p.m. Pacific Salt is a jazz-rock group which debuted recently in a CBC Festival of Music series, caught on and, according to critical comment, has a future. Its members are (left to right) George Ursan, drums; Ron Johnston, electric piano; Tony Clitheroe, fender bass; Don Clarke, trumpet and fluelhorn; Oliver Gannon, guitar, and Ian McDougall, trombone.

RUSSIAN RABBITS RAVENOUS

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russia is being invaded by rabbits says Tass, the Soviet news agency. Tass said heavy snow and frost in the north is driving great armies of rabbits across the tundra in search of food.

"There has not been such an invasion of rabbits in a long time," Tass said. "They are devouring all the haystacks in their path, and hunters complain that they even eat white partridges."

Police Honored

The Canadian Bankers' Association presented an award of $750 Thursday to Saanich municipality in appreciation of the police department role in last September's armed robbery and pursuit from a downtown bank through the Saanich Peninsula.

W. H. Armstrong, representing the Canadian Bankers' Association, said Saanich policemen assisted in the pursuit "in the face of gunfire," provided continuous surveillance though its command radio and also assisted by boat.

He presented the cheque to Mayor Hugh Curtis and police chief W. A. Pearson.

Pearson indicated the money will be spent on the purchase of athletic equipment to be used by policemen.

Later, Armstrong said a similar presentation will be made to the Victoria police via the city.

PENNY'S ADVICE

A Hide-and-Seek Game of Buying

By Jack Scott

Miss Evelyn Caldwell flew back to Vancouver last night, leaving, we suspect, a little blob of hate in the heart of every Victoria supermarket manager, and we had an enchanting conversation with her on the way to the airport.

Miss Caldwell is known to her friends as "Kate" and to the devoted readers of her long-time shopping-guide column in the Vancouver Sun as "Penny Wise" and she is 62 years of age, but looks 40, and she is 118 pounds of fighting Irish dedicated to the proposition that women will not be taken in the market place. She is quite a girl in every way.

The followers of her column are loosely banded together as The Female Fighting Forces — FFF, for short —, and time after time they have leaped to their escritoires to put the pressure on the wicked men who sell them things. When Miss Caldwell blows the whistle as many as 7,000 women are liable to answer, a fearful sight to behold.

The dear girl was in our town, as you may have noted, to testify to the legislature's agricultural committee on the subject of meat, as it is retailed in the supermarkets, and the broken bodies of butchers were left, bleeding, to right and left.

Scott

We asked Miss Caldwell if her lengthy, caustic recital of the dirty tricks that are played on all those nice women shoppers might not have been an eeny-weeny bit exaggerated.

"Not a whit, whatever a whit may be," she declared with flashing eye. "Oh, the things they do! It's all clever cutting and clever packaging coldly calculated to deceive. You buy that beautiful roast, all gorgeously wrapped in cellophane and then you get it home to find there's a great bugle of bone and wads of fat hidden in there. Agnes, herself (Mrs. Agnes Kripps, the lady MLA), told me that she had got two pounds of fat and gristle cunningly tucked away in a six-pound roast. Agnes has been an FFFer for a long time. They'll add meatless ribs or chunks of bone that don't even come from the animal the roast came from. If you untie the roast they just fall on the floor . . . blah. Empty weight and total waste.

"Really, nothing is beneath them. Take pork spare ribs. They'll take the side spare ribs, which aren't nearly as meaty, and sell them as a centre cut or a back cut. Then there's that great long, gristly, bony stuff at the end of it, totally inedible, hidden to the most searching examination. If you've the nerve to ask them to unwrap it and let you have a good look they'll just laugh. No way, chum."

We said we'd always understood that it was the quality and price of meat that decided women to shop at a particular store.

"Perfectly true and you'd think, then, that it would be the one item they'd concentrate on to play perfectly fair," Miss Caldwell said. "But they've found there's no need for it. The attraction can be nothing more than a pork roast for 49 cents a pound and that will be lure enough to bring the ladies in. It's all part of a pattern. Most supermarkets cut and package their meat at their own location so there has to be a conspiracy somewhere since they're all alike. The big bosses will tell you, 'We can't control our meat cutters and packagers.' The hell they can't. They're taught how to do it and you find the same tricks everywhere."

"But surely women ought to be wise to these tricks by now," we ventured. "Do you have contempt for the kind of consumer who allows herself to be perpetually hoodwinked?"

"Not contempt at all, only sympathy," Miss Caldwell said. "You've got to remember that they are out-matched. If deceptive practices are crooked then they're up against outright crooks. Not nearly enough is done, either, in the way of consumer information. There are many women who are just plain stupid, of course, but the ignorance and the apathy are disappearing fast. They're increasingly suspicious and on guard. They're bitching all the time now and the supermarket managers know it, believe you me. There's a great ground swell of protest that will crest one of these fine days."

"Ron Basford says that a woman who has been cheated needs only to switch stores."

"And the chances are she'll be cheated at the next one, too," Miss Caldwell tartly replied. "No, that isn't the answer. The only real solution is have tough, policed legislation. With meat, for example, we need laws that spell it out, that say a rump roast must consist of one solid chunk of rump, a standing rib roast must not have fat added to it or extra bones stuck in it. That sort of thing. That would help to stop the exploitation. Along with that the meat should all be cut and wrapped at the packing houses so that the whole thing could be controlled in a few locations rather than in thousands of neighborhood stores.

★ ★ ★

"Pressure alone and an informed public isn't going to do the whole job, but it all helps. I talked to the head of one packaging company the other day who told me flatly that if consumers aren't given a fair shake in the market place, and given it very soon, they could destroy some of our biggest food industries. In the States, for example, the consumer's dilemma is second only to Vietnam as the subject that's causing the most concern by the population. There is an awareness and an anger that is growing and growing and won't be denied."

We wondered what direct advice Miss Caldwell gave to her constituents when they phoned to report that they'd been had, so to speak.

"One good bit of advice is to join their local branch of the Consumers Association of Canada," she said, "but most women simply aren't joiners. All you can really tell them is to complain and complain and then complain some more. They must go right to the top, too. There's no good whining to the check-out girl or even the store manager. It's top management that gets the message best. Sometimes, too, the store manager is doing his own personal cheating, trying to meet the constant pressure on him to increase his sales and perhaps going farther with these gimmicks than the big boss would approve.

"A woman came in the other day about a package of liver she'd bought with little rag-tag ends of liver that you couldn't possibly serve, adroitly hidden away. I wouldn't let Tippy, my chihuahua, eat it. The woman said she couldn't get the regional manager of that supermarket chain on the phone — they're playing very coy these days that way — and so I told her, dearie, put that liver in an envelope and mail it to him. He'll respond to that, you can bet your life.

"Another thing I advise is to go to the small butcher shop, though I know how much women like to do all their shopping conveniently under one roof. But at the little butcher shop she can heft that roast and have a darn good look at it and she can give the butcher hell if he lets her down. She can buy five sausages if that's all she wants or one single piece of liver. If nothing else, she'll be obeying the cardinal rule of the consumer: buy and compare.

"That's all there is to it?"

"Buy and compare," Miss Caldwell said, bidding us adieu, "and shout at the top of your voice."

'Government Capitulated'

About-Face on Teacher-Trustees Attacked

ARMSTRONG
. . . 'pays dearly'

The chairman of the Saanich school board said today teachers in many ways aren't equipped to be school trustees.

Jack Armstrong condemned the provincial government for abandoning in the legislature Thursday night its plan to bar teachers from serving on school boards.

Armstrong said he is sure all members of his school board share his view.

"As far as I'm concerned, this is a case of the government capitulating to the powerful and militant James Killeen, president of the B.C. Teachers' Federation. I hope our board will take some definite action on this alarming situation."

Education Minister Donald Brothers withdrew the proposed ban in an amendment to the Education Act. He explained later that he wants to reconsider the move for the next year, saying in response to a question that it was not withdrawn as a result of pressure.

But indications were that elements in the Social Credit party, including Scott Wallace (SC—Oak Bay), campaigned against the ban along with teachers and others outside the party.

Teachers are currently prohibited from serving on school boards in the districts in which they teach but are allowed to serve on boards outside their own school's district.

When the amendment to ban them from all school boards was introduced last week, Brothers said the government feels it is not in the public interest for teachers to be on school boards.

Armstrong said he is disappointed in the government's change of heart.

"In many ways, by training, inclination, environment and experience, teachers lack understanding of the true needs and nature of society beyond the rather protective environment of the education system."

Educators are already well-represented on school boards by retired teachers, university professors and teachers' wives, he said.

"Surely the very basis of the lay school board is that representation from all segments of society should have a chance to make their voices heard in education decisions."

Armstrong said the public pays "and pays dearly" for the education system "and decision-making should not be to such a disproportionate extent in the hands of just one segment of society — the people who administer our schools."

He noted that of the four school board chairmen in the Capital district, he is the only one who is not or has not been a teacher.

INEVITABLE

Teachers on school boards inevitably face conflicts of interest, he said.

The public must understand that in negotiations on teacher contracts "it is each school board against the awesome monolithic strength of the B.C. Teachers' Federation.

"This means that any practising teacher on any school board can, to an extent, affect the negotiations of his own salary and fringe benefits.

"Legally he can also become an officer of the employers' association (the B.C. School Trustees' Association) and that also is a conflict of interest.

"If he is sincere as a trustee, and I presume most are, he must continually excuse himself from debate because of conflicts of interest that arise. He therefore becomes much less effective as a trustee.

"I believe a trustee's job is not just an evening one. He should continually visit schools to understand specific situations. Thus practising teachers cannot effectively carry out their trustee's duties without special leave, in which case they may be neglecting their own teaching assignments."

Car the 'Big Offender' Says Bus Union Brief

The "one big offender" in transportation is the private automobile, says a brief released today by the Victoria local of the Amalgamated Transit Union.

The brief, sent to municipal council, says "too much emphasis has been placed on accommodating the private automobile, and none on service to people."

The brief calls for the formation of a regional transportation board and co-ordination of all transit services in the area.

The transit union also produced a sketch plan of a central bus depot in the block between Douglas and Blanshard, Pandora and Cormorant.

"Transit is a public service. To us it is as essential as police and fire protection, or garbage collection," the brief says.

Transit should be given the chance to compete with the private car, the brief says. "... doors should be opened to promote transit to its fullest extremes."

"The cost factor for such a project can hardly be interpreted by anyone as being expensive when consideration is given to the fact that within the next five years the price tag for new road construction will be in the neighborhood of five million dollars."

The brief says the union does not rule out the possibility of free public transit, and also recognizes that sightseeing and special bus services are more lucrative than regular public transit.

The brief says the union drew up the brief "for the purpose of creating interest. The main objective has not been to point the fingers of criticism at the present operators of the system, nor to dictate the manner in which the future of transit is handled. It has been brought about by the vested interest in transit.

"That is the natural feeling among our membership."

JAIL INMATE SWEPT OUT BY BIG WAVES

A 24-year-old William Head inmate is believed to have perished Thursday night in wind-whipped seas off the prison shoreline.

Jack Curley of Totino is missing and presumed drowned after he slipped from wet rocks and was swept out to sea by high waves at about 5:30 p.m.

A search by RCMP boats and men began Thursday and would continue today, Head superintendent William Milner said.

Curley was serving a four-year sentence for "several crimes."

MILL CALLS 12 BACK

About a dozen Victoria employees of B.C. Forest Products Ltd. are being called back to work on a temporary basis following major layoffs last month.

They are being used intermittently on a variety of jobs at the company's Crofton operations, said senior manager Walter Nelson. The work may be for several days at a time on a fill-in basis and extend over about one month, he said.

But there is no sign of improvement in the company's export market situation, which with soft lumber prices caused the closure of one Victoria sawmill and reduced staff in other operations.

SINCE DR. ZHIVAGO. A bowl of mush if ever there was one, I've been wary of over-touted films in which young wives betray their husbands through several hours of screen tedium. But it's hard to hold a grudge against director David Lean, and perhaps the talent that blazed in Bridge on the River Kwai had kindled Ryan's Daughter into something better than a grandiose tear-jerker.

In this hope, we took ourselves to the Royal the other evening. Nor were we disappointed. In Ryan's Daughter, Lean takes the standard ingredients of an Irish movie stew — IRA, British Black-and-Tans, informer, priest and star-crossed lovers — and turns them into a dish well worth sampling.

Since I detest blabbermouths who insist on spilling picture plots, it's enough to note that the story jogs briskly along, and that Robert Mitchum as a deceived husband is a standout in a very good cast.

Anyway, what makes the picture is neither story nor actors, but David Lean's love affair with the West-of-Ireland scene. The Atlantic in all its moods never had a better interpreter.

If it had nothing else to commend it, Ryan's Daughter would be worth seeing for one magnificent storm sequence alone. And even when otherwise occupied, the camera remains aware of the sea and sensitive to its moods.

Perceptive shots: children beachcombing, and blue-hulled curraghs bottom-up on fishermen's shoulders, creeping bug-like across tawny sands.

A good picture. On the assumption that a certain amount of violence and some fairly explicit love-making won't shock you, I recommend it as one to see.

Back when our reluctant spring was no more than a hint and a promise, I warned newcomers to Victoria against expecting too much too soon. We don't have any real winter, I pointed out, but we do get a rainy season.

This week a plaint from a recently-arrived resident who tells me he has had it clear up to here.

"How long does this last?" he wants to know. "You mentioned 40 days and 40 nights. I thought you were kidding. Now I begin to think you weren't. When do we get a break?"

By a break, he means clear skies and balmy airs. And I would dearly like to be able to answer his question.

As a webfoot long in these parts, I can only call his attention to a recent weather report that told of storms lined up all the way to Japan, each one champing to get at us.

Has our situation changed at last? A wager on the thoroughbreds is less chancy than a bet on the weather. Enough that the sun shone today, bringing warmth and color to a city that could use more of the same. A welcome relief, even if we wake to the drip of rain tomorrow.

In the course of scolding a member of recently-formed Gordon Head Ratepayers' Association for challenging salt water sewage disposal, Mayor Hugh Curtis leaves himself open to challenge.

Among other claims that still wait proof, Curtis asserts that the Finnerty Cove outfall carries sewage "under ideal and rigidly controlled conditions."

Saying it doesn't necessarily make it so. As an opponent of Saanich's "chuck it in the water disposal" policy, I would like to see the environmental effect of that outfall come under careful and impartial study. This should be done before Saanich concludes sewer construction that will drastically increase its output.

Specifically, I wish that University of Victoria would undertake such an independent survey, and make its findings public.

As a layman in such matters, I'm open to correction. But I find it strange that an outfall operating "under ideal and rigidly controlled conditions" should be marked at its discharge-point by an acre or so of surface-scavenging gulls.

Mayor Curtis has said that the municipality is prepared to introduce treatment at that outfall when necessary. It's possible that an unbiased study might show that time to have arrived, or even to be years overdue.

Cold Food Inflamed King Louis

ORANGE BANANA FLAMBE

According to 17th-century French lore, Louis XIV, an insatiable gourmand, had problems besides love affairs and problems of state.

Every dish intended for him had to be carried down long, drafty halls from distant kitchens. It then had to be first taste-tested by his attendant courtiers.

Consequently, the king's food was usually cold — oranges were a special favorite with Louis, because their flavor never suffered from being cold.

King Louis might have liked dishes like Easy and Elegant Orange Banana Flambe made at the table in a chafing dish. Orange segments and banana pieces are simply combined in a refreshing syrup, heated, then set aflame with brandy.

ORANGE BANANA FLAMBE
(6 to 8 servings)

- 3 large oranges
- 3 large, very firm bananas
- 2 tablespoons freshly squeezed lemon juice
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- ½ cup seedless raspberry jam
- 1 teaspoon freshly grated orange peel
- ¼ cup freshly squeezed orange juice.
- 3 tablespoons Courvoisier Grand Marnier or dark rum

To remove orange peel easily, soak fruit in hot tap water about 3 minutes. Score peel into quarters and remove with fingers.

Separate oranges into natural segments; set aside.

Split bananas; cut crosswise into 4 pieces.

Combine with lemon juice in medium bowl; stir with fingers to coat each piece with juice. Cover with oranges; sprinkle oranges with sugar. Cover with plastic wrap; refrigerate at least 30 minutes, but can be held up to 6 hours.

At dessert time, combine raspberry jam, orange peel and juice in chafing dish or large skillet. Heat until bubbly; add brandy and set aflame.

Bubble a moment longer then add fruit mixture. Stir gently until well coated with sauce and warmed. Serve immediately.

Hungry King Louis could have enjoyed this fresh Tangerine Luncheon Salad in complete safety. Lack of refrigeration was no problem when there was always a court taster handy to test the quality.

FRESH TANGERINE LUNCHEON SALAD
(serves four)

- 2 cups fresh tangerine segments
- 2 cans (4½ ounces each) shrimp
- 2 tablespoons mayonnaise
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon curry powder
- 1 teaspoon freshly grated tangerine peel
- 2 cups freshly squeezed tangerine juice
- 1 pint cottage cheese
- 4 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
- 1 cup chopped cucumber
- 2 teaspoons freeze-dried or fresh chopped chives
- Crisp salad greens

Remove seeds from tangerine segments if necessary. Devein shrimp and rinse in cold running water; drain thoroughly. Set tangerines and shrimp aside.

Thoroughly blend mayonnaise with salt, curry powder, grated tangerine peel and juice. Add remaining ingredients, except salad greens, to mayonnaise mixture. Toss lightly to blend well.

For each serving, arrange crisp greens on salad plate; add a mound of cottage cheese mixture. Place shrimp and tangerine sections in an attractive design over cottage cheese. Top each serving with mayonnaise, thinned with a little tangerine juice and mixed with tangerine peel.

Even though the elegant black crepe dress she wore to a recent dinner party betrayed her into giving a free leg show, Sonia McMahon has no plans for switching to a more conservative wardrobe now that her husband is prime minister-elect of Australia. (AP Wirephoto.)

DEAR ABBY . . .

Love Left Out

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 25, work 40 hours a week, have been married five years and have a stepson who is now 10.

I have taught this child neatness, manners, respect for his elders and the property of others. If he misbehaves, he is punished either by spanking, or I take his bike away. He is made to clean up his plate before getting dessert, and he's not allowed a lot of junk candy between meals. He is also taught not to interrupt others while they are talking.

I have no children of my own and don't want any.

I am told by friends and relatives that I am too hard on the boy, and I am accused of not liking children because I don't want any more. Am I wrong raising him the way I am, and for not wanting any more? — Wondering

DEAR WONDERING: You are raising a neat, respectful, courteous, responsible citizen, which is to your credit, and from your letter I don't think you are "too hard" on the boy. But if you "love" him, you failed to mention it in your letter. (Children need to feel loved.)

You are not "wrong" for not wanting more children but because you obviously advertised that fact, I can understand why your friends and relatives would acuse you of "not liking" children. (Do you?)

DEAR ABBY: Can you tell me exactly how a girl is supposed to kiss a boy? I have heard that it just comes naturally, but in case it doesn't, can you give me some directions? Should you quit breathing? I know you aren't supposed to make a "smack" sound when you are kissing a boy, but it's if you are kissing a relative, isn't it? Another question: Are you supposed to move your head? Or do you move your lips? One last last thing: What are you supposed to do with your nose? — 13 And Never Been Kissed

DEAR 13: You should not quit breathing. No "smack" sounds. Not even with relatives. It's not necessary to move anything. And all you do with your nose is breathe through it.

DEAR ABBY: What can you give an 81-year-old man to make him behave himself? You wouldn't believe how much life there is in this old goat! By the way, he is not my husband. — 72 And Tired Of Running

DEAR 72: You can give him the back of your hand.

DEAR ABBY: My husband snores. He doesn't snore like an ordinary person. He snores like a 400-pound water buffalo.

If I don't fall asleep before he does, I'm sunk. He not only snores, he snorts, mumbles, groans and whistles up a storm. Don't tell me to get him to a doctor. He is a doctor. What's more, he insists that he doesn't snore. He says I snore. Can you help me? — No Sleep In Hartford.

DEAR NO: Even doctors need doctors, and your "water buffalo" should see one. Minor surgery can frequently eliminate excessive snoring. If it doesn't in this case, browse around in a "sleep shop" and try some of the remedies suggested. Some actually work. If your husband's case is hopeless, earplubs for you and adhesive tape for his mouth is the last hope. After that — separate bedrooms.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

PM's Wife Shows Fashion Down Under

By GORTON TAIT

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Mrs. William McMahon, wife of the new Australian prime minister, is a charmer, an elegant blonde who knows how to dress, is well educated and speaks well.

Before she wed that confirmed bachelor Billy McMahon in 1965, she was Sonia Hopkins, a leader in the Sydney social set, rich, and a career woman. He was then 57, she a lovely 34. She had been engaged once before but never married.

She is still lovely and mother of two, Melinda, 4, and Julian, nearly 3.

At the time of her marriage she was described as "cool, elegant, attractive, a devoted worker for charity, wealthy in her own right and fond of people, travelling, and giving dinner parties." She had trained and worked as an occupational therapist and done some film work.

She is friendly enough to talk about that leggy picture of herself on the arm of her husband that has been published around the world. It was taken Tuesday night as they left Parliament House after a dinner party.

Was she wearing hot pants?

"Well sort of. It was a black crepe dress slit up the front that I was wearing for the first time and the wind blew at the wrong moment."

The photographer thought it was the right moment, as the wind revealed a great pair of legs.

Now, as the wife of the prime minister, would she wear different clothes and have to modify her wardrobe?

"I hope not," she said, looking rather startled. "People seem to approve of things I wear now."

The women writers say Mrs. McMahon is always up to the minute with the fashions, is elegant and lovely.

"My wardrobe is mostly Australian-made," she says. "I don't go in for many imported clothes."

She now will be responsible for three homes—the prime minister's residence, the lodge in Canberra; their Canberra apartment and their Sydney house, in an exclusive and expensive suburb.

Mrs. McMahon is not, however, Australia's first lady. That distinction belongs to Lady Hasluck, wife of Gov.-Gen. Sir Paul Hasluck.

Indira's 'Gross Indiscipline' Triumphs

NEW DELHI (AP) — Five years ago, when the other leaders of India's governing Congress party agreed to name Indira Gandhi prime minister, they thought they had not only a vote-getter but someone sure to toe their line and easy to control.

A vote-getter she is, but Mrs. Gandhi turned out to be a true daughter of Jawaharlal Nehru — tough, independent, determined and a better politician than the men who put her in office.

Forty-six months after they picked her, the party's conservative leadership — called the Syndicate—expelled her for "gross indiscipline." Defying them, she split the party, rallied the larger part of it to her side and lined up enough leftist allies in other parties to give her a majority in Parliament and keep her in control of the government.

Judging the time was right for a showdown with the conservatives, Mrs. Gandhi dissolved parliament in December and campaigned by plane, helicopter and car across 10,000 miles, speaking to perhaps five million persons and seen by another 10 million lining the routes of her motorcades.

VOTE IS TRIUMPH

The election returns pouring in today were a triumph for the slim, handsome 53-year-old woman. Having reversed the decline of the party she inherited from Nehru and Mohandas K. Gandhi, she has routed her opponents and now has a green light for the socialist programs she prescribes for India.

Indira Priya Darshini—meaning "dear to sight"—Nehru was born in her father's home town of Allahabad, in Uttar Pradesh state, Nov. 19, 1917. She had a lonely childhood because her parents, especially her father, were in British prisons much of the time for seeking independence for India.

When Nehru was not in jail, he was surrounded by politicians in the independence cause, and Indira absorbed the politics and the desire for Indian independence that came in 1947.

She went to school in India and Switzerland and attended Oxford. Back in India, she quickly became a member of the Congress party and shortly thereafter was sent to prison for 13 months for political activity.

She was married in 1942 to Feroze Gandhi, a Lucknow businessman and no kin to the Mahatma. After a short honeymoon both were jailed briefly for independence efforts. Their two sons, Rajiv and Sanjay, were born in 1944 and 1946. Feroze died in 1960, after a heart attack.

KEPT HAND IN

Mrs. Gandhi then moved in with her father, the prime minister, and while refusing government posts, kept her hand in political affairs by travelling widely and working in many organizations.

"I don't like politics," she once said. "I don't like being in the public eye."

Nevertheless, she became president of the Congress party in 1959, claiming its leaders "bullied me into it." After her father died in 1964, she moved into the cabinet of Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri. Upon his death two years later, she became prime minister.

During the election campaign she expressed her broad political philosophy for India:

"Our aim today is to give real meaning to democracy and freedom and see that the fruits of our development are spread throughout the country and not in a very few hands, democratic manner, in which the bad is removed and the We want to have changes in a good is retained."

THE ALUMNAE

"For a minute, I feared they're trying to get US back into these things, but this is the men's department."

Baby-Sitting For Shoppers

Hillside Shopping Centre will co-operate with the Victoria Low Income Group to offer a babysitter service for shoppers.

The service opens Saturday in the mall and provides supervision and toys. An hourly rate will be chargged, with the fees retained by the welfare service.

Blind Try Three-Dimensional Art

OTTAWA (CP — Hilda Shreier felt blind people could learn three-dimensional art, so she volunteered to teach them.

Ten showed up at the first class last October and nine are still at it. It was their first attempt at art since the "mud pie days," said Annette Gelineau, one of the group and director of recreation for the Canadian Council for the Blind.

Mrs. Shreier started the class "drawing in clay," relief work where the blind would not encounter any handicap. Where there are problems in casting clay figures into plaster, Mrs. Shreier takes over.

She said her students could handle the chiselling and pouring involved, but there isn't time in the weekly two-hour classes.

Mrs. Shreier suggested that the group try making masks and heads because she thought that "the head is what they were most familiar with — it turned out they knew their hair."

She sees her role more as that of a technician than of a teacher.

She believes her class is the only such venture in Canada and hopes more artists will be asked or volunteer to give such classes.

One problem is financial. Municipal art centre artists have been subsidizing the class.

Cowichan Valley Will Have to Pay 'To Get Things to Work a Little Better'

By DONNA CLEMENTS

GLENORA — If the Cowichan Valley Regional District is going to succeed, the taxpayer is "going to have to start putting his money where his mouth is," says chairman Bruce Devitt.

The regional board is here for people to approach, Devitt said in an interview.

"We are here to co-operate and help within reason and try to draw everything together to try to get things to work a little better."

Devitt said the directors also realized they have to show leadership as long as they don't get too far ahead of the community and the people's willingness to pay.

There is concern about pollution and land use, said Devitt.

●

"But how much are the people prepared to have the cost of solving these problems reflected in their taxes? We are trying to analyse the feelings of the community."

Since the regional concept was introduced five years ago, Devitt said this is the first year it is "finally functioning as initially intended. We are really at crossroads and there are major decisions that must be made."

Devitt said the provincial government's intention was to incorporate, where necessary, rural areas.

"They want to get the tax base a little broader and they want orderly development in land use."

DEVITT
. . . dream of unity

Devitt, father of three children, who lives in a small community called Glenora, five miles southwest of Duncan where he feels he can get away from it all, said his original involvement in the regional district was his concern of land use in the Glenora area.

"I joined the regional board as a director when it was first formed because it grieves a person seeing land abused. It is short-sighted," he said.

"At that time I hoped the regional district would help us to bring more orderly development to the area. I also hoped it would help bring the community closer together and not have it fragmented like it is right now."

Five years later Devitt's dream remains the same.

"I would like to see the whole community drawing together, working together and creating a really good environment. I don't think most of us here really realize what we have.

●

"How long are people prepared to put up with the different forms of government we have? I am all for the consolidation of services that we have to offer people to make them more efficient."

Devitt said Cowichan Valley residents must ask themselves is it better to incorporate, keep their identity and pay high costs or to get involved, lose their identify and share the burden.

"If people want all of their requests they will have to pay premiums," he noted. "People are really going to have to start putting their money where their mouth is."

"The whole community is so fragmanted," Devitt said. "We couldn't ask for a better setting and environment but everyone seems to be going in different directions instead of working together."

Issues going before area taxpayers in the near future include an extended care hospital, zoning, building and subdivision bylaws in the Cobble Hill, Cowichan Station and Cowichan Bay areas; a sewer bylaw for Cowichan Bay plus a recreational area bylaw for Shawnigan Lake.

The regional board, consisting of 14 directors, represents 32,500 people from the Malahat to Ladysmith to Nitinat.

Areas represented are four organized districts (Duncan, North Cowichan, Ladysmith and Lake Cowichan) and nine unorganized (Cowichan Station-Glenora-Sahtlam, Mill Bay, Shawnigan Lake, Cobble Hill, Cowichan Bay, south side of Cowichan Lake, north side of Cowichan Lake, Saltair and North Oyster).

To date, Devitt said regional directors have had difficulty sorting out their terms of references and there are "a lot of grey areas where a person doesn't know whether they are provincial, regional or municipal responsibility. As a regional district our policy has been to guard against foisting too many provincial responsibilities on the people."

Devitt, who has lived in the Cowichan area for the past 14 years, has found himself much involved and a leader in local politics in the past few years.

Born in New Westminster, educated and raised between Vancouver and the Bridge River-Lillooet area, Devitt graduated from the University of British Columbia in 1957 with his bachelor of science and forestry degree. He then came to Duncan as a forester with the B.C. Forest Service in its reforestation section.

●

Devitt is now forester in charge of the eight provincial tree nurseries. His headquarters are in Victoria.

As well as being regional board director for the past four years and now board chairman, Devitt was Cowichan District school board trustee for three years, and chairman in 1969.

Discovery of Body Described by Boy, 9

NANAIMO (CP) — A nine-year-old boy told Thursday of finding the body of the man who drove him to Bible-study sessions.

Robert Johnson of Bamfield, was testifying at the trial of Dr. Glen Stewart, 43, on a non-capital murder charge.

Stewart is charged in the death of Gordon Adrian Kralt, 23, whose decomposed body was found near the Ross Bible Camp at Pachena Bay, near Bamfield, early last November. Stewart was arrested in San Francisco.

Young Johnson testified that it was Kralt's habit to drive him to a Bible-study session each Friday night.

He said he last saw Kralt alive on the Friday before Halloween. He said he was out playing between Ross Camp and Bamfield in November when he discovered a man's body.

AXE FOUND

He said he had heard earlier that Kralt was missing, so he called Kralt's name, then ran home. There, he told his father who called police.

Constable Dave Rossander of Nanaimo RCMP testified that the body, identified as that of Kralt, was about 75 feet off a road.

He said he found an axe in nearby underbrush and found traces of what he believed to be blood on shelves in the house at the Bible camp, and on the door of a car discovered in a parking lot in Nanaimo. He said a flashlight with Kralt's name on it was also in the vehicle.

KRALT

Two other witnesses who testified Thursday said they knew Stewart, the accused, by the name of Dave Burroughs.

Gordon Pollard, a Port Alberni garage operator, said he did some electrical work on a blue-huled ketch Oct. 3. He identified Stewart as the operator but said he knew him as Dave Burroughs.

Jack McLeman of Port Alberni, Kralt's brother-in-law, said he and Kralt interviewed a man at Bamfield about a camp caretaker's job and the man introduced himself as Dave Burroughs.

He said the man was standing beside a blue-hulled ketch, and he identified Burroughs and Stewart as the same man.

William Michael Lundy, the owner of a sporting goods store in Smithers, B.C., identified a .44-magnum rifle as one he sold to Stewart. The gun had the barrel cut off and the stock trimmed to resemble a pistol grip.

The trial, in its second day Thursday, is continuing.

Cowichan Artists Get Fair Chance

DUNCAN — An arts fair will be held in conjunction with the Vancouver Island zone finals for the B.C. Drama Association in Duncan during Easter.

Ted Fox, chairman of the Cowichan Valley regional arts council, said the purpose of the newly-formed club's first arts fair to be held April 14 to 17 at the Knights of Pythias Hall, Brae Road, is to give recognition to local artists.

Admission to the exhibition, which is open to people living within the boundaries of the Cowichan Valley, will be free.

"The participation and success of this initial exhibition will help to serve as a guideline for our future plans," Fox said.

"We are satisfied there are many accomplished artists and artisans in the Cowichan Valley area and it is our hope to draw these people into competition in order that their work may be seen and recognized."

Sixteen drama groups have entered 18 plays in the drama competitions to be held at Mount Prevost Junior Secondary between April 12 to 17.

Woman, 60, Recovering From Highway Collision

A 60-year-old woman is in fair condition following surgery for internal injuries at St. Joseph's Hospital after she was hurt in a two-car crash Thursday morning.

Mrs. Ethel Muriel Patrick, of 106 Conrad, View Royal, was injured in the 9:25 a.m. crash at Trans-Canada Highway and St. Giles near Portage Inlet, police said.

She was riding in a car driven by Alexander MacFarian, 75, of 1035 Belmont which collided with another car driven by Laurie Wallace, 20, of 831 Shamrock.

Both cars were demolished.

Rose Pruning Demonstration

By HILDA BEASTALL

Since there's no hurry about getting roses pruned, why not take the opportunity Saturday of seeing how an experienced rose grower does the job?

Metchosin Garden Club is sponsoring the demonstration in a private garden at 4705 William Head Road (corner of William Head and Taylor Roads at 2 p.m.)

Hilda

George A. Wiggan is scheduled to do the work, explaining each cut as you watch.

Even though your roses may look a little different from the ones you'll see being pruned, basically they'll look the same afterwards.

If your garden is subjected to late spring frosts, delay your rose pruning until the first week of April, but if you have never experienced anything lower than 30 deg. F. from March 15 on, you could safely go to work on your roses after your open-air practical lesson.

Other shrubs which normally bloom from June on will need specific pruning according to their kind.

Summer, and late summer flowering Hydrangea arborescens and H. paniculata grandiflora respectively, will need pruning by the end of March, since both shrubs bloom on the new growths made during spring and summer. Cut back the old stems, leaving two bud growths.

The late summer-blooming Buddleia variabilis (davidi) should also be reduced by pruning. Cut each old stem back to three or four strong new tufts of leaves.

Don't prune the golden spring Buddleia globosa until it has finished flowering (late April); then cut mack drastically.

A group of grey leaved shrubby plants are pruned a little later on too, so keep this list as a reminder.

Santolina incana (Lavender-cotton), Senecio laxifolius (sometimes called Greyi), Artemisia abrotanum (Southernwood), and the several herbaceous silver-foliaged Artemisia hybrids such as Silver Mound and Silver Queen, all these give much improved summer foliage if pruned quite strongly at the end of March.

Fall blooming heathers have the old flower stems snipped off now; but leave the winter flowerers until they finish. Then go over those in April.

Clematis which bloom in late summer can have all side branches shortened to about two buds; and new plants of clematis put in last year will be improved by cutting them down to 12 or 18 inches from the ground. New growths will be much stronger.

KARPIN ON BRIDGE

By FRED L. KARPIN

A hand containing no card higher than a nine-spot is known in bridge as a "Yarborough." The origin of this term dates back several hundred years, to one Lord Yarborough of England.

The good lord would customarily wager one thousand pounds to one pound with any willing player in a whist game that, on any specified deal, that player would not be dealt a hand containing no card higher than a nine-spot. If Lord Yarborough made enough wagers at his price, he figured to become a wealthy man: the precise odds against holding a 13-card hand with no card higher than a nine, are 1,827 to one!

In all the years that I've been playing bridge, I have held just one "Yarborough," which is discussed today. The hand evokes pleasant memories for me, for I won two tricks with it! I was in the North seat.

Neither side vulnerable. South deals.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
3 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Five of ♠.

If there are any quizzical eyebrows raised at South's three no-trump opening bid, they deserve to be raised. Yet, is there a better bid?

West's five of spades opening was captured by East's ace. The nine of spades was returned, South's jack falling to West's queen. My eight of spades had just been promoted to the second highest-ranking spade left in the deck.

West next took his king of spades, figuring that there would be no way for South to reach the North hand to cash the new-supreme eight of spades.

On the king of spades, East played the jack of hearts, while South discarded a club. West next shifted to the six of hearts, South taking the trick with his queen. When South then cashed the ace and king of diamonds, he had the good fortune of catching East's jack and 10.

He now led the seven of diamonds to my nine, after which he cashed my high eight of spades, discarding his remaining low club. The rest of the tricks belonged to him.

I wonder what odds Lord Yarborough would have given me if I had made a wager with him that I would hold a Yarborough that would win two tricks. I imagine that he would have gone bankrupt if, of course, I had been silly enough to have accepted the wager.

fun with figures

By J.A.H. HUNTER

Sam was closing for the day when I looked in one Friday. "How's business?" I asked.

"Fine. We've taken $500.05 in five days," he replied. "Only a few customers Monday, but every day after that the same number more than the day before. It's funny that each day our sales per customer averaged that same number of dollars less than the day before, the averages all whole numbers of cents of course."

"Amazing!" I nodded. "So I guess you had at least fifty customers this first week."

Sam smiled. "Not that many," he told me.

What did his Friday sales total?

(Answer Monday)

Thursday's answer: TIGER was 10387.

Lead Retained By Switzerland

East Germany stayed in second place by overwhelming Austria 11-3. Poland beat Norway 8-1 and Italy and Yugoslavia played to a 4-4 tie.

DON'T GET CLOSE TO THIS ONE

LONDON (CP) — A British government agency has sent out a dispatch advising all pilots to "keep a particularly good lookout" when in the area of the Royal Air Force College in central England between March 22 and August 2.

What they are to watch for—the plane in which Prince Charles is taking jet-pilot training—shouldn't be hard to spot. It'll carry everything but L-for-learner signs.

The jet will be painted red and white and have special anti-collision lights that flash.

NET PLAYHOUSE, 8:30 p.m., Channel 9. "Much Ado About Nothing" (Part I). Shakespeare's caustic comedy of young love, quarrelsomely united. Stars Academy Award winner Maggie Smith ("The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie") as bickering Beatrice and her husband Robert Stephens as Benedick, her partner in argument. "Much Ado" was adapted for television by England's National Theatre Company from Franco Zeffirelli's free-wheeling theatrical interpretation. Part II will be televised Thursday, March 18.

★ ★ ★

THE INTERNS, 7:30 p.m., Channel 7. Off-Broadway actor Ron O'Neal makes his first television appearance in an empisode which has been rescheduled twice. The subject is the fight game and O'Neal plays a veteran boxer who appears to be making a miraculous comeback. His old friend Dr. Cal Barrin, however, suspects stimulants, not stamina, is behind it.

HIGH CHAPARRAL, 7:30 p.m., Channel 5. Tonight's main character is a television writer's dream. Guest star Albert Salmi plays an embittered white man who lives as an Apache. John, Buck, Manolito and Wind are challenged when they enter Indian country to round up wild horses. Sound like "Hombre?"

★ ★ ★

NANNY, 8:30 p.m., Channel 4. You can't fight City Hall but you can work around it. Nanny and the children decide to put on a variety show to raise money for a park fountain the city won't repair. Eddie Foy Jr. is tonight's guest star.

★ ★ ★

NAME OF THE GAME, 8:30 p.m., Channel 5. Gene Barry as Glenn Howard handles the chores tonight in "The Broken Puzzle." The story involves a corrupt governor, a mysterious plane crash and Howard's temporary amnesia. Chuck Connors, Pat Crowley, Charles Aidman and Alex Dreier are the guest stars.

★ ★ ★

FRIDAY NIGHT MOVIE, 9 p.m., Channels 7, 12. "Harpy," starring Hugh O'Brian, Elizabeth Ashley, Tom Nardini and Marilyn Mason, is made-for-TV melodrama about an architect who trains harpies, feathered and flesh. The feathered ones are two harpy eagles, rare predators whose natural habitat is the Andes Mountains of South America. In the flesh, the harpy is ex-wife Elizabeth Ashley who wants to break up O'Brian's current romance and get him back. Hubby has better luck with the birds.

YOUR HEALTH: Dr. Walter Alvarez

People ask me if it is important to have the rectum examined after the age of 40. My answer is, most certainly, yes. One of the commonest sites for cancer is the rectum, and it is not pleasant to lose one's rectum and perhaps one's life.

Every since I was 40, I have had yearly examination with X-ray studies of my chest, gullet, stomach and bowel, and a sigmoidoscopic examination of my rectum. It is easy to look into the rectum and the sigmoid (S-like colon, or large bowel just above the rectum with a sigmoidoscope, an electrically lighted tube about 20 inches long and inch in diameter.

With this instrument, in a few minutes, an expert can tell if the bowel is normal or if there is in it a polyp, a little growth that is usually not cancerous or a definite cancer. If the expert sees a beginning cancer, he may be able to destroy it with electric sparks that come off the end of a stiff wire.

* * *

Many people dread the examination, but I see little reason for such fear, because an expert can pass the tube without causing much, if any pain, usually only some discomfort.

The common symptoms of a rectal cancer are constipation which came after middle life, or some rectal bleeding (that shows not so much on the paper but in the toilet bowl). There may be some pain or discomfort in the rectum, also perhaps a feeling that when the bowels moved, the rectum did not entirely empty.

* * *

There are some unfortunate persons, usually young men, who may begin to suffer from pain in the back. Then their many spinal joints, from their neck to their lower back, will get inflamed in such a way as to cause most, or all, of their vertebrae (spinal bones) to fuse into one solid column. Then the person is likely to lose his pain, but he may be left with an odd walk with his head perhaps bent over forward, and his feet spread apart. Such a man has what some physicians call a "poker spine."

Unfortunately, I cannot remember ever having heard of a treatment that will stop the course of this strange type of arthritis. Some men call it a rheumatoid spondylitis. We physicians used to think it was a form of the painful and often severe rheumatoid arthritis that deforms the hands, but later I think most experts agreed that it is a separate disease. During the active phase, medicine may have to be given to make the pain bearable.

YOUR HEALTH: Dr. Walter Alvarez

People ask me if it is important to have the rectum examined after the age of 40. My answer is, most certainly, yes. One of the commonest sites for cancer is the rectum, and it is not pleasant to lose one's rectum and perhaps one's life.

Every since I was 40, I have had yearly examination with X-ray studies of my chest, gullet, stomach and bowel, and a sigmoidoscopic examination of my rectum. It is easy to look into the rectum and the sigmoid (S-like colon, or large bowel just above the rectum with a sigmoidoscope, an electrically lighted tube about 20 inches long and inch in diameter.

With this instrument, in a few minutes, an expert can tell if the bowel is normal or if there is in it a polyp, a little growth that is usually not cancerous or a definite cancer. If the expert sees a beginning cancer, he may be able to destroy it with electric sparks that come off the end of a stiff wire.

* * *

Many people dread the examination, but I see little reason for such fear, because an expert can pass the tube without causing much, if any pain, usually only some discomfort.

The common symptoms of a rectal cancer are constipation which came after middle life, or some rectal bleeding (that shows not so much on the paper but in the toilet bowl). There may be some pain or discomfort in the rectum, also perhaps a feeling that when the bowels moved, the rectum did not entirely empty.

* * *

There are some unfortunate persons, usually young men, who may begin to suffer from pain in the back. Then their many spinal joints, from their neck to their lower back, will get inflamed in such a way as to cause most, or all, of their vertebrae (spinal bones) to fuse into one solid column. Then the person is likely to lose his pain, but he may be left with an odd walk with his head perhaps bent over forward, and his feet spread apart. Such a man has what some physicians call a "poker spine."

Unfortunately, I cannot remember ever having heard of a treatment that will stop the course of this strange type of arthritis. Some men call it a rheumatoid spondylitis. We physicians used to think it was a form of the painful and often severe rheumatoid arthritis that deforms the hands, but later I think most experts agreed that it is a separate disease. During the active phase, medicine may have to be given to make the pain bearable.

Man Goes From Pub To Prison

A 23-year-old Victoria man was sentenced to six months in jail and one year's probation today when he appeared before Judge William Ostler after conviction on a charge of robbery.

John J. Hannay, of 1131 Balmoral, got into trouble after drinking at a beer parlor.

"It's just a tragedy about you," Ostler said, and pointed out Hannay spent too much time in beer parlors.

"I haven't been working for quite a while," Hannay said, "and when a person isn't working there isn't much else to do."

Vieser Electric Ltd. and Kurt Vieser were each fined $400 when they pleaded guilty to Income Tax Act violations.

Court was told $850 in taxes collected from employees had not been remitted. Crown counsel Ian Stewart said both Vieser and the corporation had two previous convictions for similar offences.

The defence argued that the corporation had grown rapidly from a two-man operation and that the bookkeeping was a shambles. After paying a payroll there had not been enough money left to remit the taxes due, Ostler was told.

★ ★ ★

A homeless 63-year-old man who got drunk enough to cause a disturbance Thursday felt so rough today he asked Judge Ostler to send him to jail for 10 or 15 days.

Nord Magnusson, who said he had no place to stay at present, pleaded guilty to causing a disturbance.

He had suffered bad cuts and bruising around his right eye, but prosecutor John Macintyre said he had no information as to how the injuries happened.

Magnusson said "beer waiters'" were responsible.

"I'm in pretty rough shape. Ten or 15 days in jail would probably do me more good than anything else," he told the judge.

Ostler said he thought seven days would be sufficient for Magnusson to get the liquor out of his system.

He said a fine was out of the question because Magnusson would just go and collect the money from welfare.

Gas Pump Fire

A gas pump fire this morning at the Lone Star Service Station at the corner of Princess and Douglas, was quickly extinguished by city firemen after the pump was knocked over by a truck.

Vic West Centre Endorsed

The Victoria West Community Development Association's plan for a neighborhood centre was endorsed by Victoria council Thursday, but there was no indication how much it will cost to renovate the house at 519 Craigflower.

Ald. Robert Baird, saying "I heartily agree" with the idea, said he heard "through the grapevine" that required renovations would cost "about $5,000."

Ald. Ove Witt, who is sponsoring the project, said "I have no figures." He said council should approve the idea in principle and decide on renovations when the time comes.

Council was also assured the present tenants in the city-owned house would not be left without a home.

The idea was approved by aldermen on the basis that the house would be leased to the Vic West association at a nominal rent as long as there were no further costs to the city.

BILL APPEARS TO STOP SQUATTERS

Legislation introduced in the legislature Thursday would abolish all methods of acquiring land by "prescription" — squatter's rights.

The bill, amendment to the Land Registry Act, also would require subdividers along water reservoirs, lakes and rivers to provide access to roads to such bod

THE WEATHER

Strong gusty southeasterly winds were general over the B.C. coast overnight as a very deep active low pressure centre moved slowly northward offshore. A mixture of rain and snow was reported at a number of stations in the B.C. interior with more general shower activity along the outer coast.

Showers will slowly taper off over the province today as a weak ridge of high pressure moves onto the coast but rain will return to the coast on Saturday as the next Pacific cold front crosses the Gulf of Alaska.

FORT MYERS, Fla. — Frank Perry covered a canvas with violet and grey paint, backed the left wheel of his car over it, then made finger swirls on both sides of the tire imprint. It won fourth place in a show sponsored by the Art Council of Southwest Florida. "It's my first and last work," said Perry, 61. "When I saw some of the abstractions that won in local shows, I figured I could do just as well."

OTTAWA — Barry Mather (NDP—Surrey), an avid crusader against smoking, estimated Thursday that a person would have to smoke a pack of cigarettes a day for 243 years to collect enough coupons to get a color TV set offered by the makers of Mark Ten cigarettes. He asked Justice Minister John Turner in the Commons whether he was aware of the offer, which requires 88,000 coupons for the TV set. His questions drew laughter from the MPs but Speaker Lucien Lamoureux ruled it out of order.

MATHER

MARACAIBO, Venezuela — The practice of witchcraft claimed its second victim in a week in this western Venezuelan city Thursday. Rosa Belgrado, 55, succumbed to burns suffered when she took a witch's advice that bad luck can be erased by dancing nude over a row of a dozen lit candles with the body bathed in alcohol. A 39-year-old Italian-born mechanic, Pedro Liberansol, suffered the same fate a week ago in carrying out a similar "prescription."

WORCESTER, England — A highway patrolman who can't stand the sight of blood has been dismissed from the local police force. Assistant chief constable John Florentine said the decision to dismiss the queasy cop was taken following medical reports which showed that he had a "nervous condition." "This stemmed directly from his deep aversion to road accidents," Florentine said. The patrolman, who was not identified, said: "This allergy just developed — and I found that I simply couldn't face these scenes any longer."

PHILADELPHIA — Disc jockey Steve Leon, who says he spent 10 years living as a hippie, was fired from radio station WDAS-AM Thursday for broadcasting song lyrics with alleged drug references. The owner of the station is Max Leon, his father.

WIGAN, England — Derek Taylor's nerves cracked under the strain of giving up smoking while his wife Gwen puffed away and he beat and kicked her, a court was told here Thursday. Now Taylor has given up smoking, and they are the best of friends again. Taylor, a pack-a-day man for 32 years, pleaded guilty to assault and told the magistrate: "I was determined to give up smoking but it was making me really miserable."

FOOD, TRANSPORT HIKE COST INDEX

(Times News Services)

OTTAWA — Led by increases in food and transportation charges, consumer prices in Canada increased last month in most categories of goods and services.

The consumer price index for February rose 0.6 points, from 130.3 to 130.9 points, based on 100 points for prices in 1961. The price index a year ago was 128.7.

The food index, rising four-fifths of 1 per cent, and transportation, by 1½ per cent, did most to push the over-all index. Housing increased by three-tenths of 1 per cent.

Higher prices for beef, fruit and vegetables were blamed for the increase in the food index, which, however, is almost 3 per cent lower than a year ago.

MLA Refutes NDP Charges

By BRUCE YEMEN and PETER McNEILL

Herb Capozzi (SC—Vancouver Centre) charged Thursday that Bob Williams (NDP — Vancouver East) "knowingly deceived the house" Wednesday in an attack on land deals involving Capozzi Enterprizes Ltd.

But Capozzi himself was accused by Robert Strachan (NDP — Cowichan-Malahat) of "deliberately misleading" the legislature in his reply to Williams' charges.

Socred Shouts Drown Out MLA

Strachan's charge was made after a stormy scene in which Williams was frequently drowned out by government shouting in his effort to reply to Capozzi.

Capozzi was first to speak Thursday afternoon as debate was renewed on estimates for Highways Minister Wesley Black.

Capozzi said Williams had placed his father's (P. C. Capozzi) reputation in jeopardy by suggesting that no public bidding had taken place on the sale of two parcels of land in 1961 and 1963 at the Saanich Junction on the Trans-Canada Highway at Highway 17.

He said Williams knew about, but did not mention Wednesday, the cabinet order of Oct. 24, 1961, which announced conclusion of sale for the first piece of land and listed five bidders for the property. This is when Williams misled the house, Capozzi said.

Capozzi Was High Bidder

Of the four main bids for the property, the one for $6,000 from Capozzi Enterprises Ltd. was $3,200 greater than the next largest amount.

"You might say he (my father) left $3,200 lying on the table," Capozzi said, but "there was not one single mention (from Williams) that this was public tender."

Referring to the second parcel which his family's company had bought in 1963 for $552.50, Capozzi said, "We put in a bid which was advertised and gazetted, and subsequently the offer was accepted.

"I have no shame in saying we have developed land. From the moment he (Capozzi's father) had any dollars in his pocket, he has attempted to purchase land and he has purchased land in the Okanagan."

Capozzi said he was young enough to withstand any attack from anyone, but his father is 82 whose "reputation for honesty and integrity can be matched by no one."

Referring to Second Sale

Williams was absent from the legislature during Capozzi's speech, because he was at the University of Victoria speaking to students.

When he tried to reply later in the afternoon, he could barely be heard over shouts from government benches. He said the cabinet order he referred to was the one regarding the second sale which added 50 feet to the Capozzi's property for $550.

Williams said the important thing was that the government had provided the extra 50 feet in order to turn the first lot into one large enough to be eligible for double-access needed by service stations.

Strachan said the B.C. Gazette notice on the $552 parcel did not refer to any proposed sale. It simply gave notice of closure of the property and listed the price.

Williams also said this, and added that it was the acquisition of the second piece of property which enabled the first to increase sharply in value for sale as a service station site.

The Capozzis sold both properties in August, 1963, two months after second piece had been acquired, to Texaco Canada Ltd. for $20,500.

After supply committee chairman Herb Brush (SC—Esquimalt) repeatedly warned all MLAs to stop discussing the issue because the proper vote had been dealt with earlier, Highways Minister Black rose to make a statement.

"I really don't want to sit in this place," he said. "This place has become a scandal-mongering, dirty, rotten affair."

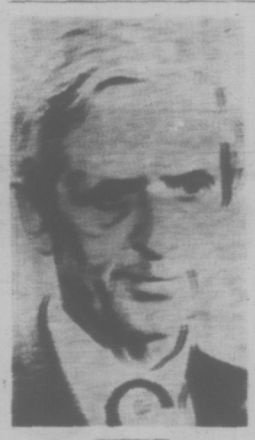
Government Expected To Match Home Bids



GREENE
... owners won't suffer

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government is expected at least to match the money offers of potential private buyers in purchasing control of Home Oil Co. Ltd. of Calgary.

The additional enticement in the government offer would be to give Home Oil President R. A. Brown a continued say in operation of the company. Government plans to bargain with Home were announced Thursday night by Energy Minister J. J. Greene.

Earlier negotiations for purchase by Northern and Central Gas Corp. of Toronto are understood to have foundered because Mr. Brown wanted to retain a voice in direction of the company.

Mr. Greene told the Commons today that "sensitive" negotiations for federal purchase of the company are continuing.

He would give no details of the federal offer, but did say shareholders would not suffer any loss in comparison to what might have been received from private companies.

Trading was suspended today on the Toronto and Montreal stock exchanges in shares of Home Oil and Cygnus Corp. Ltd., the company through which Home Oil president R. A. Brown controls the petroleum company.

Trading in Home Oil class A shares was also halted on the American stock exchange in New York. An announcement said trading was stopped pending clarification of the Ottawa announcement.

Suspension followed an announcement Thursday night confirming that the government is negotiating to purchase control of Home Oil. The government stepped in after the breakdown of negotiations between Mr. Brown and potential private Canadian buyers.

The government had been encouraging the sale to a Canadian firm in place of selling out to Ashland Oil Inc. of Kentucky.

Mr. Harkness asked Mr. Greene whether he could assure the House and thousands of Home Oil shareholders that the government's purchase offer was as favorable as Ashland's.

Mr. Greene said there would be no forced purchase. The government was attempting to find a position satisfactory to the vendor, Mr. Brown, he added.

'I Never Concealed' Kidnap Role—Rose

MONTREAL (CP) — Paul Rose told a jury today he "never concealed the fact that I took part in the kidnapping off Pierre Laporte," Quebec's labor minister who was slain last October.

"And I'm proud of it," he said in a summation to the 12-man jury.

But Rose did not admit to the cabinet minister's murder.

"The only thing I said was that I took part in the kidnapping."

"I don't speak of anything else because it's a question of solidarity. It involves every member of the FLQ."

Rose said the kidnapping "succeeded in shaking up the financiers, the exploiters and the dominators.

"If the same conditions occurred again, gentlemen of the jury, I am sure I would act in exactly the same way."

The trial continues.

MORE TROOPS SET FOR ULSTER DUTY

Times News Services

BELFAST — The threat of an escalated terrorist campaign by the outlawed Irish Republican Army has Britain ready to send up to 4,000 more troops to Northern Ireland.

There are already 8,250 men in Northern Ireland, who will be joined by police and military intelligence experts with orders to infiltrate IRA ranks, political sources said today.

A continued outcry of horror against the murder of three young Scottish soldiers was echoed in the British press with a call for an intensified battle against Ulster terrorists.

Home Secretary Reginald Maudling pledged in the House of Commons Thursday that the battle against the unnamed terrorists who murdered the soldiers will be "fought with the utmost vigor and determination."

Scotland Yard officers have joined Ulster security forces in the search for the assassins.

Off-duty troops in Belfast were confined to barracks on commanders' instructions. But the conviction grew among police, troops and the press that those responsible for the killings were hard-core IRA provisionals.

The bodies of the off-duty soldiers, two brothers aged 17 and 18 and another aged 23, were found in a lane on the outskirts of Belfast.

OIL HEARINGS IN VICTORIA?

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons environmental committee wants to go to Vancouver and Victoria later this month to conduct hearings on the proposed tanker route off British Columbia and Washington state.

Committee Chairman David Anderson (L—Esquimalt Saanich) served notice in the Commons of the committee request. It requires permission of the House to make the trip.

FORCED OUT

Turkish PM Quits

Times News Services

ANKARA — Faced with an ultimatum to quit or face a military takeover, Turkish Premier Suleyman Demirel today resigned.

Turkey has been rocked in recent months by the terrorist tactics of left-wing radicals pressing for the withdrawal of all U.S. forces from the country and attacking government policies. Similar student disorders brought an army coup in 1960.

ULTIMATUM

The ultimatum to Demirel came in a joint memorandum signed by Gen. Memduh Tagmac, chief of the general staff, and the commanders of the army, navy and air force. It was sent to President Cevdet Sunay and the chairman of both houses of the Turkish Parliament.

Troops toop up positions in front of the state radio and television buildings. Witnesses said the troops first surrounded the Parliament Buildings and then were withdrawn. Parliament began its regularly scheduled session with a reading of the ultimatum as the deputies sat silent and stony-faced.

The joint memorandum was broadcast on Turkey Radio's second major news program of the day. The text said Demirel's government had brought Turkey to the "brink of civil strife and social and economic discontent" and had lost public confidence.

AIR FORCE ALERTED

Officials in Ankara said the air force had been alerted, and despite the troop movement there was little outward sign of disruption on Ankara's day-to-day life.

The left-wing radicals have battled right-wing students and police and kidnapped four American airmen a week ago Thursday, releasing them unharmed on Monday.

The leftists protested American policy in Vietnam and the presence of American troops at NATO bases in Turkey.

The number was trimmed from 23,000 to 7,000 in early 1970 and $40 million to $50 million in U.S. facilities donated to Turkey. But the anti-American outbursts continued.

UNREST

A rash of unrest spearheaded by student rioting led to an army coup on May 27, 1960, when a group led by Gen. Cemal Gursel overthrew the government of president Celal Bayar and premier Adnan Menderes.

Menderes was executed on charges of violation of the constitution, corruption, fomenting anti-government disturbances and misuse of power. Bayar was sentenced to prison.

S. Viets Pull Back

SAIGON (CP)—South Vietnamese troops in Laos pulled out of their positions closest to Sepone today and moved southeast toward the South Vietnamese border, headquarters officers reported.

The officers said a regiment of infantry abandoned Fire Base Sofia, 2½ miles southeast of the key communications point 25 miles inside Laos, to avoid being trapped by North Vietnamese forces estimated at 30,000 men.

Sofia was the closest fixed base to Sepone set up by the South Vietnamese after they advanced to the devastated junction town on Route 9 last Saturday. No further advance westward has been reported, the Saigon troops have been sweeping for North Vietnamese forces and supply caches in the area and to the southeast along a front of about 25 miles.

Sepone was a main transshipment point on the Ho Chi Minh trail network through southeast Laos, and at the start of the South Vietnamese drive Feb. 8 it was reported to be the first major target of the drive.

EXPLAIN TACTICS

But the South Vietnamese said this week that they had not occupied Sepone because it was in a valley and therefore vulnerable to attack. Instead they sent reconnaissance units in and out of the deserted ruins all week while holding positions on the high ground.

North Vietnamese and pro-Communist Pathet Lao officials were quoted in Hanoi newspapers and broadcasts as saying the South Vietnamese never were in Sepone.

Earlier today, the South Vietnamese government produced a North Vietnamese defector who said that Hanoi has massed 30,000 combat and support troops around Sepone for what the Communist command considers the "last, decisive phase" of the Laotian campaign.

Hanoi said it already has crippled the South Vietnamese invasion of Laos.

The defector, Master Sgt. Nguyen Trong Quyen, told a news conference in Saigon that another 7,000 to 8,000 North Vietnamese were deployed east of Sepone, the key crossroads town in southern Laos, closer to the South Vietnamese frontier.

The defector came over to the South Vietnamese nearly a month ago, on Feb. 18.

Some South Vietnamese field commanders have estimated the North Vietnamese total in southern Laos as high as 40,000 men, but they said these were spread over the entire Ho Chi Minh network, an area 300 miles long and 30 miles wide.

Th' problem now is keepin' Home at home.

Faiths Unite in Protest March

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — About 7,000 Protestant and Roman Catholic shipyard workers marched together in rare unity today to demand tough government action against extremist gunmen.

The demonstrators staged an orderly march through the centre of Belfast carrying a petition denouncing the execution by terrorists of three British soldiers.

"All shades of opinion are on the march today," said a spokesman for the demonstrators from Belfast's Harland and Wolf shipyards. The shipyard, which employs 10,000 predominantly Protestant workers, has been the site of sectarian strife in past years.

The petition demanded the introduction of internment without trial and the re-arming of police in Northern Ireland.

PENNY'S ADVICE

A Hide-and-Seek Game of Buying

By Jack Scott

Miss Evelyn Caldwell flew back to Vancouver last night, leaving, we suspect, a little blob of hate in the heart of every Victoria supermarket manager, and we had an enchanting conversation with her on the way to the airport.

Miss Caldwell is known to her friends as "Kate" and to the devoted readers of her long-time shopping-guide column in the Vancouver Sun as "Penny Wise" and she is 62 years of age, but looks 40, and she is 118 pounds of fighting Irish dedicated to the proposition that women will not be taken in the market place. She is quite a girl in every way.

The followers of her column are loosely banded together as The Female Fighting Forces — FFF, for short — and time after time they have leaped to their escritoires to put the pressure on the wicked men who sell them things. When Miss Caldwell blows the whistle as many as 7,000 women are liable to answer, a fearful sight to behold.

The dear girl was in our town, as you may have noted, to testify to the legislature's agricultural committee on the subject of meat, as it is retailed in the supermarkets, and the broken bodies of butchers were left, bleeding, to right and left.

Scott

We asked Miss Caldwell if her lengthy, caustic recital of the dirty tricks that are played on all those nice women shoppers might not have been an eeny-weeny bit exaggerated.

"Not a whit, whatever a whit may be," she declared with flashing eye. "Oh, the things they do! It's all clever cutting and clever packaging coldly calculated to deceive. You buy that beautiful roast, all gorgeously wrapped in cellophane and then you get it home to find there's a great bugle of bone and wads of fat hidden in there. Agnes, herself (Mrs. Agnes Kripps, the lady MLA), told me that she had got two pounds of fat and gristle cunningly tucked away in a six-pound roast. Agnes has been an FFFer for a long time. They'll add meatless ribs or chunks of bone that don't even come from the animal the roast came from. If you untie the roast they just fall on the floor . . . blah. Empty weight and total waste.

"Really, nothing is beneath them. Take pork spare ribs. They'll take the side spare ribs, which aren't nearly as meaty, and sell them as a centre cut or a back cut. Then there's that great long, gristly, bony stuff at the end of it, totally inedible, hidden to the most searching examination. If you've the nerve to ask them to unwrap it and let you have a good look they'll just laugh. No way, chum."

We said we'd always understood that it was the quality and price of meat that decided women to shop at a particular store.

"Perfectly true and you'd think, then, that it would be the one item they'd concentrate on to play perfectly fair," Miss Caldwell said. "But they've found there's no need for it. The attraction can be nothing more than a pork roast for 49 cents a pound and that will be lure enough to bring the ladies in. It's all part of a pattern. Most supermarkets cut and package their meat at their own location so there has to be a conspiracy somewhere since they're all alike. The big bosses will tell you, 'We can't control our meat cutters and packagers.' The hell they can't. They're taught how to do it and you find the same tricks everywhere."

"But surely women ought to be wise to these tricks by now," we ventured. "Do you have contempt for the kind of consumer who allows herself to be perpetually hoodwinked?"

"Not contempt at all, only sympathy," Miss Caldwell said. "You've got to remember that they are out-matched. If deceptive practices are crooked then they're up against outright crooks. Not nearly enough is done, either, in the way of consumer information. There are many women who are just plain stupid, of course, but the ignorance and the apathy are disappearing fast. They're increasingly suspicious and on guard. They're bitching all the time now and the supermarket managers know it, believe you me. There's a great ground swell of protest that will crest one of these fine days."

"Ron Basford says that a woman who has been cheated needs only to switch stores."

"And the chances are she'll be cheated at the next one, too," Miss Caldwell tartly replied. "No, that isn't the answer. The only real solution is have tough, policed legislation. With meat, for example, we need laws that spell it out, that say a rump roast must consist of one solid chunk of rump, a standing rib roast must not have fat added to it or extra bones stuck in it. That sort of thing. That would help to stop the exploitation. Along with that the meat should all be cut and wrapped at the packing houses so that the whole thing could be controlled in a few locations rather than in thousands of neighborhood stores.

★ ★ ★

"Pressure alone and an informed public isn't going to do the whole job, but it all helps. I talked to the head of one packaging company the other day who told me flatly that if consumers aren't given a fair shake in the market place, and given it very soon, they could destroy some of our biggest food industries. In the States, for example, the consumer's dilemma is second only to Vietnam as the subject that's causing the most concern by the population. There is an awareness and an anger that is growing and growing and won't be denied."

We wondered what direct advice Miss Caldwell gave to her constituents when they phoned to report that they'd been had, so to speak.

"One good bit of advice is to join their local branch of the Consumers Association of Canada," she said, "but most women simply aren't joiners. All you can really tell them is to complain and complain and then complain some more. They must go right to the top, too. There's no good whining to the check-out girl or even the store manager. It's top management that gets the message best. Sometimes, too, the store manager is doing his own personal cheating, trying to meet the constant pressure on him to increase his sales and perhaps going farther with these gimmicks than the big boss would approve.

"A woman came in the other day about a package of liver she'd bought with little rag-tag ends of liver that you couldn't possibly serve, adroitly hidden away. I wouldn't let Tippy, my chihuahua, eat it. The woman said she couldn't get the regional manager of that supermarket chain on the phone — they're playing very coy these days that way — and so I told her, dearie, put that liver in an envelope and mail it to him. He'll respond to that, you can bet your life.

"Another thing I advise is to go to the small butcher shop, though I know how much women like to do all their shopping conveniently under one roof. But at the little butcher shop she can heft that roast and have a darn good look at it and she can give the butcher hell if he lets her down. She can buy five sausages if that's all she wants or one single piece of liver. If nothing else, she'll be obeying the cardinal rule of the consumer: buy and compare.

"That's all there is to it?"

"Buy and compare," Miss Caldwell said, bidding us adieu, "and shout at the top of your voice."

'Government Capitulated'

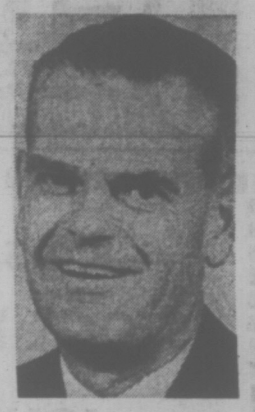
About-Face on Teacher-Trustees Attacked



ARMSTRONG
. . . 'pays dearly'

The chairman of the Saanich school board said today teachers in many ways aren't equipped to be school trustees.

Jack Armstrong condemned the provincial government for abandoning in the legislature Thursday night its plan to bar teachers from serving on school boards.

Armstrong said he is sure all members of his school board share his view.

"As far as I'm concerned, this is a case of the government capitulating to the powerful and militant James Killeen, president of the B.C. Teachers' Federation. I hope our board will take some definite action on this alarming situation."

Education Minister Donald Brothers withdrew the proposed ban in an amendment to the Education Act. He explained later that he wants to reconsider the move for the next year, saying in response to a question that it was not withdrawn as a result of pressure.

But indications were that elements in the Social Credit party, including Scott Wallace (SC—Oak Bay), campaigned against the ban along with teachers and others outside the party.

Teachers are currently prohibited from serving on school boards in the districts in which they teach but are allowed to serve on boards outside their own school's district.

When the amendment to ban them from all school boards was introduced last week, Brothers said the government feels it is not in the public interest for teachers to be on school boards.

Armstrong said he is disappointed in the government's change of heart.

"In many ways, by training, inclination, environment and experience, teachers lack understanding of the true needs and nature of society beyond the rather protective environment of the education system."

Educators are already well-represented on school boards by retired teachers, university professors and teachers' wives, he said.

"Surely the very basis of the lay school board is that representation from all segments of society should have a chance to make their voices heard in education decisions."

Armstrong said the public pays "and pays dearly" for the education system "and decision-making should not be to such a disproportionate extent in the hands of just one segment of society — the people who administer our schools."

He noted that of the four school board chairmen in the Capital district, he is the only one who is not or has not been a teacher.

INEVITABLE

Teachers on school boards inevitably face conflicts of interest, he said.

The public must understand that in negotiations on teacher contracts "it is each school board against the awesome monolithic strength of the B.C. Teachers' Federation.

"This means that any practising teacher on any school board can, to an extent, affect the negotiations of his own salary and fringe benefits.

"Legally he can also become an officer of the employers' association (the B.C. School Trustees' Association) and that also is a conflict of interest.

"If he is sincere as a trustee, and I presume most are, he must continually excuse himself from debate because of conflicts of interest that arise. He therefore becomes much less effective as a trustee.

"I believe a trustee's job is not just an evening one. He should continually visit schools to understand specific situations. Thus practising teachers cannot effectively carry out their trustee's duties without special leave, in which case they may be neglecting their own teaching assignments."

Car the 'Big Offender' Says Bus Union Brief

The "one big offender" in transportation is the private automobile, says a brief released today by the Victoria local of the Amalgamated Transit Union.

The brief, sent to municipal council, says "too much emphasis has been placed on accommodating the private automobile, and none on service to people."

The brief calls for the formation of a regional transportation board and co-ordination of all transit services in the area.

The transit union also produced a sketch plan of a central bus depot in the block between Douglas and Blanshard, Pandora and Cormorant.

"Transit is a public service. To us it is as essential as police and fire protection, or garbage collection," the brief says.

Transit should be given the chance to compete with the private car, the brief says. "... doors should be opened to promote transit to its fullest extremes."

"The cost factor for such a project can hardly be interpreted by anyone as being expensive when consideration is given to the fact that within the next five years the price tag for new road construction will be in the neighborhood of five million dollars."

The brief says the union does not rule out the possibility of free public transit, and also recognizes that sightseeing and special bus services are more lucrative than regular public transit.

The brief says the union drew up the brief "for the purpose of creating interest. The main objective has not been to point the fingers of criticism at the present operators of the system, nor to dictate the manner in which the future of transit is handled. It has been brought about by the vested interest in transit.

"That is the natural feeling among our membership."

MILL CALLS 12 BACK

About a dozen Victoria employees of B.C. Forest Products Ltd. are being called back to work on a temporary basis following major layoffs last month.

They are being used intermittently on a variety of jobs at the company's Crofton operations, said senior manager Walter Nelson. The work may be for several days at a time on a fill-in basis and extend over about one month, he said.

But there is no sign of improvement in the company's export market situation, which with soft lumber prices caused the closure of one Victoria sawmill and reduced staff in other operations.

JAIL INMATE SWEPT OUT BY BIG WAVES

A 24-year-old William Head inmate is believed to have perished Thursday night in wind-whipped seas off the prison shoreline.

Jack Curley of Tofino is missing and presumed drowned after he slipped from wet rocks and was swept out to sea by high waves at about 5:30 p.m.

A search by RCMP boats and men began Thursday and would continue today, head superintendent William Milner said.

Curley was serving a four-year sentence for "several crimes."

SINCE DR. ZHIVAGO, A bowl of mush if ever there was one, I've been wary of over-touted films in which young wives betray their husbands through several hours of screen tedium. But it's hard to hold a grudge against director David Lean, and perhaps the talent that blazed in Bridge on the River Kwai had kindled Ryan's Daughter into something better than a grandiose tear-jerker.

In this hope, we took ourselves to the Royal the other evening. Nor were we disappointed. In Ryan's Daughter, Lean takes the standard ingredients of an Irish movie stew — IRA, British Black-and-Tans, informer, priest and star-crossed lovers — and turns them into a dish well worth sampling.

Since I detest blabbermouths who insist on spilling picture plots, it's enough to note that the story jogs briskly along, and that Robert Mitchum as a deceived husband is a standout in a very good cast.

Anyway, what makes the picture is neither story nor actors, but David Lean's love affair with the West-of-Ireland scene. The Atlantic in all its moods never had a better interpreter.

If it had nothing else to commend it, Ryan's Daughter would be worth seeing for one magnificent storm sequence alone. And even when otherwise occupied, the camera remains aware of the sea and sensitive to its moods.

Perceptive shots: children beachcombing, and blue-hulled curraghs bottom-up on fishermen's shoulders, creeping bug-like across tawny sands.

A good picture. On the assumption that a certain amount of violence and some fairly explicit love-making won't shock you, I recommend it as one to see.

★

Back when our reluctant spring was no more than a hint and a promise, I warned newcomers to Victoria against expecting too much too soon. We don't have any real winter, I pointed out, but we do get a rainy season.

This week a plaint from a recently-arrived resident who tells me he has had it clear up to here.

"How long does this last?" he wants to know. "You mentioned 40 days and 40 nights. I thought you were kidding. Now I begin to think you weren't. When do we get a break?"

By a break, he means clear skies and balmy airs. And I would dearly like to be able to answer his question.

As a webfoot long in these parts, I can only call his attention to a recent weather report that told of storms lined up all the way to Japan, each one champing to get at us.

Has our situation changed at last? A wager on the thoroughbreds is less chancy than a bet on the weather. Enough that the sun shone today, bringing warmth and color to a city that could use more of the same. A welcome relief, even if we wake to the drip of rain tomorrow.

★

In the course of scolding a member of recently-formed Gordon Head Ratepayers' Association for challenging salt water sewage disposal, Mayor Hugh Curtis leaves himself open to challenge.

Among other claims that still wait proof, Curtis asserts that the Finnerty Cove outfall carries sewage "under ideal and rigidly controlled conditions."

Saying it doesn't necessarily make it so. As an opponent of Saanich's "chuck it in the water disposal" policy, I would like to see the environmental effect of that outfall come under careful and impartial study. This should be done before Saanich concludes sewer construction that will drastically increase its output.

Specifically, I wish that University of Victoria would undertake such an independent survey, and make its findings public.

As a layman in such matters, I'm open to correction. But I find it strange that an outfall operating "under ideal and rigidly controlled conditions" should be marked at its discharge-point by an acre or so of surface-scavenging gulls.

Mayor Curtis has said that the municipality is prepared to introduce treatment at that outfall when necessary. It's possible that an unbiased study might show that time to have arrived, or even to be years overdue.

Man Goes From Pub To Prison

A 23-year-old Victoria man was sentenced to six months in jail and one year's probation today when he appeared before Judge William Ostler after conviction on a charge of robbery.

John J. Hannay, of 1131 Balmoral, got into trouble after drinking at a beer parlor.

"It's just a tragedy about you," Ostler said, and pointed out Hannay spent too much time in beer parlors.

"I haven't been working for quite a while," Hannay said, "and when a person isn't working there isn't much else to do."

★ ★ ★

Vieser Electric Ltd. and Kurt Vieser were each fined $400 when they pleaded guilty to Income Tax Act violations.

Court was told $850 in taxes collected from employees had not been remitted. Crown counsel Ian Stewart said both Vieser and the corporation had two previous convictions for similar offences.

The defence argued that the corporation had grown rapidly from a two-man operation and that the bookkeeping was a shambles. After paying a payroll there had not been enough money left to remit the taxes due, Ostler was told.

★ ★ ★

A homeless 63-year-old man who got drunk enough to cause a disturbance Thursday felt so rough today he asked Judge Ostler to send him to jail for 10 or 15 days.

Nord Magnusson, who said he had no place to stay at present, pleaded guilty to causing a disturbance.

He had suffered bad cuts and bruising around his right eye, but prosecutor John Macintyre said he had no information as to how the injuries happened.

Magnusson said "beer waiters'" were responsible.

"I'm in pretty rough shape. Ten or 15 days in jail would probably do me more good than anything else," he told the judge.

Ostler said he thought seven days would be sufficient for Magnusson to get the liquor out of his system.

He said a fine was out of the question because Magnusson would just go and collect the money from welfare.

Vic West Centre Endorsed

The Victoria West Community Development Association's plan for a neighborhood centre was endorsed by Victoria council Thursday, but there was no indication how much it will cost to renovate the house at 519 Craigflower.

Ald. Robert Baird, saying "I heartily agree" with the idea, said he heard "through the grapevine" that required renovations would cost "about $5,000."

Ald. Ove Witt, who is sponsoring the project, said "I have no figures." He said council should approve the idea in principle and decide on renovations when the time comes.

Council was also assured the present tenants in the city-owned house would not be left without a home.

The idea was approved by aldermen on the basis that the house would be leased to the Vic West association at a nominal rent as long as there were no further costs to the city.

BILL APPEARS TO STOP SQUATTERS

Legislation introduced in the legislature Thursday would abolish all methods of acquiring land by "prescription" — squatter's rights.

The bill, amendment to the Land Registry Act, also would require subdividers along water reservoirs, lakes and rivers to provide access to roads to such bodies of water.

Present regulations require these roads to be provided only in subdivisions along navigable waters.

Oil Lack Won't Freeze Patients

Patients in Sandringham Private Hospital won't freeze because of suspension of fuel oil deliveries, supervisor Mrs. Margaret Reynolds said today.

But she wouldn't say how the private hospital intends to provide heat following the decision by C. J. McDowell Plumbing and Heating to stop making deliveries.

"They won't freeze, one way or the other," she said.

Asked if the hospital has switched to a gas furnace, she replied, "We have an oil furnace at the moment, just an oil furnace."

She declined any further public comment.

Union spokesmen have said that a Vancouver equipment and maintenance firm came to Sandringham earlier, leading to speculation that either a switch was being made to gas or an alternative oil supply line.

10-DAY SUPPLY

The hospital's oil tank is understood to hold 10 days' supply and deliveries used to be made once a week.

Twenty-eight employees of the hospital, members of Local 1311 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, have been on strike for 23 weeks seeking a first contract.

With help from other trade unions in the area, picketing was extended last Monday from daylight hours only to around-the-clock. Fuel deliveries had been made in evening hours after pickets went home.

The union has said it is hoping the extended picketing will bring a break in the impasse. But Neil Cook, president of National Nursing Homes Ltd. of Vancouver, which manages Sandringham, said Thursday, "I've got nothing to offer them."

Employees were paid the provincial minimum of $1.50 an hour and sought scaled increases of up to 50 cents on top of this plus job security and other items.

'BEAR BLAME'

Msgr. Michael O'Connell of St. Andrew's Roman Catholic Cathedral, who tried to get negotiations started last December by visiting National Nursing Homes in Vancouver, said today the responsibility for any inconvenience the patients may suffer "is management's because they have refused to negotiate."

"Once a person refuses to talk they bear the consequences."

He said the only hope for a settlement, unless management becomes willing to negotiate, "is some action by the minister of labor or the minister of health services. I don't see any other hope at the moment."

A notice of motion has been filed in the B.C. legislature by Dave Barrett, Leader of the Opposition, asking the house labor committee to investigate the Sandringham strike and have power to call witnesses and examine financial records.

Oak Bay Social Credit MLA Dr. G. Scott Wallace said he will second the motion, but so far the motion has not been dealt with. Wallace has also called on Labor Minister Leslie Peterson to use his office to solve the strike.

Shadow Mischief

TV DOOR OPENS FOR CAPOZZI

The Social Credit Party doesn't waste time in garnering television time to air its defences against opposition attacks.

After Herb Capozzi (SC — Vancouver Centre) finished replying Thursday in the Legislature to charges about his family's land deals in the Okanagan, he started to walk past Premier Bennett's chair.

Bennett leaned over and told Capozzi: "Call Wasserman (Vancouver Sun columnist and CBC interviewer). Get on CBC and CHEK television."

Capozzi apparently didn't hear the premier's instructions the first time, for Bennett made the statement twice.

A few hours later, Capozzi took up a large segment of the Hourglass show on CBUT, with Jack Wasserman as interviewer. Capozzi denied at length the charges against his family.

Benson, Stanfield Exchange Barbs

By GERARD McNEIL

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Edgar Benson said Thursday night that Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield wants an election before economic conditions improve.

Each got the other's goat in a snarly Commons exchange about the prospects for the economy and how much it should be stimulated.

Mr. Benson admitted that unemployment is a great problem but said things have bottomed out and the big problem will be avoiding another round of inflation.

He defended the adequacy of a tax measure that would allow manufacturers a 115-per-cent tax write-off this year on investments in machinery and property, retroactive to Dec. 3.

The object is to get manufacturers to make investments in 1971 that were planned for 1972 as a stimulant that should create jobs.

Mr. Stanfield said it is inadequate, because investment forecasts for 1972 are dismal. Even if the incentive worked, it would have feeble results.

NEED TAX CUTS

He reiterated that tax cuts are needed to stimulate the economy and encourage expansion.

Mr. Benson replied that Mr. Stanfield has been criticizing the government for doing nothing and now is criticizing it for doing something.

"He has been running all over the country talking about an election in 1971," Mr. Benson added. "He has suggested that we have to call an election now because things are going to be very good in 1972.

"He does not want to see the economy move upward."

When Mr. Stanfield said he has no confidence in Mr. Benson's forecast, the stung finance minister said he had no more confidence in Mr. Stanfield now than "when he went into Deuterium of Canada Ltd."

Mr. Stanfield turned a deep red as Mr. Benson added that as Nova Scotia premier he had failed to create jobs and put the province into debt with the heavy water plant, still inoperative despite a cost that now is $115 million and still rising.

Also under debate was another one year extension of the three-per-cent surtax, initiated in 1968, on personal and corporate income taxes. Oza Tetrault (Creditiste—Villeneuve) said the government is despotic, taxing in the midst of poverty.

LAST EXCHANGE

Later, Mr. Stanfield and Mr. Benson had one last exchange as Eldon Woolliams (PC—Calgary North) asked the minister if there is any ceiling on the amount of tax to which the surcharge would apply.

Mr. Benson rose to say no when Mr. Stanfield put in gruffly: "No ceiling on taxes with this government."

The minister, momentarily at a loss for words, then replied: "You and I have had enough to say to each other tonight."

Pat Mahoney (L—Calgary South), Mr. Benson's parliamentary secretary, told John Burton (NDP—Regina East) the surtax will bring in an estimated $240 million this year.

The investment incentive write-off would apply to manufacturing and processing industries which undertake some $3 billion annually in capital investment.

FERRIES BACK TO NORMAL

Schedules were back to normal in the B.C. ferry system today after Thursday's storm which forced cancellation of eight across-the-Gulf sailings and two afternoon sailings of the smaller Mill Bay ferry.

At the height of Thursday's gale, winds averaged 50 miles an hour with the top gust of 69 miles an hour being registered at 1:45 p.m.

In the house Thursday, Ernie Hall (NDP—Surrey) asked why so many ferry sailings have been cancelled this year.

He was told by Highways Minister Wesley Black the ferry service now had a policy of cancelling sailings in rough weather as a safety measure.

A ferry official said today the decision to cancel is made by the terminal agents and individual captains. More cancellations had been made this year because of the unusual number of storms.

Mainland crossings in high winds are made difficult because of the large stretch-ferries' inability to manoeuvre when leaving the dock at the Tsawwassen terminal.

Chief weather officer Allan McQuarrie said Thursday's storm was the last of a current series.

Another system is expected to move in Saturday evening, bringing cloud and rain.

Rest Home Legal Status Ends Fight

Victoria council's approval Thursday of a community care facility at 914 St. Charles ended a two-year fight by the owner to obtain legal status for his rest home.

Council voted five to four in favor of the "community care" designation, which allows a limited amount of health care to be given boarders.

The home's owner, Gerald Dewhurst, told counccil at earlier meetings all he wanted was permission to allow staff to "help a man into a bathtub."

Opposition to the move was led by Ald. Hugh Ramsay, who lives on Cyril Close in the Rockland-St. Charles area.

Dewhurst told the last council meeting he was being discriminated against because two other licences had been granted in the area while his was refused.

Aldermen Christie, Pollen, Witt, and Baird voted in favor of Dewhurst Thursday, and Mayor Courtney Haddock's vote was needed to break the tie.

Dewhurst had explained that he was required to spend a large amount on bringing the home up to fire and inspection standards, yet was denied the community care licence.

Ramsay said he thought there was "ample incentive" to save large Rockland area homes by converting them to apartments, "and I don't think we need to get into full swing with community care facilities in this area."

Raising of Mortar Causes Harbor Stir

Bombs in the Inner Harbor near Fisherman's wharf?

Well, not quite, but Fisherman's wharf was gripped in a minor siege this morning when police and naval demolition experts pulled a 3½-foot-long anti-submarine mortar from the mud 15 feet below the surface.

As three destroyer-escorts returned from an exercise to nearby Esquimalt, Victoria police officers warned nearby residents to open their windows and doors in case it exploded.

Early this morning the navy tender, helped by the RCMP patrol boat Sidney from Ganges, towed about 15 to 20 large fishboats away from their mooring in the vicinity of the bomb.

The bomb was found earlier this week by a diver investigating the bottoms of nearby boats.

FISHERMEN WATCH

Anxious fishermen, held back to a safe distance, watched as divers from the naval school at Colwood went to work.

A pulley on the wharf secured the bomb by one line. Another line gripped it from a pulley based ashore on a service truck.

Was it a dud?

CPO Bob Thompson and PO Jim Balmorth waited until the mortar was freed from its muddy tentacles.

There was relief when Balmorth confirmed that the bomb was harmless, one of those used during training practices.

Lt.-Cmdr. Arthur Rowse, commanding officer of the diving school, only lessened the security on this confirmation.

As he explained: "These things weigh 420 pounds and if they're live, are packed with 328 pounds of TNT."

How did the bomb get there?

Harbor master Capt. Ron Newell was one of the many that watched the bomb retrieved today.

He explained that they're often dragged up from the bottom in fishermen's nets. "Whoever picked this one up probably figured it was too hot to handle and dumped it over the side."

He added: "Whoever it was, he's never going to admit it after this kefuffle. All he had to do at the time was report it."

He watched as the mortar was carefully stowed aboard the tender and taken out to sea where Rowse said it will be destroyed.

The incident was over — but another was starting for Rowse and his men.

As the tender nosed her way out of harbor, a diving crew was rushing to the nearby heliport where Rowse reported a plane from the 442 Squadron, based at Comox, was bringing in another suspect object, found off the west coast of Vancouver Island.

Uvic Art Students Cast Votes

Fine arts students at the University of Victoria for the past two days have been voting on two referendums concerning student participation in departmental decisions.

Polls located in the library, the Student Union building, the MacLaurin Building and the Phoenix Theatre closed at 5 p.m. today.

The first referendum asked formation of a student committee constituted with the function of integrating the activities of the different departments within the faculty of fine arts.

The second referendum asks for elected student representatives from each department at all department meetings "with equal voting rights as faculty members."

More Gains For Indira

NEW DELHI (Reuter) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's wing of the governing Congress party, given a massive mandate to rule India for the next five years, continued to gain seats today in the general election.

By mid-morning, the party had won 296 out of 394 seats declared and appeared likely to hold the two-thirds majority in the 521-member lower house of parliament needed for passing constitutional amendments.

Man Goes From Pub To Prison

A 23-year-old Victoria man was sentenced to six months in jail and one year's probation today when he appeared before Judge William Ostler after conviction on a charge of robbery.

John J. Hannay, of 1131 Balmoral, got into trouble after drinking at a beer parlor.

"It's just a tragedy about you," Ostler said, and pointed out Hannay spent too much time in beer parlors.

"I haven't been working for quite a while," Hannay said, "and when a person isn't working there isn't much else to do."

Vieser Electric Ltd. and Kurt Vieser were each fined $400 when they pleaded guilty to Income Tax Act violations.

Court was told $850 in taxes collected from employees had not been remitted. Crown counsel Ian Stewart said both Vieser and the corporation had two previous convictions for similar offences.

The defence argued that the corporation had grown rapidly from a two-man operation and that the bookkeeping was a shambles. After paying a payroll there had not been enough money left to remit the taxes due, Ostler was told.

A homeless 63-year-old man who got drunk enough to cause a disturbance Thursday felt so rough today he asked Judge Ostler to send him to jail for 10 or 15 days.

Nord Magnusson, who said he had no place to stay at present, pleaded guilty to causing a disturbance.

He had suffered bad cuts and bruising around his right eye, but prosecutor John Macintyre said he had no information as to how the injuries happened.

Magnusson said "beer waiters" were responsible.

"I'm in pretty rough shape. Ten or 15 days in jail would probably do me more good than anything else," he told the judge.

Ostler said he thought seven days would be sufficient for Magnusson to get the liquor out of his system.

He said a fine was out of the question because Magnusson would just go and collect the money from welfare.

Vic West Centre Endorsed

The Victoria West Community Development Association's plan for a neighborhood centre was endorsed by Victoria council Thursday, but there was no indication how much it will cost to renovate the house at 519 Craigflower.

Ald. Robert Baird, saying "I heartily agree" with the idea, said he heard "through the grapevine" that required renovations would cost "about $5,000."

Ald. Ove Witt, who is sponsoring the project, said "I have no figures." He said council should approve the idea in principle and decide on renovations when the time comes.

Council was also assured the present tenants in the city-owned house would not be left without a home.

The idea was approved by aldermen on the basis that the house would be leased to the Vic West association at a nominal rent as long as there were no further costs to the city.

BILL APPEARS TO STOP SQUATTERS

Legislation introduced in the legislature Thursday would abolish all methods of acquiring land by "prescription" — squatter's rights.

The bill, amendment to the Land Registry Act, also would require subdividers along water reservoirs, lakes and rivers to provide access to roads to such bodies of water.

Present regulations require these roads to be provided only in subdivisions along navigable waters.

FOOD, TRANSPORT HIKE COST INDEX

(Times News Services)

OTTAWA — Led by increases in food and transportation charges, consumer prices in Canada increased last month in most categories of goods and services.

The consumer price index for February rose 0.6 points, from 130.3 to 130.9 points, based on 100 points for prices in 1961. The price index a year ago was 128.7.

The food index, rising four-fifths of 1 per cent, and transportation, by 1½ per cent, did most to push the over-all index. Housing increased by three-tenths of 1 per cent.

Higher prices for beef, fruit and vegetables were blamed for the increase in the food index, which, however, is almost 3 per cent lower than a year ago.

MLA Refutes NDP Charges

By BRUCE YEMEN and PETER McNELLY

Herb Capozzi (SC—Vancouver Centre) charged Thursday that Bob Williams (NDP — Vancouver East) "knowingly deceived the house" Wednesday in an attack on land deals involving Capozzi Enterprizes Ltd.

But Capozzi himself was accused by Robert Strachan (NDP — Cowichan-Malahat) of "deliberately misleading" the legislature in his reply to Williams' charges.

Socred Shouts Drown Out MLA

Strachan's charge was made after a stormy scene in which Williams was frequently drowned out by government shouting in his effort to reply to Capozzi.

Capozzi was first to speak Thursday afternoon as debate was renewed on estimates for Highways Minister Wesley Black.

Capozzi said Williams had placed his father's (P. C. Capozzi) reputation in jeopardy by suggesting that no public bidding had taken place on the sale of two parcels of land in 1961 and 1963 at the Sicamous Junction on the Trans-Canada Highway at Highway 97.

He said Williams knew about, but did not mention Wednesday, the cabinet order of Oct. 24, 1961, which announced conclusion of sale for the first piece of land and listed five bidders for the property. This is when Williams misled the house, Capozzi said.

Capozzi Was High Bidder

Of the four main bids for the property, the one for $6,000 from Capozzi Enterprises Ltd. was $3,200 greater than the next largest amount.

"You might say he (my father) left $3,200 lying on the table," Capozzi said, but "there was not one single mention (from Williams) that this was public tender."

Referring to the second parcel which his family's company had bought in 1963 for $352.50, Capozzi said, "We put in a bid which was advertised and gazetted, and subsequently the offer was accepted.

"I have no shame in saying we have developed land. From the moment he (Capozzi's father) had any dollars in his pocket, he has attempted to purchase land and he has purchased land in the Okanagan."

Capozzi said he was young enough to withstand any attack from anyone, but his father is 82 whose "reputation for honesty and integrity can be matched by no one."

Referring to Second Sale

Williams was absent from the legislature during Capozzi's speech, because he was at the University of Victoria speaking to students.

When he tried to reply later in the afternoon, he could barely be heard over shouts from government benches. He said the cabinet order he referred to was the one regarding the second sale which added 50 feet to the Capozzi's property for $550.

Williams said the important thing was that the government had provided the extra 50 feet in order to turn the first lot into one large enough to be eligible for double-access needed by service stations.

Strachan said the B.C. Gazette notice on the $352 parcel did not refer to any proposed sale. It simply gave notice of closure of the property and listed the price.

Williams also said this, and added that it was the acquisition of the second piece of property which enabled the first to increase sharply in value for sale as a service station site.

The Capozzis sold both properties in August, 1963, two months after second piece had been acquired, to Texaco Canada Ltd. for $20,500.

After supply committee chairman Herb Bruch (SC—Esquimalt) repeatedly warned all MLAs to stop discussing the issue because the proper vote had been dealt with earlier, Highways Minister Black rose to make a statement.

"I really don't want to sit in this place," he said. "This place has become a scandal-mongering, dirty, rotten affair."

FORCED OUT
Turkish PM Quits

Times News Services

ANKARA — Faced with an ultimatum to quit or face a military takeover, Turkish Prime Minister Suleyman Demirel and his government today resigned.

Turkey has been rocked in recent months by the terrorist tactics of left-wing radicals pressing for the withdrawal of all U.S. forces from the country and attacking government policies. Similar student disorders brought an army coup in 1960.

ULTIMATUM

The ultimatum to Demirel came in a joint memorandum signed by Gen. Memduh Tagmac, chief of the general staff, and the commanders of the army, navy and air force. It was sent to President Cevdet Sunay and the chairman of both houses of the Turkish Parliament.

Troops took up positions in front of the state radio and television buildings. Witnesses said the troops first surrounded the Parliament Buildings and then were withdrawn. Parliament began its regularly scheduled session with a reading of the ultimatum as the deputies sat silent and stony-faced.

The joint memorandum was broadcast on Turkey Radio's second major news program of the day. The text said Demirel's government had brought Turkey to the "brink of civil strife and social and economic discontent" and had lost public confidence.

AIR FORCE ALERTED

Officials in Ankara said the air force had been alerted.

The left-wing radicals have battled right-wing students and police and kidnapped four American airmen a week ago Thursday, releasing them unharmed on Monday.

The leftists protested American policy in Vietnam and the presence of American troops at NATO bases in Turkey.

The number was trimmed from 23,000 to 7,000 in early 1970 and $40 million to $50 million in U.S. facilities donated to Turkey. But the anti-American outbursts continued.

UNREST

A rash of unrest spearheaded by student rioting led to an army coup on May 27, 1960, when a group led by Gen. Cemal Gursel overthrew the government of president Celal Bayar and premier Adnan Menderes.

Menderes was executed on charges of violation of the constitution, corruption, fomenting anti-government disturbances and misuse of power. Bayar was sentenced to prison.

DOCK PACT

OTTAWA (CP) — Tentative agreement has been reached on a 30-month contract for federal government dockyard workers in Halifax and Esquimalt, the treasury board announced today.

The agreement would cover some 3,000 workers in both cities.

Final acceptance of the terms is subject to ratification by members of the federal government dockyard trades and labor council.

A special ratification meeting is scheduled for Halifax Sunday afternoon at the Stadacona drill hall. A similar Sunday meeting is being arranged at Esquimalt.

S. Viet Forces Pull Back

SAIGON (CP)—South Vietnamese troops in Laos pulled out of their positions closest to Sepone today and moved southeast toward the South Vietnamese border, headquarters officers reported.

The officers said a regiment of infantry abandoned Fire Base Sofia, 2½ miles southeast of the key communications point 25 miles inside Laos, to avoid being trapped by North Vietnamese forces estimated at 30,000 men.

Sofia was the closest fixed base to Sepone set up by the South Vietnamese after they advanced to the devastated junction town on Route 9 last Saturday. No further advance westward has been reported; the Saigon troops have been sweeping for North Vietnamese forces and supply caches in the area and to the southeast along a front of about 25 miles.

Sepone was a main transshipment point on the Ho Chi Minh trail network through southeast Laos, and at the start of the South Vietnamese drive Feb. 8 it was reported to be the first major target of the drive.

EXPLAIN TACTICS

But the South Vietnamese said this week that they had not occupied Sepone because it was in a valley and therefore vulnerable to attack. Instead they sent reconnaissance units in and out of the deserted ruins all week while holding positions on the high ground.

North Vietnamese and pro-Communist Pathet Lao officials were quoted in Hanoi newspapers and broadcasts as saying the South Vietnamese never were in Sepone.

Earlier today, the South Vietnamese government produced a North Vietnamese defector who said that Hanoi has massed 30,000 combat and support troops around Sepone.

Government Expected To Match Home Bids

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government is expected at least to match the money offers of potential private buyers in purchasing control of Home Oil Co. Ltd. of Calgary.

The additional enticement in the government offer would be to give Home Oil President R. A. Brown a continued say in operation of the company. Government plans to bargain with Home were announced Thursday night by Energy Minister J. J. Greene.

Earlier negotiations for purchase by Northern and Central Gas Corp. of Toronto are understood to have foundered because Mr. Brown wanted to retain a voice in direction of the company.

Mr. Greene told the Commons today that "sensitive" negotiations for federal purchase of the company are continuing.

He would give no details of the federal offer, but did say shareholders would not suffer any loss in comparison to what might have been received from private companies.

Trading was suspended today on the Toronto and Montreal stock exchanges in shares of Home Oil and Cygnus Corp. Ltd., the company through which Home Oil president R. A. Brown controls the petroleum company.

Trading in Home Oil class A shares was also halted on the American stock exchange in New York. An announcement said trading was stopped pending clarification of the Ottawa announcement.

Suspension followed an announcement Thursday night confirming that the government is negotiating to purchase control of Home Oil. The government stepped in after the breakdown of negotiations between Mr. Brown and potential private Canadian buyers.

The government had been encouraging the sale to a Canadian firm in place of selling out to Ashland Oil Inc. of Kentucky.

Mr. Harkness asked Mr. Greene whether he could assure the House and thousands of Home Oil shareholders that the government's purchase offer was as favorable as Ashland's.

Mr. Greene said there would be no forced purchase. The government was attempting to find a position satisfactory to the vendor, Mr. Brown, he added.

'I Never Concealed Kidnap Role'—Rose

MONTREAL (CP) — Paul Rose told a jury today he "never concealed the fact that I took part in the kidnapping of Pierre Laporte," Quebec's labor minister who was slain last October.

"And I'm proud of it," he said in a summation to the 12-man jury.

But Rose did not admit to the cabinet minister's murder.

"The only thing I said was that I took part in the kidnapping."

"I don't speak of anything else because it's a question of solidarity. It involves every member of the FLQ."

Rose said the kidnapping "succeeded in shaking up the financiers, the exploiters and the dominators.

"If the same conditions occurred again, gentlemen of the jury, I am sure I would act in exactly the same way."

The trial continues.

OIL HEARINGS IN VICTORIA?

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons environmental committee wants to go to Vancouver and Victoria later this month to conduct hearings on the proposed tanker route off British Columbia and Washington state.

Committee Chairman David Anderson (L—Esquimalt Saanich) served notice in the Commons of the committee request. It requires permission of the House to make the trip.

MORE TROOPS SET FOR ULSTER DUTY

Times News Services

BELFAST—The threat of an escalated terrorist campaign by the outlawed Irish Republican Army has Britain ready to send up to 4,000 more troops to Northern Ireland.

There are already 8,250 men in Northern Ireland, who will be joined by police and military intelligence experts with orders to infiltrate IRA ranks, political sources said today.

A combined outcry of horror against the murder of three young Scottish soldiers was echoed in the British press with a call for an intensified battle against Ulster terrorists.

Home Secretary Reginald Maudling pledged in the House of Commons Thursday that the battle against the unnamed terrorists who murdered the soldiers will be "fought with the utmost vigor and determination."

Scotland Yard officers have joined Ulster security forces in the search for the assassins.

Off-duty troops in Belfast were confined to barracks on commanders' instructions. But the conviction grew among police, troops and the press that those responsible for the killings were hard-core IRA provisionals.

The bodies of the off-duty soldiers, two brothers aged 17 and 18 and another aged 23, were found in a lane on the outskirts of Belfast.

Faiths Unite in Protest March

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — About 7,000 Protestant and Roman Catholic shipyard workers marched together in rare unity today to demand tough government action against extremist gunmen.

The demonstrators staged an orderly march through the centre of Belfast carrying a petition denouncing the execution by terrorists of three British soldiers.

"All shades of opinion are on the march today," said a spokesman for the demonstrators from Belfast's Harland and Wolf shipyards. The shipyard, which employs 10,000 predominantly Protestant workers, has been the site of sectarian strife in past years.

The petition demanded the introduction of internment without trial and the re-arming of police in Northern Ireland.
